Soviet Labels Envoy Aides As U.S. Spies

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet newspaper Saturday accused two American diplomats in Moscow of being spies for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. The U.S. Embassy called the charge a fabrication.

The accusation apparently was the Soviet Union's response to charges by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover that spies are included in practically every Soviet group that visits the United States.

Canadians Rapped

At the same time the paper Sovyetskaya Rossiya accused the Canadian government of harassing Soviet diplomats and newsmen in Ottawa.

Nyedyelya, weekly magazine section of the Soviet government paper Izvestia, said that Malcolm Toon, the U.S. Embassy counselor, and Alan Logan, a second secretary, were actually CIA agents.

It said Toon, 48, third-ranking political officer in the embassy, was a typical example of "the master spy of American detective novels." Logan, 39, was described as the head of the embassy's intelligence group specializing in Soviet-African relations.

An American Embassy spokesman called the Nyedyelya article "a highly scurrilous piece which is a complete fabrication." Toon would make no comment.

The Canadians apparently were included in the broadside for expelling two Soviet Embassy officials two weeks ago on espionage charges.

The Nyedyelya article accused U.S. authorities and the American press of attempting to frighten Americans away from Soviet diplomats by whipping up an atmosphere of "spy hysteria."

The Canadians also were accused of conducting a "witch hunt" against Soviet personnel in Ottawa.

Nyedyelya noted that five American diplomats have been expelled from Moscow since October.

It charged that Logan was the superior of cultural affairs attache Norris Garnett, who was ordered out of the country May 11 for allegedly conducting subversive activities among Africans studying here.

Red Fighters Get Initiative In Provinces

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communist guerrillas virtually wiped out two Vietnamese companies Saturday 10 miles west of Quang Ngai city in Quang Ngai Province, reliable military sources said.

Three American advisors, first reported missing and feared captured, later made their way to safety, the sources said.

No Figures Yet

There was no official confirmation of the ambush and casualty figures were not available.

The two companies were reportedly attacked with mortars and automatic weapons fire as they were moving to relieve an outpost at Ba Gia, near Quang Ngai.

It was one of a series of Viet Cong attacks in the three northernmost provinces of South Viet Nam. There was concern that the Communists may soon begin a drive to the sea.

Viet Cong forces were reported to have overrun a hamlet near Cap St. Jacques south of Saigon Friday night. A battalion of Vietnamese paratroopers moved into the area.

A U.S. officer was reported killed earlier three miles east of Quang Tri, capital of Quang Tri Province.

The Vietnamese army struck back, but the initiative appeared to be with the Viet Cong. The Communists seemed to be trying to confuse the Vietnamese as to where the main blow would fall.

There was rising speculation that U.S. Marines from Da Nang in the area would be sent into action if the fighting got too rough for the Vietnamese.

In the air, U.S. warplanes again struck at Communist North Viet Nam. Six Air Force F105 Thunderchief and supporting jets dumped 12 tons of bombs on Hon Nieu Island, 130 miles north of the border.

A U.S. military spokesman said they destroyed an antiaircraft battery, two buildings and a radar tower despite heavy ground fire and returned safely.

Eight Navy planes from the carrier Oriskany severely damaged a wooden bridge and a barge and hit two highway bridges in unloading three tons of bombs on an area 160 miles south of Hanoi. A spokesman reported all planes returned to the carrier.

In Saigon, U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor postponed his trip to Washington for the second time in 24 hours because of political jostling between Premier Phan Huy Quat and Phan Khac Suu, chief of state, over cabinet shifts. Taylor expects to leave today.

In the ground war, Viet Cong attacks were concentrated in Quang Tri Province, bordering North Viet Nam, Quang Nam next to Quang Tri, and Quang Ngai, first province south of Quang Nam.

14 Abandon Blazing Boat On Ouachita

Fourteen persons, including a two-year-old child, miraculously escaped serious injury Saturday night when a raging fire destroyed a house boat on the Ouachita River here.

The fire broke out on the boat, owned and operated by J. E. Tripp, 714 Hinkie Drive, Monroe, shortly after it slipped mooring at the Monroe Boat Dock.

All occupants quickly abandoned the boat. A number swam to shore, while others, those who could not swim, used inner-tubes to float to safety.

The boat, scene of a graduation party for Tripp's nephew, Ronnie Hamilton, a recent Ouachita Parish High School graduate, went up in flames about 50 yards from the east bank of the Ouachita.

Only minor burns were reported as a result of the blaze. Hamilton said gas apparently leaked from a refrigerator aboard the double-decker houseboat, the O'Henry, onto its inboard motor and ignited from a spark or friction.

Reported to have sustained minor burns were three of the chaperones, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shores, of Monroe, and Mrs. Tina Hamilton, as well as the Shores' two-year-old son. The child was burned about the head, while the other injuries were to arms or legs.

All went to a local hospital for treatment.

The fire erupted around 9 p.m., soon after the boat left the dock.

"Everybody got off as quickly as they could, but in a cool, safe way," commented Hamilton. "We didn't know when it would blow up, so we just let it go."

He said the houseboat drifted back toward the shore it had left and struck another nearby boat as it returned to the bank. Hamilton said the other boat, unidentified, was not damaged by the impact or the fire.

Hamilton said Monroe firemen and policemen, including the fire department's fire boat, were on the scene in minutes.

"When we left, the boat still was blazing and I'm sure it was destroyed," he said.

Others on the boat included Sandy Fowler, Micky Reed, Sammy Robinson, Gene Atchinson, Bill Yerger, Janet Wat-

Imp 3 Starts Task Of Space Peering

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Imp 3, a compact physics laboratory capable of peering millions of miles into space, rocketed into a great oval orbit Saturday to probe interplanetary scientific mysteries and to map radiation hazards along the astronauts' route to the moon.

A towering Delta rocket hurled the 130 pound package on a path ranging from 120 to about 130,000 miles from the earth—or halfway to the moon.

It was the third successful space launching here in a week. Earlier, a Project Fire payload was flown on a high-speed reentry test and a Saturn 1 rocket orbited the Pegasus 2 meteoroid-detection satellite.

The National Aeronautcis and Space Administration's Goddard Space Flight Center said all nine Imp 3 instruments were functioning, relaying a stream of information on magnetic fields, solar winds and cosmic rays—both from the sun and from other sources such as stars.

Some Moonbound

Imp 3, which stands for Interplanetary Monitoring Platform, is the third of seven similar satellites planned in support of the U.S. Apollo project to land men on the moon. Two of the Imps are to orbit the moon.

A major goal is to determine if satellite instruments can predict when great thermonuclear flares will erupt on the sun, spreading dangerous doses of cosmic radiation through space on swift solar winds.

The launchings are being spaced to provide continuous data throughout a substantial portion of an 11-year sun cycle. The sun presently is in a quiet period when flare eruptions are rare and thus easier to study and understand.

The number and intensity of solar flares gradually will increase until a peak is reached in 1968-69 and then a period of declining activity will begin.

The peak activity years span the time when the United States intends to send its first Apollo team of three astronauts toward the moon. A foolproof flare forecasting system would enable flights to be scheduled in safe periods.

Wagner's Foe Thinks Mayor To Run Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner's surprise announcement that he might not seek a fourth term had everybody speculating Saturday.

Rep. John V. Lindsay, the young Republican challenger, said he thinks Democrat Wagner will run.

"So far as I know, the mayor is running for mayor," said Lindsay, who himself said in April that he wouldn't run, but changed his mind in May.

In the 3-to-1 Democratic city, the liberal, 43-year-old Lindsay figured to give Wagner his first real competition. He is already campaigning vigorously with the election five months away.

Wagner wasn't saying anything more.

He announced Friday night that he would like to spend more time with his two sons, aged 18 and 21. Mrs. Wagner died last year.

The mayor, 55, also said four more years in the strenuous office might harm his health. His doctors recently said he was in good shape.

Wagner said he'd say definitely "in a week or two." If he pulls out, his heir apparent is City Council President Paul Screvane.

The Liberal party, whose 200,000 to 400,000 votes might make a difference, said that if Wagner pulls out it might support Lindsay.

Rescuers Find No Survivors

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Rescue teams found 60 bodies Saturday but no survivors in shattered, burning Bhori coal mine in eastern India.

All the men in the lower reaches of the mine were feared dead.

Death toll estimates ranged between 250 and 400, but flames and smoke prevented an accurate count of how many died when a tremendous explosion erupted in the mine before dawn Friday.

Top Affairs, Cattle Take LBJ's Time

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson kept in touch Saturday with developments around the world, but still was able to enjoy a favorite pastime—looking over his blooded Hereford cattle and other livestock.

The weather improved somewhat, permitting the master of the LBJ Ranch to get outdoors for a survey of agricultural developments since his last Texas visit six weeks ago. Skies remained overcast, however, and there was a threat of rain.

Looks Over Cables

Press secretary George E. Reedy reported the President spent a couple of hours in the morning going over cables and other material relayed from Washington by the State and Defense departments and other agencies.

Johnson spent considerable time also on the phone talking with members of his staff in the White House, as well as putting through a call to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Reedy said the call to McNamara concerned the spring meeting of NATO defense ministers opening in Paris on Monday.

Johnson remembered the birthday of the late President John F. Kennedy and said in a telegram to Rep. Earle Cabell, D-Tex., "We will never forget the leader we lost."

The telegram to Cabell was in connection with the dedication of a Dallas center for treatment of mental retardation. Johnson called this a "worthy cause to which he (Kennedy) was dedicated.

Dominican Parties Blast OAS Action

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Organization of American States came under bitter criticism Saturday from the rival factions here for allegedly interfering in the Dominican Republic's internal affairs.

Col. Francisco Caamano Deno's rebel regime vowed to seek the removal of Dr. Jose A. Mora, OAS secretary general, from the Dominican Republic, accusing him of acting "as if he were the owner and master of the country."

The rival military-civilian junta meanwhile notified Mora it had cancelled its decision to allow the OAS to take over Radio Santo Domingo. Earlier this week the junta agreed to the OAS request for control of the station to prevent its being used for political purposes.

Could Slow Peace

The double-barreled attack on Mora could lead to serious difficulties for Mora's peacemaking efforts. The United States has made clear Mora is now in charge of all peace talks.

Mora made no immediate comment on the attacks.

Brazilian Gen. Hugo Panasco Alvim arrived in Santo Domingo after an overnight stop at the U.S. Navy base in San Juan to take command of the new inter-American peace force in the Dominican Republic.

Alvim, 63, who fought with U.S. troops in Italy during World War II, was greeted by Mora and U.S. Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer at the San Isidro Air Base outside the capital. Palmer is commander of American troops here and deputy commander under Alvim of the inter-American force.

"You should try to learn Spanish in this part of the world," Alvim genially advised Palmer as they boarded a helicopter for Santo Domingo. "I am trying to learn, sir," Palmer replied.

Alvim took command of the peace force at a military ceremony in the afternoon at the Hotel Jaragua, a three-minute drive from rebel territory in downtown Santo Domingo.

In addition to the 19,000 U.S. troops, there are 1,500 Brazilians, Nicaraguans, Costa Ricans and Hondurans under his command.

More than 400 U.S. paratroopers of the 82nd Airborne Division flew home to Fort Bragg, N.C. about the time of Alvim's arrival. Another 1,700 paratroopers will leave over the weekend.

Efforts at settling the Dominican conflict have come almost to a standstill. But military activity also appears to have diminished after two days of heavy rain which dampened activity by rebel snipers.

McGeorge Bundy, President Johnson's special assistant who headed a White House task force here for nearly two weeks, left earlier this week.

Floral Tributes Put At Kennedy Grave

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 48th birthday of John Fitzgerald Kennedy was remembered at his gravesite Saturday with silent prayers and flowers by his family and a floral tribute from his successor in the White House.

The widow of the 35th president sent from New York a wreath of yellow roses. His sister Eunice and her husband, Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver, knelt briefly on the grassy plot below the Lee mansion before the official morning opening of Arlington National Cemetery.

But tourists and visitors were streaming into the cemetery, already decked for today's Memorial Day observances, when Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., his wife and five of their children walked into the fenced enclosure.

These Kennedys, too, knelt on the grass dampened by overnight rain, bowed in silent prayer and left their remembrance, a small spray of pink roses.

President Johnson's tribute, a large wreath of red and white carnations, was placed by Maj. Gen. Chester V. Clifton, senior military aide to both Kennedy and Johnson.

Mrs. Clifton laid three red roses on the pine boughs which have covered the slain president's gave since he was buried there with stately honors on Nov. 25, 1963, three days after his assassination.

One rose was for the late president; the others for two infant children — Patrick Bouvier Kennedy and "baby girl Kennedy."

In the 18 months since rulers of the world mourned over the open grave, 8,892,000 people from all walks of life and from many lands have visited Kennedy's last resting place.

It is little changed. A rectangular plot enclosed by a simple fence. Draped on the boughs around the ever-burning light over the grave are caps, now weather-beaten, from each of the American military services.

Small stones mark the graves of the infant Kennedys' reburied here after their father's funeral.

Memorial Day's OK For Outing

Residents of Monroe and the surrounding area can look forward to Memorial Day activities today with no rain forecast. The official weather forecast calls for clear to partly cloudy skies with not much change in temperatures today and Monday.

FAA at Selman Field recorded a high reading at 6 p.m. Saturday of 81 degrees with a low of 63 taken at the same hour. No rain was reported by the tower for a 24-hour period ending at 6 p.m. Saturday.

CLOUDY

Today's temperatures will be somewhat warmer than those of Saturday for outings as the high is predicted at 80 to 85 degrees with the lowest expected to be 60 to 65.

One this same day a year ago the highest temperature recorded was 83 and the low 62.

Attorney General Jack Gremillion

Honest Registration Urged

BATON ROUGE (AP)— Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion said Saturday Louisiana can avoid federal interference in elections "if we have honest and efficient registration and voting procedures."

He told the organizational meeting of the Louisiana Parishes Democratic Committees Association that the new federal voter law is discriminatory against southern states.

But, he said, "many of our problems today have stemmed from our acting like an ostrich about this problem.

"Voting is a basic civil right, and I agree with federal officials in one area, that everyone should vote. It is your duty and mine to see that this right is maintained and enjoyed."

The association centered its attention on election procedures.

Douglas Fowler, state custodian of voting machines, said he intended to seek legislation in 1966 to end the requirement that voters choose a given number of candidates for a particular office—the so-called single shot requirement — because it was costly and responsible for most voting machine breakdowns.

Fowler said the population explosion has led to a voter explosion. He said in the next five years the numbers of new voters and candidates on ballots will dwarf the last five.

"Louisiana must make plans immediately," he said. "We are running to capacity on our available machines now.

"If every voter we have right now should show up to vote we would have to keep the polls open 20 hours."

Fowler said the state needs 250 voting machines now and that need will rise 10 per cent each year for several years.

Gremillion outlined areas in which Louisiana election procedures must be improved.

These included:

A limit in the future on the number of proposed constitutional amendments on one ballot, many more voting machines more and stronger instructions to commissioners in techniques of administering voting machines, definition of polling place barriers or boundaries, consideration of altering the single shot voting requirement, and many more clerks in registration offices to handle the rising number of people registering to vote.

Gremillion said: "Only the Good Lord knows what is going to happen to our registration rolls to everyone who can breathe or blink his eye.

"The door is now open to the federal government to come into any state election on the mere motion of the United States attorney general.

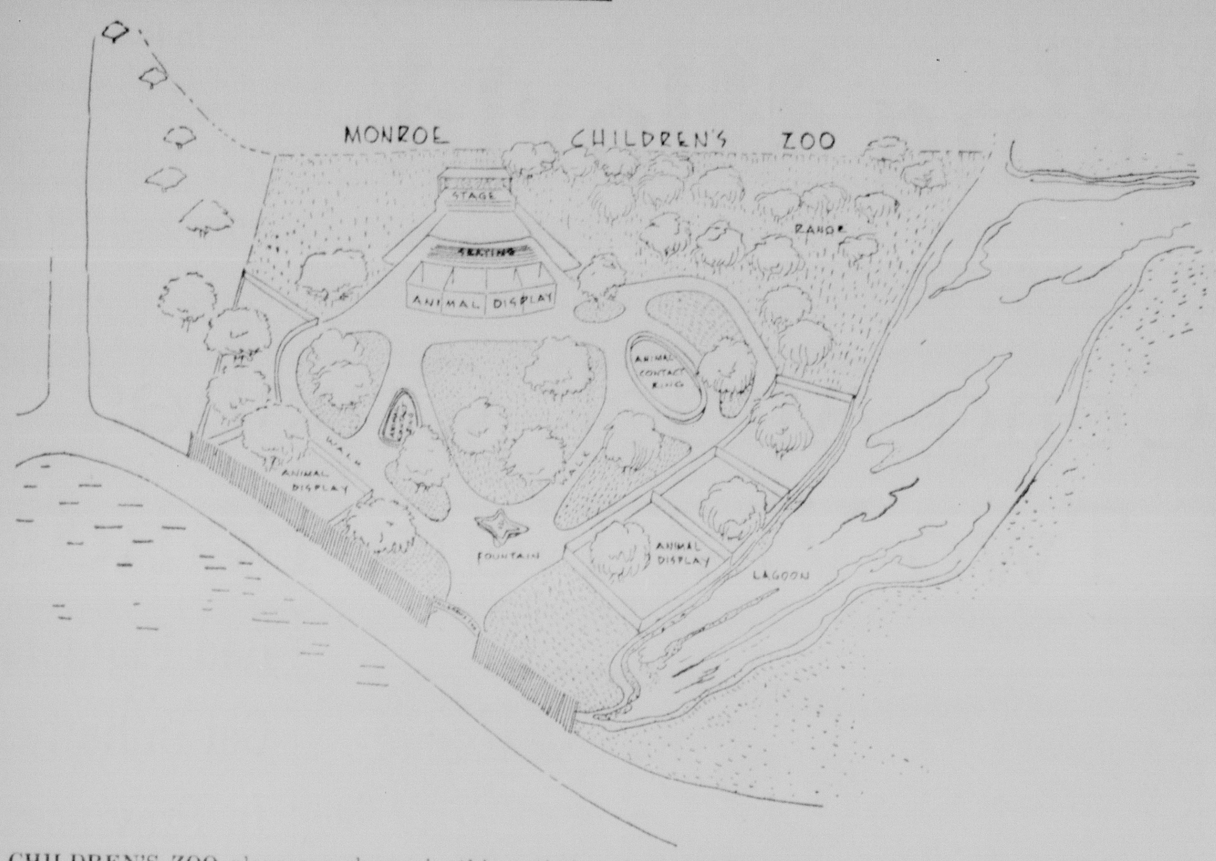

"It is entirely conceivable that, in the future, the problems we are discussing among ourselves today will be discussed with federal voting officials."

Gremillion said the U.S. Supreme Court upheld New York's right to require a registrant to be able to comprehend the English language.

"We used this in the courts in opposing the attacks on our literacy tests, but they refused to recognize our contention.

"New York can get away with this but we can't," Gremillion said. "This is just one example of the discrimination against southern states."

Gremillion said parish and state officials should not let the possibility of future difficulties with federal voting officials interfere "with our working for progress in the orderly and efficient development of better election procedures."

'Zoo Day' Program To Feature Fowler

Jim Fowler, co-star of the nationally televised "Wild Kingdom" show, will appear today at the fourth annual Zoo Day at Bernstein Park sponsored by the Monroe Optimist Club.

The Optimist Club announced Saturday that Fowler, on location in Monroe, will make personal appearances from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. today at the Zoo Day program.

"We are pleased to add Jim Fowler to our fine program," explained chairman Sheldon Ray.

Children's Zoo improvements and new animals recently added to the zoo "family" will be featured.

A full day's program, from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m., is scheduled, centered around the stage in the Children's' Zoo. One of the contact rings in this area has been completed and children will be able to touch small animals.

Future plans for this area include the construction of other contact rings, plus "children-sized "display enclosures to house animals of particular interest to children such as fawns, rabbits, guinea pigs, kids, squirrels, monkeys and birds.

The purpose of the Children's Zoo is to provide children with the opportunity to have close, supervised contact with many types of gentle animals. The stage will be the focal point for many educational programs on animal life for schools, Scouts, and other organizations.

Optimists will again feature last year's popular concession where children may be photographed holding such zoo animals as harmless snakes.

On the entertainment program are a magic show by Jay Michelle at 4:30 p.m., hootenannies at 2:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. featuring Linda Ackinson; and country and Western music throughout the day, beginning at 10:30 a.m., featuring Wilford Ray, John Jordan, Joe Burton, the Parker Sisters, Wilbur Duke and Bill and Beverly Camp.

Animal exhibitions by Zoo Director Kit Beecher will be presented on the hour all day long.

Optimist Club members in safari hats will collect donations at the zoo entrance and will man concessions selling snow cones, cold drinks, hot dogs, balloons, peanuts and other novelties. Proceeds will go toward completion of the Children's Zoo.

'Battle Of Bulge' Not Finished Yet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty Memorial Days after World War II the argument over why the Allies were caught off-guard by the final, massive Nazi blitz, "The Battle of the Bulge," still goes on.

"Allied intelligence failure was complete" and German deception to conceal their plan highly successful, a U.S. Army historian said Saturday.

Dr. Hugh M. Cole studied tons of documents and interviewed hundreds of officers, Allied and German, during the past 20 years to prepare the official history on "The Ardennes; the Battle of the Bulge," which was issued by the Army Saturday. As a colonel, he served in four European campaigns of World War II.

On Dec. 16, 1944, the Germans struck against the Allied lines between British and American fronts, driving a wedge as they sought to plunge through to the Belgium port of Antwerp. Before the German armies were rolled back and the bulge sealed off in January, U.S. casualties had mounted to more than 40,000 killed, wounded and captured. Among the casualties were scores of Americans killed ruthlessly in two massacres.

Despite these losses and the shock to the Allied home front, some military students believe the desperate German effort actually shortened the war by using up strength which could have been employed later to delay the Allies' final triumph.

Still, the massive attack was a surprise akin to that which hit the United States at Pearl Harbor, Cole feels.

In talking to newsmen about the new volume on the last big European engagement of World War I, Cole emphasized these conclusions:

—The deception set up by Hitler was entirely successful.

—Through skillful use of radio messages intercepted by the Allies, the Germans led the Allies to believe that a counterattack was developing not in the Ardennes region but well to the north.

—Hitler's deception included assignment of Field Marshal Karl Gerd von Rundstedt to supposed command in the area. The Allies, familiar with Von Runstedt's techniques in other campaigns, believed they knew how and where he would strike —and they planned accordingly. But, says Cole, "Runstedt was a igurehead; the plan was made by Hitler himself; he by-passed Runstedt."

About 500,000 German troops were moved quietly out of the eastern front where they had been fighting Russian forces and were filtered into the Ardennes region, with accompanying buildup of armor and what aviation still remained available to the German military machine.

Hitler and his staff, Cole said, included in their plans the hope that suspicion and animosity could be created between the Americans and British by driving the wedge between the two Allied fronts.

However, Cole added, "One can say that what bitterness and animosity there was found expression only after the Germans were in retreat, too late to serve the German plans."

Cole said a statement made later by British Field Marshal Sir Bernard Montgomery "about coming and tidying up the battlefield stirred up the Americans." Cole had praise for Winston Churchill's efforts to end the dispute. Churchill, Cole said, spoke in Commons "to pay the finest tribute that a foreigner ever paid to American arms."

As a matter of fact, animosity among German commanders later helped in reconstructing details which went into the new official history.

The new volume also authenticates the historical and pungent reply of then Brig. Gen. Anthony J. McAuliffe, acting commander of the 101st Airborne Division, when the Germans called upon him to surrender Bsstogne:

"Nuts!"

Guide To Good Reading

Summer Reading Club Will Open

By FRANCES FLANDERS, Ouachita Parish Librarian

Tomorrow is the official opening of the Summer Reading Club sponsored each summer by the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Children are urged to join the reading club at the branch of the Library which is most convenient for them. The club will be in progress at all four libraries and on the two bookmobiles. The theme of the summer reading club this year is "Busy as bees". To earn a pin and a certificate a child must read 15 books during the summer months. Help your child develop a love for reading by joining the busy bee readin club this summer.

Many new books have been added to the Library collection during the past week and there are books available for all types of readers. There are several new books of fiction which will interest our readers. "Death in the Castle" by Pearl S. Buck is quite different from her former novels, most of which have a Chinese setting. This book has a Scottish setting and is a story of intrigue and mystery. "Rainbow on The Bayou" is a slight story with a Mississippi background. It will make pleasant summer reading. "Quadrille" by Frank Swinnerton is the last in a quartet of novels about the Grace Family. Readers who have enjoyed the earlier volumes will not want to miss this one. A lovely and haunting book is "An Ancient Enemy" by Pierre Moinot. The translation from the French has lost nothing of the beauty of the book and it is a book which will be long remembered. Harris Downey is the author of a group of short stories, which he calls "The Key to My Prison". The stories are beautifully written and will interest all those who enjoy good modern literature. "Over The Gate" is Miss Read's tenth book about the small English villate of Fairacre. Her devoted following will welcome it.

Readers who enjoy a sophisticated and fast paced mystery will want to read "Penelope" by E. V. Cunningham. Penelope is one of the most engaging characters in modern mystery stories and the book will ment. Another mystery story which will be popular provide much entertainis "The Corpse in the Flannel Nightgown" by Margaret Scherf.

Professional writers will want to read "Tricks and Techniques of the Selling Writer" written by Dwight V. Swain. "Museums, U.S.A." by Herbert Katz is a history and guide to the outstanding museums in our country. "Design For Survival" by General Thomas S. Power is an evaluation of the United States Military policy in the age of atomic warfare. "The Ku Klux Klan" by William Randel is a most timely book. "Guide to Pedaguese" by James S. LeSure is billed as a guide for puzzled parents who do not understand what is expected of their children. "A History of Land Transportation" by Maurice Fabre will be most useful to students. "Your heredity and Environment" by Amram Schienfeld is a new study by the acknowledge authority in this field. A very fine book in the field of natural history is "This is A Tree" written by Ross Hutchins. We have had many requests for information about Citizens Band radio and are glad that we have a new book on this subject written by Allan H. Lytel.

There are lovely new books in the fine arts section; "Greek Architecture" by Jire Frel is very fine. "English, Scottish and Irish Table Glass" by George B. Hughes is a very lovely book on this subject. "American Antiques, 1800-1900" by Joseph T. Butler is an excellent guide for the collector of Victorian antiques.

A very fine historical interpretation of Science is "Science, The Glorious Entertainment" by Jacques Barzun. "The Historian and History" by Page Smith gives excellent material to the student of history. There are some lovely books about foreign lands. "Portrait of a Desert" by Guy Montfort is the account of an expedition to Jordan.

"Moscow" by Jan Lukas is a very lovely pictorial account of this little-known city. There are also two histories of Russia. They are "Russia" by Robert V. Daniels and "Russia After Krushchchev" by Robert Conquest. "The Reckoning" is the title of the memoirs of Anthony Eden, while "A Coffin For King Charles" by C. V. Wedgwood throws new light on the period of Stuart History. Georges Duby is the author of "A History of French Civilization.", which is a very fine interpretation. "The Dilemmas Of African Independence" by L. Gray Cowan sheds much new light on conditions in Africa Today. Henry Hopkinson has written a very good account of life in South Africa today. Northern Africa is covered in the new book by Richard Brace, called "Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia". Another book about Africa is "Welesky's 4000 Days" written by Sir Roy Welensku, which is an account of recent political events in Rhodesia. There are two histories of South American countries; "The Desert Kingdoms of Peru" by Victor Von Hagen and "Venezuela and Colombia" by Harry Bernstein.

Recent additions to the reference collection are "The Encyclopedia of Classical Mythology" by Van Aken; "A Complete guide to the Accredited Correspondence Schools" by Alice M. Fleming and a new set of Encyclopedias, "The Encyclopedia International in 20 Volumes."

Two Works On Bloody War In S. Viet Nam

THE NEW FACE OF WAR. By Malcom W. Brown. Bobbs-Merrill. $5.

THE MAKING OF A QUAGMIRE. By David Halberstam. Random. $5.95.

It seems reasonably certain that the great bulk of the American citizenry feels an uneasy bewilderment about the cloudy, complex troubles in Viet Nam, even though for several years diligent and very earnest reporters (such as these two authors) have been dispatching a running account of the strange occurrences in that land.

Both of these books are by expert journalists. In hard covers they have summarized their observations of the 1962-1964 period. Last year they shared a Pulitzer Prize for international reporting — Browne as a correspondent for the Associated Press and Halberstam for the New York Times.

As a generalization, it may be said that both of them sound patriotic warnings and clarion calls for an understanding in America of the unusual implications and lessons to be learned from this operation.

Both of them hammer home the point that the revolutionary Viet Cong (which soft-pedals Communist ties) has been far more effective at the Bamboo - roots level in this former French colony than the American-supported, family-bound, Diem regime in Saigon.

Browne presents some remarkably vivid eye-witness accounts.

He visits outposts, helicopter bases, paddy fields. He writes a detailed record of how the Viet Cong absorbs a small hamlet and twists it into its own uses; he gives specific details on weaponry, camouflage, ambush, terror and counter-terror; the ideological infiltration of the Viet Cong, the baffling religious tensions, the frustrated efforts of Western-minded military advisers.

Halberstam also has given eye-witness accounts, but he is more concerned with politics, ideology, the confusions and fall of the Diem regime; the conflicting journalistic efforts to tell what was happening, in defiance of the "official line" of what he considers as a contradictory set of American diplomats, CIA officials, disillusioned military advisers and uninformed civilian missions.

He views most of the upper - level Americans as dupes, and the ground-level Americans as embittered, disregarded friends of the Vietnamese; he sounds a vociferious personal note about journalistic pressures.

The two books are complements of each other. Both are summations of what their authors have been striving to report to the public. They have divergent viewpoints, but they both offer a sort of Paul Revere call to an American awakening about an urgent dilemma. Taken together, they serve as a frightening, illuminating view of an almost incredible situation in one of the current world's hot points.

Farce Before Final Curtain

A SOUVENIR FROM QAM. By Marc Connelly. Holt, Rinehart. $4.50.

Connelly's light comedy pops along as a mild satire until the last few chapters, when it becomes one of those rollicking farces that races to a final curtain.

That finish isn't surprising, because Connelly really is a playwright from way back.

The story is about Newton Bemis. Biophysicist, genius, attuned to space exploration as well as other esoteric subjects, good old Bemis is an utter lamb among the ladies. So he finds himself affianced to a Washington beauty before the plot really gets under way.

There is one of those suddenly oil-rich Arabian kingdoms (right where the Garden of Eden used to be) ruled by a cute old guy named Sajjid. Now that he is filthy rich, Sajjid indulges in utterly capricious whims.

So Sajjid offers a million to Bemis to fly over in a chartered plane for some secret consultations. Is this a new discovery of nuclear resources? Does the State Department want to get in ahead of the Russians? Does Bemis have any idea of what he will find? One thing he finds is a young girl in the royal household, who has been educated in Switzerland and plays chess like a champion, but has the Muslim awe of the male.

Assorted Prose Not Bad Book

ASSORTED PROSE. By John Updike. Knopf. $5.95.

There is an illuminating, and at times surprising, range of expression in this collection. It is an assortment (licorice in one corner, marzipan in another) containing all the bits of nonfictional prose that lie outside Updike's published poems, novels and short stories.

The collection is illuminating in the sense that it casts light upon his other works. Readers who know his novel "The Centaur" will find its autobiographical background in "The Dogwood Tree," which appeared first in a neglected collection of boyhood reminiscences by five authors.

There are two sections which reproduce the parodies and short, humorous pieces which the author wrote for the Talk of the Town and Notes and Comments sections of The New Yorker — as a staff member in 1955-57 and later as an occasional contributor.

These New Yorker items epitomize the magazine's recent years — echoing the days of Thurber, Benchley, et al — in both spirit and style.

That is, they have the magically odd combination of a former farm boy's imagination and the glib pseudo - sophistication of Manhattan, distilled in twin coils into a potation that has primitive kick and civilized tang. Here is a Shillington, Pa., boy who goes beyond O'Hara's graphic realism into the bright realm of the proper Harvardite gab.

The final section contains book reviews. Most of them carry the campus-like curse of erudition, but in mitigation it must be said that in these pieces he was addressing a literate audience.

Summer Novel Is Light, Excellent

AN END TO PATIENCE. By Mary Durant. Harcourt, Brace. $4.95.

If you think you should finally read "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich" on your vacation this year, but you really want a light, pleasantly interesting novel that won't give you heartburn, "An End to Patience" is recommended.

It's a relaxed, bucolic novel. The characters don't personify PROBLEMS or social comment; they just have a few individual problems and a couple of quirks. And don't worry, quite a few of those are going to get straightened out.

Miss Durant has introduced and established her cast in a long, leisurely opening. Each character has a chapter or section of his own, told from inside his own mind.

Some seem unbelievably extreme. Would any prim young typist imagine so many possible disasters from falling ceilings and attacking animals? Would a lethargic widow of a hypochondriac immediately regain the sparkle of her married days when confronted with a patient?

Well, maybe. And with each person revealing what he thinks as well as what he says and does, eccentric-

Clemson Negro Grad Not Another Leader

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Harvey B. Gantt doesn't think of himself as "another Martin Luther King" just because he was the first Negro in modern times to attend a previously all-white state-supported school in South Carolina.

Instead, the new Clemson University graduate wants to work in the Negro civil rights movement "at a quieter level" while he pursues his chosen profession of architecture.

"I strongly support what Dr. King and others are doing," Gantt quickly added. "Don't get me wrong. It's just that I'm not a crusader."

Gantt, 22, was graduated with honors in architecture Saturday at Clemson's commencement. He has accpted an offer to join the Charlotte, N.C., firm of A.G. Odell Jr. Odell is president of the American Institute of Architects.

"Just because I was the first Negro to attend Clemson doesn't mean I'm automatically another Martin Luther King," Gantt said quietly. "I will do my part but I'm not a Negro leader."

At Tuscaloosa, Ala., Sunday, Vivian Malone, 22, will become the first Negro to ever graduate from the University of Alabama. Two years ago, she enrolled as 3,000 federalized National Guardsmen stood by. Gantt had no such problem and was enrolled comparatively quietly at Clemson in January of 1963.

The following September, Lucinda Brawley became Clemson's first Negro coed. She and Gantt subsequently were married and she withdrew from school to have their first child last month.

Brush and Palette

by Jan Bank

Museums and galleries have mounted their final shows of the season in most parts of the world. Many of the exhibits will be shown thru an early fall date. This then, seems an excellent time to review in brief, some of the accomplishments of the past year internationally, nationally and locally.

There were many international art fairs held but of all of them the most news making award, not only to we Americans, but the world over, was the first place award presented to Robert Raushenberg, of the United States, at the Venice Bienale. Sharing the news with some stolen paintings was all the to do about Rembrandt's portrait of Titus acquired a a London Auction for $2,234,400, by the Norton Simon Foundation, with the announcement that the painting would receive it's frst showing in the U.S. at the Los Angeles County Museum.

One of the major openings internationally was that of the Israel Museum which opened the beginning of this month. Located upon the crown of a stoney Judean hill it exceeded all expections in architectural beauty and in the range and artistic quality of its displays. The Museum has four components — The Shrine of the Book, the Billy Rose Garden of Art, and at the heart of the hilltop cluster, the Bronfman Biblical and Archeological Museum and the Bezealel Art Museum. The United States government and Philanthropists in this country made large gifts to the museum.

Treasured paintings and Art objects the world over gained emphasis in tourist appeal. For those traveling to France, outstanding today as it was in the past is the glass in the Cathedral. Stained glass windows are still being produced in that city. There has been some change in the technique of making stained glass in the past 700 years, but the amazing fact is, it is still being made. Actually, the "verriers", used 12th century methods when required as well as modern ones. And it is good to realize that stained glass is still in demand in the 20th Century.

Closer to home, in the United States, the big museum opening was that of the Los Angeles County Art Museum in early April. This is the largest gallery to be erected since the National Gallery in Washington, D.C., twenty-four years ago. Distinguished by three pavillion like structures set on an open sculpture plaza and surrounded by reflecting pools, the museum is eminently suited to the climate and landscape of Southern California.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art with the opening of its new wing is now considered the most beautiful museum in the world. A distinction we Americans can be very proud of, with added significance, as the major exhibit on view till October is "Three Centuries of American Painting."

Much of the startling art news this year was made by Pop, Op and those who cashed in on the trends. Of course the serious works and what the techniques will lead too will stay with us, while the kooks will disappear, that is until something else strikes their unimaginative fancy.

In New Orleans major art history was made with the purchase of what is probably the last available New Orleans Degas, at the ransom of $190,000 for the portrait of "Estelle Musson." The contributions came from all sorts of sources, from 17, $5,000 gifts from individuals and organizations to last minute fund raisings that brought in pennies and dimes to reach the goal. "Degas, his Family and Friends", the exhibition honoring the acquisition of "Estelle Musson" will be on view at the Delgado until June 20.

Locally

On the local scene, the opening of the Masur Museum of Art, 1400 S. Grand, was the most impressive forward step made culturally. The acceptance of the gallery by the public, the volunteer services of auxiliary and the curators of the Museum, and the quality of the shows made this a most successful first year.

For those of you who have been wanting to visit the Museum but neglected to do so, attend today. The current exhibit is a one man show by talented artist Stanley Harris of Houston, Texas.

Attendance to this fine show has been less than anticipated due to the many conflicting factors this time of the year. Several visitors who have made recent trips to galleries in larger cities have reported that this show comparably, is very outstanding.

The Museum hours today are between 2 and 5 p.m. Hostess will be Mrs. Wilson Ewing. The Museum will be closed all next week.

Selma Tries Boost With Special Day

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Selma Friendship Day, designed to boost local business and protest civil rights agitation, got off to a slow start Saturday, but police were kept busy checking on Negro demonstrators.

"Selma Welcomes Friendship" said a huge sign across Bard Street — the main business artery — to welcome shoppers from nearby counties answering an appeal to give Selma merchants an economic shot in the arm.

But, by noon were appeared to be no large influx of outside shoppers, although the downtown area was enjoying a bustling shopping day. Citizens said this happened every Saturday.

Wilson Baker, public safety director, took into custody at least 30 Negro youths who picketed in front of several establishments in support of a continuing economic boycott.

The idea for Friendship Day came from Earl W. Hall, a Brimingham attorney. Hall told newsmen he was not part of any movement but wanted to help out Selma merchants and present a mild protest against recent civil rights demonstrations.

Selma was the center of civil rights activity in the early months of this year when Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., began an intensive voter registration drive. More than 2,000 demonstrators were arrested and two white persons were killed in violent incidents during the more than two-month long campaign. The drive was capped with a 45-mile march to Montgomery.

A hot sun beat down on the wide downtown streets of Selma as shoppers went about their chores Saturday.

Teenagers Hurt In Car Accident Saturday Night

Three teenagers were injured in a two-car crash at the intersection of N. 5th and Auburn Streets shortly before 11 p.m. Saturday night.

Thompson and Bilbo were in Wheat's foreign-make vehicle.

Search Continues

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Police continued efforts Saturday to recover the body of eight-year-old David Mora who drowned after falling into the Mississippi River Friday night.

Officers said the boy was walking on a drainage pipe when he apparently lost his balance.

Police Charge Bribery Attempt Here Saturday

A seemingly routine apprehension by Monroe police shortly after midnight Saturday resulted in charges of attempted bribery and driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

Officers charged Albert Gordon Jr., 32, of 900 S. 19th St., Monroe, passenger in an auto driven by Arthur Washington, 44, of 113 S. 13th St., Monroe, with the bribery attempt. Washington was booked for DWI, speeding and running a red light.

According to police reports, Gordon offered arresting officers money to release Washington and was refused. Gordon was then said to have offered the same bribe to the desk sergeant when he was booked.

In other action, Monroe police ticketed Lester D. Coleman, 33, of 901 McGee St., Monroe, and B. F. Orr, 60, of Jonesboro, with negligent driving following an accident at the intersection of South Second and Texas Streets at 8:30 a.m. Saturday.

West Monroe police charged James A. Colvin, 20, Dubach, with two counts of driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages and one count of reckless driving. Colvin was apprehended on Cypress Street shortly before 2 a.m. Saturday.

Ticketed for speeding in West Monroe Friday night was Ray W. Hudgins, 18, Rt. 2, Box 129, West Monroe.

Officers of Troop F, Louisiana State Police, charged Cornelius Head, 25, Monroe, with driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages Saturday night. Head was apprehended one mile north of Monroe on U.S. Highway 165.

West Monroe officers booked two with battery offenses. Evan Robinson, 32, of 314½ Lee St., West Monroe, was charged with aggravated battery following his arrest in the 500 block of Herman Street shortly after 9 p.m. Daniel Scott, 24, of No. 13 Breard Alley, Monroe, was charged with simple battery after he was apprehended on Benson Street at 4 p.m.

Faye Carroll Smith, 18, of 306 N. 18th St., Monroe, was booked with theft by Monroe police Saturday.

Lenon Reynolds of Rayville was booked with speeding in Monroe following his arrest Saturday evening.

Tripp, the craft's owner, valued the houseboat at $4,500. Record-players and other personal belongings of the youngsters also were lost.

Tripp said he heard "a definite sound of an explosion."

"It must have been gas in the hull," he said.

Plane Crash Claims Nine In California

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Nine persons died in a flaming plane crash Saturday as they started to Mexico to spend the Memorial Day weekend camping, fishing and skindiving in Baja California.

Among the dead were the pilot, Dr. Melern K. Leisy, 42, an Altadena physician, and his sons Derek, 12, and David Kurt, 10. He had their custody for the weekend from his wife, Margaret, also of Altadena, from whom he was divorced.

The Orange County coroner's office tentatively identified the others killed in the crash of the privately owned plane as:

Jay Clearwaters, 29, co-pilot, Corna Del Mar, a senior engineer here in the missile-components plant of the aeronautronics division of Philco Corp., a subsidiary of Ford Motor Co.

Barbara Rothrock, 33, of Altadena.

John Godwin, Don Batchman, Charles Rauch and Melissa Littrell, all believed tto be Orange county residents.

Clearwaters, a bachelor, graduated from California Institute of Technology and worked for its Jet Propulsion Laboratory before joining Philco in 1961.

The $25,000 twin-engine Beechcraft thundered into a gully in an open field at 7:03 a.m. It had taken off six minutes earlier from Orange County Airport.

A witness said the plane, climbing through an overcast, apparently had engine trouble. It hit a power line — knocking out electricity in parts of Newport Beach — and zigzagged to earth.

Investigators said the plane was the last of five to take off with members of the Comet Ski Club.

Kennedy said Leisy, a general practitioner, had "flown more than 1,000 hours and was a very capable pilot. I've lost a friend — and the airplane."

DEATHS

Patti Denise Peters, six-week-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peters of Garden City, Calif., died Saturday at Garden City.

Mrs. Peters is the former Miss Carolyn Stump of West Monroe. The body will be brought to West Monroe with funeral arrangements being announced by Kilpatrick Funeral Home.

U.S. Industry's Plan For India Near End

NEW DELHI (AP) — An unprecedented effort to introduce large-scale American private capital into India's faltering economy was reported near failure Saturday.

Well-informed sources said the Western Industrial Corp., a consortium of five leading American firms, was unable to agree with the Indian government on terms for a planned $500 million fertilizer plant project.

The Americans were to provide $250 million. This would more than double U.S. private capital now invested in India's economy, which is a mixture of free enterprise and socialism.

Sources in the American group and the Indian government said stumbling blocks were who would control the management of five huge plants to be built throughout India and the distribution of fertilizer products.

The Americans wanted 50-50 equity in management and distribution control. The Indian government wanted to retain 51 per cent.

Sources said the Americans felt the government was not creating proper conditions to insure efficient operation of the plants in the state-owned sector.

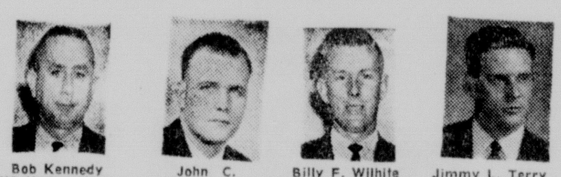

The Americans also were reported unconvinced the government would do enough to increase the use and efficient distribution of fertilizers by India's backward farmers.

Firms in the consortium are the Bechtel Corp. of San Francisco, Gulf Oil, Texaco, Allied Chemical and the Fodd Machinery Corp.

Since 1952 India's economy has been supported by massive doses of U.S. government aid. The U.S. bill here now totals more than $6 billion.

There had been a hope in diplomatic circles that the consortium deal would go through, setting a precedent and helping to attract private investors who would take the pressure off the U.S. aid program.

Ouachita Mosaic

Top Attraction

By ROBERT SIMONTON
World Staff Writer

What do you say to a visitor who exclaims: "You mean a city the size of Monroe actually has that big, beautiful mansion as a museum of art!"

Well, if you're in the know, you immediately list a few other assets which the Twin Cities possess besides the (Masur) museum of art — assets usually found in much larger cities.

Something like: "We also have our own spacious playhouse (Strauss) and symphony orchestra (Twin Cities) and even a zoo (Bernstein.)"

Much Pride

Imagine how much pride Monroe area residents will take in boasting about the new civic center, instead of being embarrassed about the present city governmental facilities.

From a cultural aspect, the center will provide great opportunities. The arena-auditorium will be conducive to a variety of events. There will be 4,626 permanent balcony seats and added portable seats will bring the capacity to 7,200.

The future theatre will contain 2,260 upholstered opera - type seats. To add to the comfort of patrons will be the air-conditioning. Parking should be no problem as the adjacent lot will handle 2,000 vehicles.

What's more important the new civic theatre is designed to accommodate musical events and stage shows of magnitude — and this will fulfill a long and urgent need for an adequate area entertainment facility.

Boat Cruises

Someone has asked about summer boat cruises on the Ouachita River. Inquiries have proved negative. However, there is considerable interest in this type project. Sight-seeing tours have proved both popular and profitable in other river towns.

Reading

Summer time is a time for lazy leisure. Most school and college students bask in the glory of "no classes today," and the pace of the working class subsides. It is wise to put idle hours of summer to work and there is no better way to do this than fill them with reading.

The Ouachita Parish Library system could prove a heavenly haven for pleasure this summer simply because there is no more rewarding experience than a good book.

The parish library system has three branches in addition to the main library at 1800 Stubbs. Hours at the main library are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Branches at 418 Cypress in West Monroe, and 116 No. 10th are the same except they close at 8 p.m. instead of 9 p.m. and are closed on Sundays. There are also two bookmobiles in operation.

There are 100,000 volumes for public use and the volume circulation is 500,000. So, there are a lot of books just waiting to be read and waiting to fill those idle hours with meaning.

Drive Over

Residents of the Ouachita Mosaic often just get into their automobiles and drive to Shreveport, with no definite plans. Why not make the trip to coincide with some attraction of cultural significance?

One such planned trip could be for the opening of the Centenary - Shreveport Summer Band season at 8 p.m., June 8, at the Centenary College R. H. Hargrove Memorial Shell. The concerts are open to the public without charge.

Dates of the other concerts are June 15, 22 and 29; July 6, 13, 20 and 27; and Aug. 3. Another program will be presented by the band at Hodges Gardens near Many on June 19.

Hello Dolly

Dallas has said "hello" to Dolly in a big way — by packing the Music Hall to witness the international company's version of that marvel music that glorified Carol Channing on Broadway. But, Dallas has Mary Martin, a native Texan, in the lead and this fact alone could guarantee audiences over there. Usually, it is Martin as the Broadway star whose roles are taken over by lesser known actresses for the road show runs.

At any rate, if you are inclined to see this phenomenon, it's playing through next week-end there.

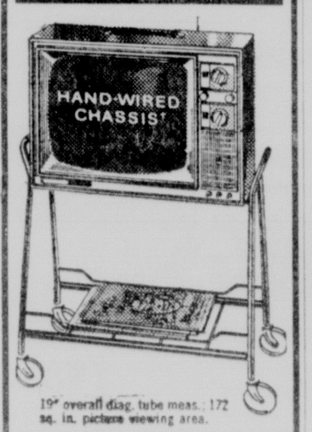

An off-Broadway play at the Bowery Lane Theatre is described as a "provacative comedy."

This comedy concerns the last three people on earth after "the bomb!" has been dropped. Ha!

Desert Collision Kills 6 Persons; Child Survives

NEEDLES, Calif. (AP) — An 11-year-old girl was the sole survivor Saturday of a head-on collision between two cars which killed six persons on a desolate stretch of desert highway.

"We don't know how she survived," said a California Highway Patrol officer of Kathy Scruggs, 11, of Fresno, Calif.

"Her 10-year-old sister, Susan, who was riding on the back seat with Kathy, was killed," said the officer.

Also killed were Kathy's father, Harvey H. Scruggs, 41, her brother, Harvey L. Scruggs, 20, who was driving, and a third sister, Debra, 12.

San Bernardino County Coroner Walt Terry said a sedan driven by Theodore A. Gillette, 22, of Lake Havasu City, Calif., apparently "drifted across the center divider" of two-lane Highway 95, two miles south of Needles.

Gillette, trapped in the front seat with his passenger, John Valenzuela, 22, of Needles, died instantly. Valenzuela died four hours later in Needles Municipal Hospital.

SPOTLIGHTING THE AREA

River Ports

With Jimmy Hatten

The Lake Providence Port Commission, under the able leadership of Harvey Grant, who used to head the Louisiana Delta Council, is taking some bold strides to make Lake Providence a true port city.

If the plans succeed, the port will be provided with a cargo barge which will be used to load and unload goods from shipping on the Mississippi River.

Also, there are plans to provide ferry service between Lake Prvidence and the east bank. This would provide easy access to Mississippi and new industries in the Vicksburg vicinity.

It would appear these movies could not help but bear sweet fruit for Lake Providence and East Carroll Parish. Here's a town that is taking advantage of its water resources.

There are towns in northeast Louisiana that are not.

Columbia, Too

But Columbia, on the Ouachita River, is not a town to pass up a good thing, either.

The Port Commission there, along with private enterprise, has embarked on an enterurising program to make sure that Columbia will have all the necessitiies for a port city when the nine-foot channel is completed.

But benefits are coming before the channel.

The best way to make the river work for you is to begin early, cultivate, and wait for the moisture. Except in this case, unlike the wondering farmer, you know the moisure is coming.

Leaders in the Farmerville area, when they first embarked on the idea of Woodrow Downs Day, scheduled for next Sunday, expected if they got one high-ranking dignitary to appear, they would have accomplished their goal.

Many On Tap

But now the program they have worked out for the day is filled with dignitaries, with Gov. George Wallace of Alabama and Gov. John J. McKeithen heading the list.

Rep. Otto E. Passman, we understand, has done much to make the day's lineup an outstanding achievement. Passman will emcee the event, and there will be many others. Among them, it is hoped at Farmerville, will be U.S. Reps. Joe Waggonner and Speedy O. Long.

There are two success stories in this week's area news that should not go unmentioned. Ruston was named the cleanest city in the Fifth District and Winnfield won the Eighth District contest.

The clubs of the towns and the administrations should be congratulated for their interests in such projects, and the hope here is that more and more emphasis be placed on city beautification.

Cold Hits Fields

TOKYO (AP) — Unseasonal cold weather in northern and eastern Japan caused widespread damage to rice paddies and vegetable crops Saturday. The temperature was 39 degrees to 48.

Russians Claim Captured Pilot Offers Apologies

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency Tass claimed Saturday that an American pilot shot down and captured in North Viet Nam had repented for U.S. raids there.

Tass reported from Hanoi that the American had told Soviet newsmen in the Vietnamese capital that he was sorry for the raids, that his health was good and that he was treated well.

It identified the American as Capt. Philip N. Butler, 27, Lemoore, Calif., a Navy pilot assigned to fly raids on North Viet Nam from the U.S. aircraft carrier Midway. It said he was shot down on his third mission over Viet Nam on April 20.

Most of the remarks attributed to the American were not in direct quotation. Nowhere did Tass quote him directly as saying he was sorry for the raids, but the news agency said this was the tenor of his remarks.

Voice Identifies Blind's Robber

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Someone filched a $10 bill from the concession stand Dorothy Anderson, a blind woman, operates in the Minneapolis police department.

Mrs. Anderson remembered the voice of a boy who asked for bubble gum while his cohort sneaked behind the counter and took the money. The blind woman "kept getting madder and madder." For a week she kept listening for "that voice."

Union Shop Issue Stirs GOP Chiefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican Policy Coordinating Committee, created to restore party unity, appears headed for an internal struggle over the union shop issue.

The policy group, which includes former presidential nominees, congressional leaders, governors and GOP National Committee members, has scheduled its second meeting here Tuesday.

At that time it will have before it studies made by a panel on job opportunities headed by Charles H. Percy, defeated Republican candidate for governor of Illinois in 1964.

Percy told a news conference here May 20 that the group split over what attitude should be taken by the party on President Johnson's call for legislation to repeal Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act.

This is a provision which permits states to prohibit labor contracts under which an employe is required to join a union to retain his job. These are called union shop agreements.

Nineteen states have such prohibitory laws.

Percy's statement that any policy committee recommendation on the issue would be certain to produce a minority report was interpreted as indicating he is taking a stand for repeal of the provision.

Any such stand would bring him in direct conflict with Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. Dirksen, who voted for 14B as a House member, said that "I'm not going to change my stand on the issue."

The difference among Republicans was emphasized when Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, the assistant GOP leader, said in an interview that he supports Johnson's repeal request.

"I think I'm the first public official in California who came out against right to work and I'm just as opposed to it now as I was then," Kuchel said.

House Republicans are equally split over the issue. Conservatives among them oppose repeal but Rep. William M. Ayres of Ohio, top minority member of the Education and Labor Committee, favors it.

Rep. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., one of the coauthors of the Landrum-Griffin Labor Act, has come up with a compromise.

He has proposed repeal of 14B with conditions to safeguard employes' rights. These include a ban on racial discrimination, a provision that unions may use dues only for union and not political purposes and a ban on disciplinary action against members who criticize union practices.

But other Republicans are not in a compromising mood and Griffin hasn't been able to sell his proposal to them.

Ex-Slave Tells His Role During Vicksburg Battle

COLLINS, Miss. (UPI) — A former slave who enjoys giving his eyewitness account of the Battle of Vicksburg marked his 124th birthday Saturday chatting with friends at a country store.

He is believed to be the oldest living person in the United States.

A party, complete with a 124-candle cake, was held for Sylvester Magee at the store, located in the Lone Star community, not far from the land he once worked as a slave.

The aged Negro, who walks with a cane, says he is in good health except for weak legs. He claims to have been wounded twice while serving with the Union Army during the Civil War.

"Howdy massa," is the way Magee greets all white men. "That's the only way I ever knew them," said the old man who was born at Carpet, N.C., on May 29, 1841. He was one of eight children born to Ephraim and Jeanette, two slaves owned by J. J. Ahanks.

Asked by a newsman at his Hattiesburg, Miss., home to what he attributed his long life, Magee replied:

"Massa, it's the good Lord above . . . he's smiling down on me!"

AT FARMERVILLE on Sunday, June 6, will be Woodrow Downs, left, who will be honored for his Masonic and community achievements, and Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, center, who will be principal speaker, and Gov. John J. McKeithen of Louisiana, who will introduce Wallace.

Police Quell Bogalusa Outburst

BOGALUSA, La. (AP)—State and city police donned combat helmets and broke out tear gas to subdue a powder keg situation when whites and Negroes clashed on a downtown street Saturday.

State Police Major Tom J. Bradley said at least a dozen persons were arrested during an uproar before police managed to seal off a street leading to a Negro quarter with a skirmish line of officers and K-9 units.

The eruption came in a long, tense day of civil rights picketing in front of stores on Columbia Street—the main street of this southeastern Louisiana racial hotspot.

Bradley said police officers moved in after whites and Negroes began trading punches. He said most of the pickets had already been withdrawn from the area by Negro leaders due to the tense situation.

The officers moved down the side street, shoulder-to-shoulder—like a Roman phalanx. A block of Columbia Street, they formed a barricade across the street near the Negro barbershop which has been the headquarters for picket ramrods.

About 300 angry Negroes shuffled about in front of the officers. To the rear, angry whites milled about on Columbia Street. Officers held the area between them clear.

Bradley and Asst. Police Chief L. C. Terrill walked up ahead of the crowd of police who were busily distributing tear gas grenades and gas masks.

Bradley said the Negroes wanted to form a protest march through Columbia Street because of what they called "police brutality."

"With all this tension," Bradley said, "We just couldn't let anything like that happen."

After a tense 15 minutes in the street conferring with Negro leaders, A. Z. Young, president of the Bogalusa Voters League, decided the best thing to do would be to form into a marching line and head them the other way toward the Union hall, where the league holds many of its rallies.

Police meanwhile dispersed the whites who had gathered along Columbia Street.

Downs' Triumphs Parallel Parish

FARMERVILLE (Special) — There is a close parallel in the personal triumphs of Woodrow Alexander Downs and the progress of Union Parish, many people here believe.

Downs, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Louisiana, F&AM, will be honored here Sunday, June 6, on Woodrow Downs Day, when Alabama Gov. George Wallace and Gov. John J. McKeithen of Louisiana, will appear on the program.

Not only have his Masonic endeavors been successful, but Downs is recognized as a top-flight county agent, having received the Distinguished Service Award of the National County Agents Association.

Downs, Union Parish county agent, is not content with "paper success," it was noted. He has been "a salesman" to farmers in promoting the watermelon industry in Union Parish.

The parish is now noted as the number one watermelon-producing parish in the state. He is cited as being one of the guiding hands in Union Parish's industrial growth, and is a charter member of the Farmerville Industrial Development Organization (FIDO).

He is the author of the most recent book on Union Parish history and economics, entitled, "Union Parish Resources."

At 47, Downs and his father recently conferred the Master Mason degree on his son, Robert, 21.

Downs will be a speaker on the program being given for him at the Farmerville High School gymnasium. The principal speaker is scheduled to be Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, with Gov. John J. McKeithen and Rep. Otto Passman appearing on the program.

Also expected to attend are Rep. Speedy O. Long and Rep. Joe Waggonner, along with other dignitaries. The event, which begins at 1:30 p.m., is open to the public.

Downs, a native of Eros, holds an MS degree from LSU and is a lay speaker in the Farmerville Methodist Church. He is past commander of Owens-Tubbs Post 149, American Legion.

He is now serving a two-year term as vice president of the Louisiana County Agents Associations and was the secretary at the 1964 annual meeting of the National County Agents Association.

Downs' grandfather, Willis A. Downs, was a charter member of Lodge No. 295 where Downs was initiated in 1942.

After four years in World War II, Downs was released from service as a first lieutenant and was the commander of the National Guard Unit in Farmerville from 1949 to 1953.

In 1962, he won the award as Union Parish's outstanding citizen. He and his wife have two sons and a daughter.

New Demo Club Elects Attorney As First Leader

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Arnold Gibbs, Baton Rouge attorney, was elected president of the newly-formed Louisiana Parishes Democratic Committees Association Saturday.

Other officers included Henry Emler of New Orleans, dean of the College of Business Administration at Loyola University, vice president; James F. Arnold of Shreveport, secretary, and O'Hearn Mathews of Alexandria, treasurer.

More than 300 delegates representing Democratic groups in all parishes attended the day-long organizational session.

Delegates adopted a statement of general purposes, which called for:

—Establishment of one or more permanent election commissions in each precinct.

—Increase compensation of commissioners to $30 per day and of deputies to $35 per day.

—Improvement of quantity and quality of training for election commissioners.

—Work for and sponsor legislation to relieve crowded ballots and voter waiting lines.

—Work for and sponsor legislation to insure honest and orderly conduction of all elections.

—Work to strengthen the Democratic party in the state.

Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion told delegates that Louisiana can avoid federal interference in elections "if we have honest and efficient registration and voting procedures."

He said the new federal voter law is discriminatory against Southern states, but said "many of our problems today have stemmed from our acting like an ostrich about this problem."

Ike Adds More Laurels To List Of World's Best

GRANTHAM, Pa. (AP) — Former Prsesident Dwight D. Eisenhower, recipient of many of the world's highest honors, Saturday added an honorary doctorate of laws from tiny Messiah College.

It was the first honorary degree awarded by the 56-year-old Brethren in Christ Church school and a slight miscue made the ceremony all the more appealing.

Eisenhower flashed his famous grin as college President D. Ray Hostetter placed the cloth mantle of the degree around Eisenhower's heck, backwards.

"We will go down in history as the college that put the hood on backwards," quipped Dr. Hostetter.

Eisenhower, 74, delighted the 35-member graduating class and 2,000 onlookers with reminiscences about his boyhood connections with the Brethren in Christ Church.

He spoke informally from an evergreen-draped rostrum in a natural ampitheater in a wooden glen on the campus of the school, some 15 miles from Harrisburg.

Graduation Speech

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Chancellor William Pearson Tolley of Syracuse University told Louisiana State University graduates Saturday to "listen to the moral imperatives of life and teach yourself restraint and self-discipline."

In a commencement address to more than 1,100, Tolley gave this as one of three ways of enriching life.

He suggested they cultivate a lifelong habit of reading, and take seriously the brotherhood of man.

"Enrich your life with worthwhile social interests," he said, "and have a purpose in life beyond yourself. We all need a worthy goal."

THREE FIRSTS

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the three years since MEDICO merged with CARE, three "firsts" were started — the first eye bank in Jordan, the first neurosurgical unit on the mainland of Malaysia, and the first orthopedic hospital in Tunisia.

Negro Children Register Quietly In Mississippi

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP)—Seventy Negro children registered for classes Saturday in previously all-white first and second grades of the Greenville school system, the first to voluntarily desegregate.

There were no incidents as 33 boys and 37 girls signed up.

Greenville school officials decided last month to desegregate first and second grades in the fall and three additional grades a year through 1969.

The 12th grade is to be desegregated at least by the 1969-70 term.

Officials have not received notice of acceptance or rejection of the plan by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Washington.

The department recently said school systems must desegregate at least four grades by the fall or face loss of federal grants.

In registration Friday, 28 Negro children signed up for second grade classes. And 42 signed up for the first grade Saturday.

School officials said the predicted registration of white children was slightly behind anticipated enrollment, but predicted Negro registration was far below expectations.

School officials expressed satisfaction with the smoothness of the operations at all five elementary schools, but said they were not satisfied about the low registration.

Only four school systems, Jackson, Leake County, Biloxi and Clarksdale, have been desegregated in Mississippi. Three others, Meridian, Canton and Moss Point, are now under court order to desegregate in the fall.

Editor Appointed

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)— The Clarion - Ledger Saturday announced appointment of Charles G. Smith Jr. as city editor.

Smith, 40-year-old native of Shreveport, La., had worked for the morning newspaper for 10 years as a contributing member and summer replacement.

He joined The Clarion-Ledger full-time last summer, resigning as instructor of journalism at Central High School.

He earned bachelor's and master's degrees at Mississippi College and later studied at Louisiana State University.

Farmer Urges Negro Voting

BRANDON, Miss. (AP) — James Farmer, national Negro leader, told some 400 marchers Saturday the Negro is no longer afraid to push for voting rights in Mississippi.

Farmer, head of the Congress of Racial Equality, spoke at the Rankin County Courthouse shortly after the marchers, mostly Negroes, ended a two-day trek to dramatize Negro voter registration.

As Farmer spoke, shotgun-armed auxiliary police ringed the courthouse. Some whites stood silently on the fringes of the gathering.

"A new Negro has appeared in Mississippi and across the country," Farmer said. "This Negro is not afraid of anything. We've been dying for nearly 350 years for our freedom and we're not afraid now."

About 50 eligible Negro voters that were among the marchers lined up to register to vote. About a dozen took voter tests before the office closed for the weekend.

Aleen Adams, co-chairman of the Rankin County movement, read a petition listing Negro grievances. Among them were demands to set up voter registration centers in county schools. Less than 100 Negroes in the county are registered.

Farmer, who had planned to join the last mile of the march, arrived by plane after the demonstrators had already reached town. After his talk, he boarded a plane back to New York.

A civil rights spokesman praised the reception given the marchers by county officials, who permitted them to continue singing "freedom" songs and to use the facilities of the courthouse while they waited for Farmer.

The two-day march along a 14-mile route from a rural church to Brandon was marred by only three arrests.

The highway patrol arrested Joe Hawkins of Jackson on a charge of pointing and aiming a deadly weapon at a marcher; Vernon Waldrup of Jackson on a concealed weapon charge; and CORE staff worker George Raymond on a traffic violation.

Officers said Hawkins was picked up after a white man driving past the march route pointed a pistol at a Negro Friday.

The patrol said Waldrup was in a car with Hawkins that drove past again Saturday, and a search of the car turned up a pistol, carbine, automatic rifle and ammunition. Both were jailed pending a hearing.

Raymond posted a $20 bond on his traffic charge when the group arrived at the courthouse. He was released.

Raymond met with Sheriff T. H. Shivers and got permission for eligible Negroes to line up and apply for registration as voters.

Helmeted and armed police waited along the streets of Brandon as the marchers ended their trek with a swing around the Confederate statue on the town square.

The marchers, who spent the night in two large tents, left their campsite after a breakfast of grits and coffee. There were about 150 at the start of the last leg of the trip. The number grew as the procession continued.

The route was littered with pamphlets which charged that the march was Communist led, and called on property owners to protect against trespassers "if you have to."

The leaflets, professionally printed, said if the marchers entered private property "ask law enforcement officers to arrest them and you file charges; or, put them under citizen's arrest yourself and hold them until officers come; or shoot them if you have to if they molest or trespass your property."

Indians Reach Everest's Peak

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — An Indian mountaineering expedition was reported Saturday to have reached the summit of Mt. Everest for the fourth time in nine days.

The news that the 29,028-foot peak had been scaled again by the Indian team led by Lt. Commander M.S. Kohli of the Indian navy reached the New Delhi government via telephone message from Nepal. It said three men had been seen standing on the snowy peak. They were identified as H. S. Ahluwalia, H. C. Rewal, and a Sherpa guide, Phu Dorji.

McKeithen Praised By Retiring Solon

SHREVEPORT (Special) — Sen. B. H. Rogers of Grand Cane, who is retiring after he serves out this term, Saturday praised Gov. John J. McKeithen, who he says is "making one of the best governors Louisiana has ever had."

Rogers said that he had never seemed able to congratulate past governors, but that McKeithen is doing a praiseworthy job.

Here is Rogers' statement:

"I have been connected with the state government of Louisiana for a number of years. During this time, I have consistently criticized governors and their programs whenever I thought them to be wrong.

"Looking back, it seems that I have never been able to congratulate a governor for his administration. And since I was quick to criticize, I would be ungreatful if I am not now equally quick to praise.

"In my opinion, Gov. John McKeithen is making one of the best governors Louisiana has ever had. He is doing a excellent job. He has made a sincere effort to please everybody — labor, business, industry, colored, white, poor people, rich people legislators. I think the fellow has done a fantastic job."

"It was a little hard to find the good things in past years. I feel we have now reached the point when we brag a little. I think we all wanted the code of ethics. It was adopted. He is on record as saying that he wants it administered in the letter and spirit of the law. The code of ethics is one of the greatest achievements of this administration and will have a long range beneficial effect on state government. There has been talk about the governor swapping and trading to get support for his legislative program but this talk is unfair. He is leading the legislature but it is a fine type of leadership and free of the previous pressures we know so well.

"McKeithen makes many decisions daily. When he makes a mistake, as everyone will, he is big enough to admit he is wrong and take the correct course.

"He is an extremely hard working governor. I believe he has talked to more people of Louisiana and learned more about their problems and interests than any governor this state has ever had.

"The change in attitudes toward our state government is amazing. During prior administrations, a senator speaking of good government would draw laughs and jeers, even from other members of the Senate. The phrase 'good government' was ridiculed. But now, when we talk of good government, everyone listens, and most listen with pride.

"The change in attitudes is evident out of state, too. I have seen Louisiana being treated with more and more respect from residents of other states. Gov. McKeithen has been praised by presidents of some of the largest corporations in this country. He is responsible for this change in attitudes.

"Of his own political future, Rogers said "I have no intention of running again for any public office, including the Senate. I am extremely pleased that so many improvements have been made in the conduct of the state's affairs. If this administration can continue its fine work I will retire as one of the happiest senators in the state.

"We who spent our time working for good government in Louisiana lost many battles, but it seems to me we have won the war.

Shell Fragments Show Viet Craft Mistakenly Shot

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. military spokesman said Saturday an examination of shell fragments showed that four U.S. planes mistakenly attacked a South Vietnamese outpost last Tuesday.

The attack occurred 4½ miles south of the border with Communist North Viet Nam and there were conflicting reports at the time of who made the strikes.

Vietnamese military officials and a U.S. military spokesman at Da Nang said the planes were presumed to be communist MIGs. U.S. military and diplomatic officials in Saigon said they were American jet planes off course.

Shell fragments recovered from the site were found to be from 20mm projectiles, the military spokesmen said. No MIGs are armed with 20mm cannon.

"Twenty millimeter ammunition is used by all U.S. tactical jet aircraft in Viet Nam except the F4 Phantom," the spokesman said.

Congressional Rest Still Far Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although Congress has cleared some controversial hurdles, Senate and House leaders have abandoned hopes for adjournment in July or even by Aug. 1.

Surveying the session record at the Memorial Day weekend break, some party chieftains say privately they'd be willing now to settle for a Labor Day getaway date although the official target still remains sometime in August.

Five politicall explosive Johnson administration bills remain to be dealt with and the arguments over them could go on for months.

Three of the five bills were submitted to Congress by the President 11 days ago in his labor message.

The five all involve issues on which Democrats have pledged action for years. With the party's majorities in the Senate and House both at their highest levels since the 1930s, Democratic strategists say now is the time to carry out the pledges.

The five are:

—Revision of the immigration laws to wipe out the national origins quotas in existence more than 40 years.

—Repeal of the Taft-Hartley law Section 14B, which permits states to ban labor contracts requiring a worker to join a union to hold his job.

—Extension of the minimum-wage law to cover 4.5 million additional workers in low-pay categories.

—Creation of a cabinet department of housing and urban development.

—Liberalization of unemployment compensation payments and establishing of federal standards for the amount and duration of benefits.

None of these has as high a priority in the Johnson program as the voting-rights bill or the Social Security-health care measure.

The voting rights and health measures are considered certain to reach Johnson's desk before long. The former has passed the Senate and the latter the House.

Legislators named by the administration to handle the five other bills believe that all except the unemployment compensation measure have a reasonably good chance of passage this year. But they concede there could be long and bitter fights over each one.

They say it will be up to the administration to decide which, if any, shall be put over until next year.

House and Senate subcommittees are well along on their hearings on the immigration bill.

The House Government Operations Committee has approved a housing and urban development measure, but there has been no floor action. The counterpart Senate committee has completed its hearings but has not voted on this bill.

House Labor subcommittees have opened hearings on Section 14B and minimum wage. There has been no action so far in the Senate.

The House Ways and Means Committee, which must originate the unemployment compensation bill, has not yet scheduled hearings on it.

Another major issue which could tie up Congress further is the proposed constitutional amendment to allow one branch of a state legislature to be apportioned on other than population factors. This is one on which the administration has avoided a stand.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has declared he will insist this be brought up for debate this year.

Jordan Charges Israeli Raiders Penetrate Again

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI)— Jordan charged Saturday that another Israeli patrol entered its territory Friday night and exchanged fire with Jordanian troops.

There were no indications of casualties in the clash, the first reported since Israel launched a three-pronged attack on Jordanian territory Thursday.

The death toll in that series of clashes rose to five Saturday when an eight-year old Jordanian boy died of wounds.

In Cairo, Jordan told the Arab premiers' meeting about the earlier Israeli attack, but made no demand for joint Arab retaliatory action.

Jordan's premier, Wasfi Al-Tal, was summoned home from the Cairo talks because of the border crisis.

"The unified Arab command has drawn up a more complete plan to meet any future aggression," he said.

OUTLAWS in HIDING

Oldtimers tell many stories about notorious early-day outlaws seeking refuge in the area. Some of the interesting reports handed down from one generation to another concern the visits of brothers Jesse and Frank James to Richland Parish.

By NELL LEE
Correspondent

In the late 1800's, Richland Parish, with its many swamps and heavily wooded areas, provided a refuge for many outlaws. Among these were the notorious James brothers, Jesse and Frank.

It seems as though some of the people in the parish during these days of the reconstruction period, compared the outlaws to Robin Hood. They apparently came to the area to visit relatives and hide from the law. Even though they were feared by some, they actually did not harm the people there, according to reports.

Many people condoned the activities of these outlaws because they were directed against some of the elements that had contributed to the misfortune of the confederacy.

During the height of their activities they came to Delhi to visit relatives, and rest from their crime activities. The old house where these relatives lived is said to have been built by their uncle, Captain Jared. Located on Louisiana Highway 17, just north of the high school, it is now as it was then, except for necessary repairs, and an addition on the south side.

Many Stories

Many stories are told about the house, which is called the "Old Haney House," by the people in Delhi. (It was bought by Tom Haney in 1906, and is now owned by his daughter, Mrs. J. B. Emery, who lives in Illinois).

One of the most exciting accounts told, especially to adventurous young people, is about a hidden passageway that was reached through a closet under the stairway. There is also supposed to have been a hidden compartment where the James boys hid their money. Whether this is a true story or not, I'm not sure, but it is one of the first things you are told when you mention that the James brothers spent some time there.

When Haney bought the house, he found some things that had belonged to Jesse. Among these was a holster, which he had on display in a saloon he owned at the time. According to his granddaughter, the holster disappeared, and could not be located by the family.

During this period in history, across from the house occupied by their relatives, was the home of Steve Owens. According to Owens' granddaughter, Mrs. E. B. Arender, Jesse spent a lot of time with her grandfather, and on several occasions, they would "swap" horses, if Jesse needed a faster, fresher horse. During his visits he used the Owens' fenced area in which to keep his horses.

Other Reports

A Delhi resident reported that another reason the James boys were seen in the area was that one of them was romantically interested in a girl who lived south of the town. Her father was a blacksmith.

Near Delhi, about a mile north of Dunn, is the "Old Carpenter Place." This was a stagecoach relay station during that time. The old house, which was called "Carpenters Inn," burned many years ago, but the well which was in use then, is still there. An electric pump has been added, and a small shed build around it, but it is still used.

It is told that Jesse and Frank were there on several occasions. On one of their visits, some witnesses were needed to sign a legal document on the transfer of some land which involved two members of the Carpenter family, and Jesse signed as a witness to the transaction. (Jesse Woodson James was his full name, and he signed as J. W. James).

Document On File

This document, on file at the Richland Parish Courthouse in Rayville, was for the sale of 140 acres of land, for the price of $100, and is dated November 25, 1875.

According to Mrs. Evelyn Cochran of Rayville, Jesse was supposed to have buried some gold on the old Carpenter Place one time when he was being chased by the law. She recalls being taken there by her father when she was a very small child, to dig for "Jesse's gold." "There would be droves of people there digging, and holes were dug all over the property, but no gold was ever found as far as I know," she said.

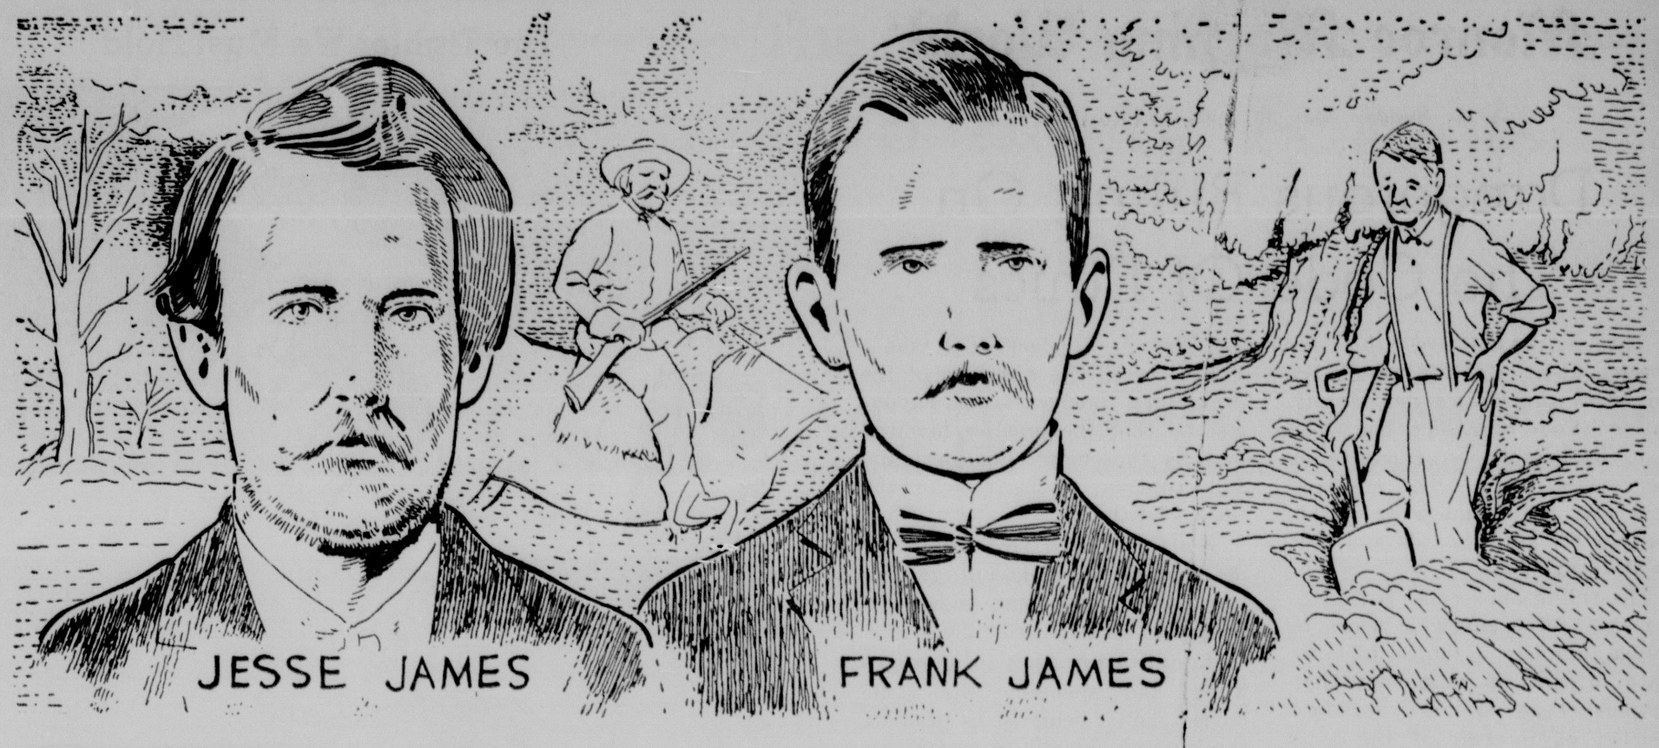

North of Delhi, just over the parish line in West Carroll, is a place that was known as Old Floyd. Jesse was riding with Quantrille's Raiders during the time he was reported to have been in Old Floyd. One source of information said the lawmen there bragged so much about their jail being the best, that outlaws taunted them, and took great pleasure in making them miserable when they could not "catch them."

Transition

The courthouse and jail have been torn down, the old hanging tree removed, and Old Floyd once the parish seat, and a very active place, is now a quiet farming community.

In an interview with E. B. "Dip" Carson of Rayville, an interesting sidelight was brought out. He told about noticing houses all over the area with a lone pine tree in the front yard. Being curious, he asked about this, and was told by an old confederate soldier, that people who were friendly with the James boys, planted the pine tree as a sign of their friendship. Anytime any member of the gang was in the area, he looked for this sign, and knew the people who lived there could be trusted.

He also said that people who knew Jesse and Frank, would not talk about it to anyone. He was told that because of their feelings for Jesse, or because of their fear of him, they kept quiet about their acquaintance with the notorious outlaw. It has been told through the years that Jesse's password was "A dead man tells no tales." This was perhaps a reason for keeping quiet.

OUTLAW BROTHERS Jesse and Frank James, are portrayed in drawings based on early photographs of them. Their visits to northeast Louisiana gave rise to many stories, including those of buried gold. Treasure hunters dug in vain for the precious metal, and looked for hidden compartments in places where the outlaws stayed.

The James gang had a hideout which it built east of Delhi, a short distance from Waverly, to be used when the whole gang came to the area. When the two brothers came alone, they spent the time with friends and relatives.

"Many Locales"

An interesting story has been told by different people, as happening in various places. Some say it happened in our area. Others say it was in Arkansas.

It seems that the James boys arrived at the home of a widow one day to rest. As she prepared supper for them, they could sense her worry. Jesse asked if she was worried because they were there. She said no, but told them that the next day a man was to come to collect the mortgage payment due on her home, which amounted to several hundred dollars, and she did not have the funds available.

After questioning her about the man who would come to collect, he gave her the money to pay the debt, and urged her to get a signed receipt of payment.

Next day, the man came, collected the money, gave the receipt, and left. He was only a short distance from the widow's home, when he was stopped and robbed by Jesse and Frank.

Many times during, her life, the late Mrs. Earline Sartor of Alto, told a story that had been passed down through the years by members of her family. It went like this: In 1871, her grandfather, John Baker, lived on what was then known as Reed Plantation, a few miles from Delhi.

Used Alias

One day as he was on his way to town, he met four men he had known in Missouri. Knowing they were outlaws, he decided to take them to his home, rather than go into town with them.

When they arrived at his home, he introduced them to his wife as "Brother Smith," and three helpers in a missionary endeavor in the community. She greeted them cordially, and prepared a supper of smoked sausage, hominy, Louisiana yams, corn pone, and coffee.

During the visit, "Brother Smith" noticed the Bakers' small baby in her crib, and remarked how beautiful she was. After asking permission, he took the baby and held her for some time. (The baby, who was six-weeks old at the time, was Mrs. Sartor's mother, Beulah Baker Williams, and she is still living).

Young Will Baker was taken for a walk around the yard by "Brother Smith," and as they talked, Will was encouraged to always do what his parents said, and to do the right thing.

The family was given a dollar bill which he took from the lining of his coat. (It was rumored later that he supposedly had over $60,000 in his coat at the time).

Impressed

After they left, Mrs. Baker told her husband, "John, Brother Smith was one of the most cultured, tender men I have ever met. Didn't you notice how tender and kind he was with the children?"

Several months later, Mrs. Baker was told that "Brother Smith" was really Jesse James, and his helpers were his brother Frank, and two of the Younger brothers.

His life of violence, ended in violence. He was shot in the back by one who claimed to be his friend, in April, 1882.

Memorial Day--A Time Of Remembrance For Nation

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — One fell in the woods along the route to the Rappahannock in 1861.

One was a general who commanded the American Expeditionary Forces in World War I.

One lies beneath white marble "In honored glory, an American soldier known but to God."

One, who had served in the Navy, died of an assassin's bullet in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963.

At the grave of each of these, and others — 1,038,000 in number — who lie buried in U. S. national cemeteries a small American flag will fly this May 30, Memorial Day, the day to honor the dead.

Flags may not be used to decorate the graves except on this day. It's a custom that simply grew through the years, a way for the country to show its respect for those who fought its wars and served it in peacetime.

On this day, too, as they have for 97 years, military people and civilians will gather at nearby Arlington National Cemetery, the best known of the 98 national cemeteries for remembrance services.

Following custom, a wreath from the President will be laid, with full military honors, at the tombs where lie buried the Unknowns. They are the three nameless men who died for their country in World War I, World War II and in Korea and symbolize all who have died for their country.

A miniature flag will fly on the grave of John Fitzgerald Kennedy behind a white picket fence on a grassy slope of Arlington where sometimes 50,000 people come in a day to pay honor to the slain president.

More than eight million persons have visited the grave since Kennedy was buried there Nov. 25, 1963.

The Army has received complaints that the throngs have disturbed the dignity and peace of the cemetery. Rep. Joel T. Broyhill, R-Va., whose district includes the cemetery, once complained it had become "a wholesale tourist attraction and the quiet, reverent atmosphere of the cemetery has given way to the trample of tourists' feet over the burial plots."

This is the day when Americans pause to honor the memory of those who fought this nation's wars and served in its peacetime forces. Major centers of activity will be the national cemeteries where many thousands of persons will visit the flag decorated grave sites.

Improvement

An Army spokesman said that while many complaints were heard last year, none had come this year. He added that meetings had been held with others to explain prescribed routes and procedures.

Some tourists, especially the young in their plumed souvenir hats, rush up, click their cameras and go on in their frantic pace.

But others — and most of the visitors do — stand quietly a few moments, gazing at the eternal flame and green boughs that mark Kennedy's grave; and the remembering and the sadness shows in their eyes.

This fall, if all goes as planned, construction will begin on the circular walks and low monument, embodying the eternal flame, to mark the grave site.

Only under special circumstances, and usually in the old sections of the cemeteries, may a special marker be placed.

In the newer sections the long white rows of $22 white marble government headstones stand in military precision. Interments are made without distinction as to rank, race, color or creed.

The grave of General of the Armies John J. Pershing, who led American troops in Europe in World War I, has a simple government headstone.

The little flag will fly there. It will fly over a grass-covered mound where lie buried 2,111 unknown dead of the Civil War, whose bones were recovered from the battlefields of Bull Run and the route to the Rappahannock River in Virginia.

Newer Graves

The flag will fly, too, over all the new graves, the ones for those who fought at places like the beaches of Normandy, Guadalcanal and the Yalu River.

Each day, some 27 persons are buried in Arlington; each day some 37 are buried in the Long Island, N.Y., National Cemetery; each day, some 30 in the Golden Gate Cemetery near San Francisco.

Approximately 45,000 interments will be made this year in the 98 national cemeteries.

Regulations provide that flowers and wreaths, real or artificial, may be placed on a grave in a national cemetery at any time. The only requirement is that they not touch the headstone. Nothing may be planted at the grave.

On Memorial Day — the traditional day for decorating the grave of a veteran — the people come with their flowers. For many families it's a pilgrimage.

Soldiers

Soldiers from Ft. Myer, Va., were assigned to help Arlington cemetery personnel put a flag beside each grave.

At some cemeteries, Boy Scouts help in the work. The flags are gathered the day after Memorial Day to be stored and used again the next year. To replace those found unsuitable for use again, the Army ordered 106,450 new flags this year.

In the big cities and little towns across the country, the people will remember the dead, too. Sometimes veterans' organizations place flags on veterans' graves.

Memorial Day — once known as Decoration Day — began in 1868 as a day to honor those who died in the Civil War. Now it honors all veterans who have died, traditionally by decorating their graves.

Those who went down with their ships at sea are remembered, too.

For them, flowers drift on the water.

The Navy has no special ceremonies, but tries to furnish a small ship, when requested, for groups to carry a wreath out to be dropped at sea.

In many port cities, veterans' groups do this.

And in an inland town, Easton, Pa., each year high school students make a miniature boat and fill it with flowers to be set adrift to float down the Delaware River and from there — who knows — perhaps out to sea in remembrance.

Dangerous Ruling On The Code Of Ethics

The Louisiana Board Ethics for Elected State Officials, which administers the state's new constitutional Code of Ethics, has ruled that Legislators — Senators or Representatives — who are lawyers may hold paid posts as attorneys for state boards and other state agencies.

The ruling apparently is a blanket one and opens wide doors to double dipping in state jobs by state officials in a manner that obviously can and will produce conflict of interest of the type which those who supported the Code of Ethics expected it to end.

Presumably, the Board has ruled in accordance with the statutes which the Legislature passed to give basic definition to what is ethical and unethical in the activities of paid state officials. If that is the case, the Legislature should amend its previous enactments and specifically make such dual job holding, for pay in both jobs, unethical and thus illegal under the Code and its supporting statutes. If the Board's ruling was based merely on its own discretion, we suggest that there be quick reconsideration of the case involved.

The particular case which brought the ruling reportedly involves plans of a state regulatory agency which sets standards for radio and television technicians—radio service firms and individuals — to employ a New Orleans Legislator as its attorney. Thus, this particular person, in his capacity as a Legislator would help make the laws governing the agency and then in his capacity as attorney for the agency would determine who was to be prosecuted, and when, under those laws. This is very much like having one man as both prosecutor and judge in the judicial field.

"Ethics" — which means moral doings as contrasted with merely lawful doings — never could sanction such actions. It was to be expected that loopholes would be found in such a new venture as a constitutional and statutory Code of Ethics for a state government — and Louisiana's is the first of its kind in the nation. So, it must be assumed that there is a loophole which has brought the Board's ruling. But, if a loophole now has been uncovered, the thing to do is to close it. And in the meantime, the state regulatory board which is planning to employ a Legislator as its attorney should pick somebody who is not already a state official. If it already has put the Legislator on the payroll, it should get him off. It should not take a Board to tell the members of the regulatory agency — or anyone else — that the practice involved here is thoroughly unethical and fully contrary to the intent of the Code of Ethics.

There is almost no limit to the destruction of ethics in government that could come under this ruling by the Board.

Having a say both in appropriating and spending the same money isn't calculated to promote the kind of objectivity toward his elective job that a lawmaker ought, as much as possible, to be helped in maintaining. The fact that two salaries, both from the state, also are involved, is a separate consideration — but "double dipping," is not an example of what is meant by "ethics."

The main consideration though, is, who is a lawmaker representing if he should vote "yes" to funds which the state board he serves as a lawyer is to spend? Ethics suggests that such a question oughtn't to arise. The fact that it can be posed even hypothetically raises the deeper question of whether the Ethics Board's ruling will square with one of the prime stated intentions of the Code — that of increasing public confidence in the integrity of government.

The present interim Board of Ethics for Elected State Officials is in process of being given full four year terms, or replaced, as the Governor, the Senate and the House determine. Each appoints one member. The Senate already has confirmed one of the present members for a four year term, with the Governor and the House still to act on the other two posts. The Board has made another questionable ruling in letting Public Service Commissioner Ernest Clements collect rent from the state for an office which he occupies officially but owns personally. The Board had to let slide a specific prohibition against this sort of practice in order to let Mr. Clements continue that arrangement.

The Code of Ethics by its nature calls for its administrators to ask themselves not what is wrong with a specific practice but whether or not it could result in wrong or suspicion of wrong. That, after all, is what the Code is aimed at preventing. It is concerned with practices outside the reproach of the law but within the scope of every man's conscience, including that of a watchful public.

Collecting Its Bill

Sometimes statements on actions in Washington reach the point of being not only frank but extremely blunt. Nothing quite equals bluntness in driving home a point.

Regarding President Johnson's endorsement of union labor's demand for repeal of section 14 (b) of the Taft - Hartley act, Editorial Research Reports, a Washington fact and analytical sheet, said:

"The administration is ready to give labor the opportunity to collect its bill for support of the Johnson - Humphrey ticket and the Democratic sweep in Congress last year."

Since the President is allowing labor to "collect a bill," we don't know whether the Chief Executive, in his heart, really believes people should be forced to join organizations to which they do not wish to belong. But it makes little difference how he feels if he helps union labor thus deprive American workers of their freedom of choice.

Union shop contracts between employers and unions require workers to join a union within a specified time, usually 30 to 60 days after being employed. Some legal authorities and some states believe such a contract to be in violation of the Constitution of the United States, since it may force a worker to join an organization against his will. There are some who say this is as bad as forcing a person to join any certain religious organization or certain political party.

In some instances, although they may be comparatively rare, conniving between management sub - bosses and union officials has been charged. In these cases it has been alleged that big employment turnovers have been carried on so that high initial union membership fees can be collected and divided between the hirers and the union bosses.

Some states, holding to the theory that forced membership is undemocratic and unconstitutional, have enacted right - to - work laws, which prohibit forced union membership. States were empowered to enact such laws in section 14 (b) of the Taft - Hartley act. In asking repeal of section 14 (b), the labor unions want to deny to the states the right to enact or enforce right - to - work laws.

By coming out in favor of the repeal of this section, President Johnson has endorsed what we believe to be the undemocratic and unconstitutional practice of forcing people to join organizations to which they do not belong and to be penalized by losing their jobs, or the right to work.

Fire Protection

To the Editor: Monroe, La.

I have never in all my life, written a letter such as this, but felt that the time for it is now. Between the hours of approximately 5:30 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. I witnessed the most appalling sight in all of my 42 years. A house was allowed to burn to the ground with no fire help or protection at all. We are relative new-comers to Monroe, and are wondering what kind of a city or Parish government is run here. Our understanding, which I cannot state to be a fact, is that the "Police Jury", knew 22 months before January, 1965, that the fire protection was to be taken away from the Parish. Can it be explained in a satisfactory way as to why nothing was done about it (an election that is) until long after that date was past?? The end people who were eligible to vote, and didn't, but again why wasn't this put to a vote long before the date was up, for protection. . ? ?

Since we are with the military, we have our legal voting in California. We were thinking of changing it to here, but if this is the way things work here, we are beginning to wonder if it would be worth it. We think we live in a very nice new area of Monroe, but if our house is allowed to burn to the ground, what future is there?? Even with all the help of the neighbors and people just passing along the street, it wasn't enough to save the house in question. So where does that leave the rest of us and what can be done about it, in a hurry.

I wish to apologize to the one very nice fireman I talked to. I was very "sharp" with him, and do realize it wasn't his fault he couldn't come out, since we are ½ mile out of the city limits. But at the time all I could see was someone's home burning, and felt there could be some help.

I do hope, that within your paper, there is someway that you can help the problem, and most immediately. It may be a "lost cause" but I would hate to think that the people of Monroe and particularly the Parish residents think of it as that. If there is any way you can do it through publicity, please do it and not next week, but now. .

Slower Speed

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

This letter is directed to the attention of the person that was travelling north on Lincoln Road last Thursday afternoon. It concerns the unfortunate death of a childs' puppy struck by your car. I trust the damage to your auto was not too serious, since the impact of a 14 pound puppy with a 3000 pound auto traveling at 50 or 60 miles per hour can produce quite a severe jolt. While I realize that the puppy should not have been on the highway, perhaps a little slower speed would have allowed an evasive action, such as applying the brakes, and prevented the accident. Really, you should consider slowing down when travelling through areas such as Lincoln Road. After all, the collision of an auto at that speed with a thirty-five pound child would really be a bang.

Pay Raises For

To the Editor: Monroe, La.

This morning's paper carried an account of the Senate approving pay raises for State Banking Commissioner and Public Service Commissioner — raising the Banking Commissioner from $12,000 to $16,000 annually — in addition to an almost unlimited expense account. The Public Service Commissioner will be raised from $10,500 to $12,500 plus expenses. Senator Rayburn from Bogalusa stated that these men needed a raise in salary because everyone else was making more money. Just who else does he mean when he says "everyone else is making more money." I dare say that the average worker of today doesn't make $4,000 a year take home pay, which is what the Bank Commissioner's increase in salary would be. Another Senator said that Governor McKeithen sought the Commissioner for the job and that the Commissioner did not seek the job, and that is evidently true. Yet the Commissioner knew what the job paid when he accepted it. The writer does not know the Bank Commissioner personally, and certainly has no quarrel with Mr. James, as I believe Mr. James is a very fine gentleman and a very efficient Banking Commissioner. But, why should the State legislature raise the salaries of state officials thereby causing the public to have to pay for these increases when the majority of the taxpayers have about all the "load" they can carry trying to make ends meet.

Why doesn't the legislature try to help the 31 per cent of state employees who make less than $200 per month and the 70 per cent (Senator DeBlieu's figures as quoted in paper) who make $300 per month instead of voting themselves extra pay and increases in salary for most of the state officials. The Public Service Commissioner is to receive $2,000 a year increase — and this is a question and most definitely not a statement: What is the Public Service Commissioner going to do with the $2,000 per year increase — buy an office building for Commission? Senator B. H. Rogers of Grand Cane says he thinks the governor of the state should receive from $50,000 to $100,000 per year, and one would presume that the expense account would be maintained. Oh, well! We can't all be Banking Commissioners, Public Service Commissioners, Governors, State Senators or even representatives, but we can all vote against that kind of legislation, and so long as an apathetic public lets this go on, the longer it will go on and will become progressively worse.

South Viet Nam Politics

By JEANNE KUEBLER
Editorial Research Report

WASHINGTON — Dissolution of the powerful Armed Forces Council of South Viet Nam early this month marked the end of 18 months of direct control or indirect supervision of the country's political affairs by the military. The armed forces — despite shifting alliances among contesting generals — had held the real power since the military overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem in November 1963. Since then, Saigon has gone through nine changes of government, along with several attempted coup d'etats and frequent anti-government demonstrations. Military factions have fought one another, Buddhists have fought Catholics, and politicians have lacked the will to cooperate to establish a viable civilian government.

The present premier of South Viet Nam, Phan Huy Quat, has held office since February 16. The turbulent atmosphere that afflicted the political life of the country during previous government has quieted to some extent. Martial law was abolished in late March and the most recent plot to overthrow the government was nipped, May 20-21, by the arrest of a number of military officers before they were able to carry out the coup they planned.

South Vietnamese military leaders and American officials have expressed hope that the relative governmental stability of the past few months will last long enough to permit long-run changes for the better in the military situation. Persisting political turmoil has been a major factor in the failure to deal more effectively with the Communist - backed insurgency that continues to wrack the country despite ever-increasing American assistance. U. S. aid now involves, in addition to a vast economic and military assistance program, the help of 45,000 U. S. military advisers and combat troops. An additional 25,000 American combat troops are expected to be ordered to South Viet Nam in the next two months.

South Viet Nam has long been plagued by political, ethnic, regional, and religious divisions. A particularly troublesome split is that between the numerous Buddhist sects, which claim the allegiance of a majority of the people, and the large Catholic minority, many of them refugees from Communist North Viet Nam. The roots of the religious division reach back to Vietnamese persecution of the French missionaries who brought Catholicism to the country before it became a colony of France. But the antagonism has been aggravated in recent years by alleged government favoritism to Catholics and persecution of Buddhists.

The split is as much political as religious. The Catholics are in the forefront of the anti-Communist movement, while some of the prominent Buddhist leaders favor negotiating a settlement of the war. The two groups are the principal elements in a developing realignment of political factions between "end-the-war" and "win-the-war" parties.

Anti-government agitation by Buddhists was reponsible for bringing down several governments in the past two years. Now powerful Buddhist leaders who want to parley with the Communists are reported to be hand - picking men to take over as provincial chiefs under the present government. Provincial leadership is regarded as vital to Buddhist plans to install a neutralist or pro - Communist government which would advocate American military withdrawal and direct negotiations with North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong.

Behind the movement to end the war is the realization that military victory for either side is unlikely in the near future. But the path to a political settlement may be blocked also by what Hans J. Morgenthau, a leading critic of American policy in Southeast Asia, terms "the irreconcilable character of the positions taken by either side." Despite differences in the views of the Soviet Union, North Viet Nam, Communist China, and the Viet Cong, all are agreed that the American military presence in South Viet Nam must be eliminated. The United States, on the other hand, refuses to get out before the country attains a degree of stability which, in Morgenthau's view, is "unattainable in the foreseeable future."

President Johnson has declared repeatedly, since April 7, that the United States is ready to enter into unconditional discussions. But the President has made it clear that any settlement must provide for "an independent South Viet Nam — securely guaranteed and able to shape its own relationships to others." Washington and Saigon insist that the main negotiator on the other side would have to be North Viet Nam rather than the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, because they are convinced that Hanoi is responsible for the guerrilla activity.

BARRY GOLDWATER

Johnson Is Using Some G.O.P. Aims

LYNDON JOHNSON has adopted many important elements of Republican foreign policy — elements particularly from the 1964 campaign. This political truism is flattering, but it must be carefully examined.

The administration's dramatic show of strength in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic is taken right out of the Republican platform. It runs directly contrary to accumulated years of Democrat foreign policy failures.

But that is not all there is to it. We can now see disturbing signs that President Johnson, having taken one good and firm Republican step, is now on the brink of losing his balance and falling back to the more usual Democrat tactics of compromise, confusion and coalition. In this connection it should be remembered that the administration's top foreign policy spokesmen in Congress are leading the fight against a strong foreign policy.

Supporters of the President in a strong foreign policy should be aware that these policies can change overnight simply by the President's failure to follow through.

FOR INSTANCE, to speak now of a coalition government in the Dominican Republic is to make the Bay of Pigs look like a victory. At least the Bay of Pigs was a sharply outlined failure of a single military operation. To throw away everything done so far in the Dominican Republic would be the failure of an entire policy, the shattering of an entire national posture of strength and the unworthy reward of our military losses there.

Here is an area where the error in saying that Mr. Johnson is following a Republican policy becomes clear. Republican policy would reject a coalition in which Communists would have an inevitably fatal voice. And it would take every necessary next step to assure the independence of the Dominican Republic from Communist subversion, whether this meant winning a popularity contest or not.

Above all, Republican policy would not consider the Dominican Republic as an isolated crisis either in Latin America or the world at large. It would attend immediately to the knitting up of our alliances to cope with the world-wide crisis of which the Dominican problem is merely a piece.

IN VIET NAM, although Mr. Johnson did follow the vitally important Republican advice to bomb in the North, he specifically bungled an important follow-through item — making the enemy understand that it could expect no respite and would have no sanctuary until aggression ceased — by temporarily halting the bombing at a critical point and by letting the word spread that we would not bomb Hanoi.

The door is still left open to a coalition government in Viet Nam despite history's emphatic lesson that a coalition with Communists leads inexorably to a conquest by Communists.

President Johnson's foreign policy in some areas has been firm and strong, but so far that just applies to the parts, not the policy. Before Republicans permit the public to get the impression that everything President Johnson does is copied from the Republican platform, they should look closely at the fine print and the possibly far from satisfactory patterns that are now shaping on the foreign policy horizon.

We can still hope that the President will persist in strength. We can't take it for granted.

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Sees All, Hears All, Keeps Quiet

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: My doctor is very good except for one thing. He talks too much.

At a cocktail party, at a dinner, or anywhere more than two or three people meet, he will think nothing of mentioning names of patients and telling what must be their innermost secrets. For that reason I know there are many things I should tell him which I don't. What do you think of it? — Mrs. U.

Comment: In the first place, I don't agree with your definition of what a very good doctor is. Not even a good doctor, without the ability to see all, hear all and say nothing, I believe the best doctor, scientific - wise, falls far short of what a good doctor should be.

This is nothing new. It was said by a wise man many years ago. Let me quote from the Hippocratic Oath: "Whatsoever in my practice or not in my practice I shall see or hear, amid the lives of men, which ought not to be noised abroad — as to this I will keep silence, holding such things unfitting to be spoken."

Own Rule Of Conduct

In my work I have leaned backwards to guard the words left in my care by trusting patients. During many years of practice I do not recall one instance when I opened the door on the secret recesses of a patient's mind. When others have asked me, "What has he got?" or "What did he tell you?" I changed the subject or came right out with the statement that I never discussed my patients with a third party.

Hippocrates knew what he was talking about. The patient should come to his doctor believing he can tell him anything whatsoever, without even the possibility that it may be repeated — in open or closed gatherings. Or to any other person in "strictest confidence."

Mrs. U., I don't know what to say to you specifically. You might suggest to your doctor that you are aware of his penchant for talking too much. Whether nor not it will help I don't know. Some doctors have clammed up after being told to make more use of their vocal brakes.

But there's one decision you must make — not to go along as you have been, afraid to tell him everything because you don't trust his ability to keep quiet. That's a poor patient-doctor relationship. You won't be getting your money's worth, healthwise or any other way.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: Is it true that when there's no family history of hemophilia there's no danger of any of the children having it? — Mr. P.

Comment: Not true. Nearly half the victims of "bleeder's disease" have no previous family history of the disease. Although hemophilia is transmitted by the female who may not be affected herself, to male children only, recently it has been shown that there is a type of hemophilia which may affect both males and females.

There are at least 100,000 cases of hemophilia in the United States. There is no specific cure for this condition in which there is a deficiency of an important clotting factor in the blood. Repeated blood transfusions may be lifesaving.

If a hemophilic man marries a non-carrier woman, none of the sons will be born with hemiophilia but all the daughters will be carriers. On the other hand, if a carrier marries a non-hemophilic man, each son has a 50-50 chance of being a victim, and each daughter has a 50-50 chance of being a carrier. No one can predict whether or not a child will be affected. I hope these facts help you, Mr. P.

Dr. Steincrohn's booklet, "Fat Can Kill You," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, in care of this newspaper.

Dr. Steincrohn is sorry he cannot answer readers' letters. Nevertheless, most questions are answered in later columns.

Editor's LAGNIAPPE With Jack Gates

Sunday Poem

Should you feel inclined to censure
Faults you may in others view,
Ask your own heart, ere you venture,
If that has not failings, too.
Let not friendly vows be broken;
Rather strive a friend to gain;
Many a word in anger spoken
Finds its passage home again.
Do not, then, in idle, pleasure,
Trifle with a brother's fame,
Guard it as a valued treasure,
Sacred as your own good name.
Do not form opinions blindly,
Hastiness to trouble tends;
Those of whom we thought unkindly
Oft become our warmest friends.

AIN'T IT SO — A man should never be ashamed to own he has been in the wrong, which is but saying, in other words, that he is wiser today than he was yesterday.

Drive carefully, because the President of the United States is taking a walk these days and must be kept safe.

We refer to the boy who will be president in 1980. Somewhere in the nation he is walking or playing in or near traffic. Take care of him, his future is important.

Right now he's not interested in being president, but in riding bikes, flying kites, playing ball or having fun — and that's where the trouble lies. He seldom gives a thought to danger for his safety. That is up to you. You must do it for him, because he's an important boy.

This is just our way of saying that now school is out for the summer, there will be more children on the streets every day — so drive carefully.

Night Call

A doctor friend passed this one on to us.

About 2 a.m. not long ago, a patient telephoned him and said, "Doc, can you come over right away? I have a terrible toothache."

As politely as he could, the doctor told her what you need is a dentist, not a physician.

To which the patient replied: "Yes, I know — but I just hated to call a dentist at this hour of the night."

AN EXPENSE OF SPIRIT: In the villages around Cologne, Germany, if an outsider wants to ask a village beauty for a date, he'll have to set aside about $5 to pay a "tax" on the girl. This unofficial tax is collected by local youths from intruders who, they feel, are invading their rightful territory. A "hunting license" may cost hard cash, a case of beer or some bottles of schnapps. And if the outsider chooses to ignore the custom, he may find himself chaperoned by local "time-keepers" on his date or the tires on his car may mysteriously go flat. Unfortunately for the country girls, many a city slicker has elected to give up his pursuit rather than pay the required fee.

Everyone should open his mail because, if for no other reasons, occasionally an interesting item comes along.

An intriguing one caught our eyes the other day with this catchy head: "What's a Good Wife Worth?"

The article went on to say a good wife not only must be intelligent and energetic, she must be skilled at no less than 12 different occupations. What's more, she had to be willing to put in overtime all the time and be on call any time. As nursemaid, for example, a wife is worth $1.25 an hour. She'd get $2.50 an hour as family dietician . . . $2.25 as general handyman . . . $2.50 as chauffeur-around-town. And, the article said, contrary to popular male opinion, modern machines, streamlined kitchens and the 1001 gadgets meant to ease the wife's daily burden, haven't given her more relaxing time. They've made it possible for her to take on more tasks and do them all better.

The story finally ended up by saying, taking all these things into consideration is that "if you paid your wife at the going rate for all the jobs she performs around the house, her annual salary would be $8,250."

The only question the story failed to answer is: What wife is doing all of this?

They Are Funny

Politicians are funny people — and often a breed apart.

Recently a Congressman's friend, after a visit to his district, asked: "Did you know that Tom ——— is going to run against you?"

"Well," snapped the official, "I'm not surprised. He's an ingrate and a scoundrel; lucky to be out of the pentientiary."

Then the politician's friend continued: "Jim ——— is also threatening to announce."

"He's the same type," said the congressman, "a reprobate, a thoroughly evil character."

"Aw," said the friend, "I'm just kidding you. I saw them both; they asked about you and sent their regards."

"Now, see what you've done,", said the relieved politician. "You've made me say some ugly things about two of the sweetest, finest and most upright men in my district."

Restriction Of News

In view of the nationwide attempt to restrict news coverage of criminal proceedings, an editorial in the Nashville (Tenn.) Banner is very timely.

Because it expresses our personal view of the subject, we're reprinting it. It goes like this:

"The American Society of Newspaper Editors, speaking for the American press, has branded as "impractical and harmful" attempts to restrict news coverage of criminal proceedings.

"The so-called guidelines that certain elements of the bar and the judiciary are seeking to impose — under the leadership of U.S. Attorney General Katzenbach, go far beyond the "impractical." These rules would lead to censorship in the most vital and sensitive areas of the personal freedom guaranteed each and every citizen of the U.S. Censorship, unless employed to protect the nation's security, works only one way — to the advanage of the unscrupulous public official.

"The key to the ASNE objection is in the following statement — and the thought has never been better expressed: 'If the American courts and police . . were perfect in all their acts, it is conceivable that they would need no public scrutiny. But in the real world, when failings of individuals and social attitudes lead to imperfect justice, the press, as agent of the public, finds it necessary to make known promptly to the community facts and circumstances the court may not chose to consider or, lacking the press reports, may not even know about.'

"Censorship is a creeper and there is no degree to blackout. It will be a sad day for America if or when the newspaper is so fettered or circumscribed that it is not free to function with the searchlight of full efficiency as the forum of last resort for the citizen who believes he has unjustly been deprived of his rights . . ."

Here And There

A TEAM of psychiatrists, in a comparative study of wedded and single bliss, recently came up with these results: Married men were the happiest and married women the unhappiest; single women and single men were in between, with the spinisters somewhat happier than the bachelors. The report was submitted to the American Psychiatric Association by Drs. Genevier Knupfer and Robin Room (married) and Walter Clark (divorced) . . . .

THOSE ISOMETRIC exercises that improve the figure may also be putting an undue strain on the heart and arteries, British doctors believe. Researchers at Edinburg University have found that blood pressure soars when any group of muscles is contracted hard for even a short time. A group of healthy young doctors, experimenting on themselves, discovered that when they use only 10 per cent of their strength to grasp a handgrip, their blood pressure shot up 10 to 20 points. At 50 per cent of maximum grip, their blood pressure rose to the level of people suffering from severe hypertension. . .

ON THE LOCAL scene, expect soon another bond election in an effort to establish some form of fire protection for residents in Ouachita Parish, living outside the city limits of Monroe and West Monroe. Best guess is that it will come in July . . . .

Monroe Loses Leading Citizen

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

"Truly, this gentleman has etched his profile upon the personality of our city."

These words, spoken by Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard, formed but one of the many hundreds of tributes in which a saddened community last week marked the passing of an illustrious and universally respected leader.

He was speaking of David Silverstein, felled Monday by a fatal heart attack and probably no encomium could have been more aptly phrased. For if there was any single bond in the recollection of the great and the humble whose admiration and debt he had incurred over the past 42 years it was the impression of limitless civic spirit.

"Dave Silverstein was Monroe. He loved the city because he loved its people — all of them," one recalled. "He belonged to just about every organization and there never was a cause or a person he wouldn't help to the utmost of his ability."

"If there ever was a man who gave the lie to the notion of the hard-hearted businessman, it was Dave Silverstein," another said. His personal generosity towards individuals, friends or acquaintances, was a salient feature of his memory for many.

Expressions of respect and sympathy came from many parts of the state and nation. Gov. John McKeithen expressed his sorrow Tuesday, and Rep. Lawrence Gibbs spoke in the Louisiana House on behalf of the Ouachita legislative delegation.

Mr. Silverstein, in business continuously at the same DeSiard Street location since coming to Monroe from St. Louis in 1923, had been an honorary colonel on the staff of every Louisiana governor for the past 30 years.

Directors of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce announced plans Tuesday for a memorial civic award "to perpetuate the honor and dignity with which the late David Silverstein served his community." Silverstein reserved a special impetus for his service with the Chamber, as he did for the United Givers Fund and any effort to assist Northeast Louisiana Sate College.

Many noted memorials to Silverstein, in a sense, already are in existence, through his diligence in industry inducement and planning leadership in the city's capital improvement program, now underway.

And so the Twin Cities observed the passing of a torch. "The final test of a leader," a famous writer wrote, "is that he leaves behind in other men the conviction and the will to carry on."

Another Loss

Monroe lost another of its notables earlier in the week with the death of John P. Simmons, 62-year-old district maintenance superintendent for the Louisiana Department of Highways and former city commissioner of streets and parks.

A native of Franklinton, Mr. Simmons was a resident of Monroe for over 38 years and was associated with the city for 28 years. He served as commissioner of streets and parks from 1948 until 1952.

Violent death also reared its head during the week, when a sports car struck a trailer truck head-on early Thursday near Rayville, claiming the life of a 20-year-old Northeast Louisiana State College student. Killed was Mason Henry McEnery Jr. of Oak Ridge, who died in the wreckage three miles west of Rayville on U.S. 80. Injured was a passenger, Carolyn Avant, 17, of Rayville, while the truck driver apparently was uninjured.

The other news of the week took many forms.

From Baton Rouge came an important dispatch, quoting Gov. McKeithen to the effect that the state plans to use bond issue funds to assist Monroe in the construction of a DeSiard Street overpass. The Senate passed a $140 million issue Wednesday, including $100 million for highway construction.

In Monroe, the mayor and Highway Board Vice Chairman James W. Moore reported that actual planning on the U. S. 165 — La. 15 link between I-20 and U.S. 80, which includes the overpass, will begin next month. The link, expected to cost overall more than $3.5 million, will connect I-20 and 80 by a four-lane business route, with the overpasss to cross DeSiard at Five Points.

More activity of a highway slant included bids opening in Baton Rouge Wednesday on, among other projects, an over four-mile segment of I-20 east from Monroe city limits. Successful bidder, for $2,020,000, was T. L. James and Company of Ruston.

Dedication

One phase of Monroe's capital improvement program, the first to be completed, was formally dedicated last Sunday at Selman Field before crowds from throughout northeast Louisiana numbering in the "several thousand's." It was the new airport terminal, a $454,000 gem that was the focal point of a full afternoon of dedicatory activities.

Sporadic rain showers did little to blunt the enthusiasm of the occasion, though an event two days later — the Monroe City Council meeting — took off a bit of the edge. On a motion by the mayor, the city attorney was directed to take legal steps to collect rental fees, from March to date, from two of the three major airline office tenants — Delta and Southern.

The attorney also will seek an injunction to compel the airlines, including the third tenant, Trans - Texas, to furnish daily reports on proceeds gained through operation in the terminal. (The city receives three per cent of the intake, and the council had passed an ordinance requiring the reports.)

Summer Beckons

Summer sounded its old irrestible call last week and over 27,000 students in the city and parish school systems alone responded with predictable aplomb to the blandishments of sun, ski and cookout. Of this number, more than 1,200 were answering the final bell, as it were, of their high school careers. Graduation ceremonies were held during the week at all 12 of the combined systems' prep facilities, loosing vast hosts to wend their way to the college of their choice in the fall or into the trackless wastes of the "cold, cruel world" outside those ivied walls.

For the 267 who graduated Friday at Northeast, the alternatives, aside from graduate school, weren't so varied. Most of them will soon be making tracks with the rest of us.

Fire Protection

The continuing story of fire protection in Ouachita Parish, outside the various city limits, took two convolutions during the week — one pointing up again the need for action, the other aimed at getting action. Both occurred Tuesday.

First, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Clark in Town & Country subdivision north of Monroe went up in flames. Later the same evening, the citizens' committee appointed by the Ouachita Parish Police Jury to recommend a feasible approach to providing the needed protection met with Chairman Fred Huenefeld. Another session, with concrete results expected, is set for Monday.

Meanwhile, one can only imagine the frustration of fire hose resistance to a home-engulfing inferno. To the Clarks' neighbors' credit, the blaze was prevented from spreading.

For those new on the scene, the background is simply that rural Ouachita has no fire protection. A bond issue to finance one plan was defeated April 6, when approximately half those eligible to vote balloted. Huenefeld's group is expected to suggest another plan to be put to a vote soon.

Elsewhere

Elsewhere on the Twin City scene last week:

The first Miss West Monroe was named in a Jaycee-sponsored beauty pageant — Miss Beverly Kay Harris, 21, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lavelle Harris, West Monroe, and a junior at Northeast.

The Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce elected eight new directors — Jim Cole, Jim Dimos, Bob Ford, Joe Warner, Don Franklin, Gerald Lee, Frank Cerniglia and John Young. They will assist the new officers — Otis Derbonne, president, and vice presidents Billy Jones and Hugh Hyman.

The West Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce elected three new directors — Julius Ray, J. D. Smith and Billy Farr, to work with the group's 1965-66 officers, President Jimmie Wilson and Vice Presidents Dwight Carr and Roy Calloway.

Poppies appeared on hundreds of lapels Saturday as the women's auxiliary of the American Legion's L. B. Faulk Post 1309 conducted the annual sale to raise funds for handicapped veterans and their families.

Two Monroyans were elected as officers of the Independent Garage Owners of Louisiana at the group's convention in Alexandria — F. A. Brown as vice president and Bob Jackson as secretary.

Early plans for this fall's United Givers' Fund drive were begun at a session of the UGF's public relations committee, chaired by Marcus Mapp. Six subcommittee chairmen discussed means of promoting better public understanding of the campaign with Mapp, Drive Chairman J. C. Loftin and UGF President J. H. Scogin.

The World In Focus

Pause To Honor Patriots

By John Cale

MEMORIAL DAY is the occasion for the honoring of American fighting men who gave their lives for their country.

In connection with national, patriotic holidays, we are reminded of the flag and what Old Glory really stands for. Some even question the possibility of our waving the flag too much.

S. L. DeLove, who found it necessary to answer such a question in a public statement, put it this way:

"SHOULD NOT EVERY home own and proudly display the colors on holidays and other such occasions? Isn't the flag Patrick Henry, Jefferson, Franklin, Washington, Nathan Hale, Gettysburg and Valley Forge, Paul Revere, Jackson, and other great men and women who have given us our heritage. When you look at the flag can't you see the Alamo, Corrigedor, Pearl Harbor, The Monitor, The Merrimac, Wake Island and Korea? Lest we forget, isn't the flag Flanders Field, Bataan, Iwo Jima, Normandy, Babe Ruth and Davy Crockett?

"The great events of our past and present are wrapped up in our flag. It is a symbol of this blessed nation, a giant in industry, education and commerce. Millions of fertile square miles, wheatlands, coal mines, steel plants. Our great republic, the chosen infant destined to be man's last and remaining hope for suffering humanity, a shining beacon of light, noble and glorious, the haven for the oppressed and persecuted and truly God's gift to mankind.

"That is what the flag means to me. Can we wave it too much? I don't think so."

ON THIS Memorial Day, we would like to stress the fact that tribute to the flag in virtually every case on record dwells at length on those landmarks where Americans gave their lives in battle. While we are not a military-minded nation, our men and women have responded to the call when military efforts were the only recourse.

Conflict

AS AN INTERESTING sidelight to Memorial Day — in addition to the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race — is the fact that the occasion had its origin in 1868, shortly after the Civil War. It was first observed officially on order of General John A. Logan, Commander of the Grand Army of the Republic.

There are two Confederate Memorial Days, according to the World Almanac calendar. The occasion is observed on April 26 in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, and Mississippi; and on May 10 in North and South Carolina.

Robert E. Lee's birthday, January 19, is observed in 12 states: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and in Virginia as Lee-Jackson Day.

Week's Survey

IF ANY SINGLE word could be chosen to describe the scope of last week's events, we would select the word "anticlimactic."

Marines began leaving Santo Domingo when Presidential and State Department advisers concluded that communist influence among the rebel forces in the Dominican unrest had been overestimated shortly after the shooting started.

In the Far East, there were no new overtures to peace in the Vietnamese war — apparently the Red govrnment of North Viet Nam and supporters in Peking and Moscow refuse to allow officials in Hanoi to accept any terms when the free world nations are in a position of strength.

President Johnson outlined a policy of economic aid for all of Southeast Asia several weeks ago, but has continued to order aerial attacks on North Vietnamese military installations.

West Germany, including Berlin, continued in festive mood as Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip wound up an 11-day tour to that country.

AND THE WEEK in Washington began with a Presidential Conference on Natural Beauty. Incidentally, this subject was editorialized in the Monday, May 24, News-Star. While there is nothing so earth-shaking as nuclear warfare or the public debt in this topic, we hasten to say that the general appearance of a nation reflects to a great degree its cultural level. America's natural beauty won't be preserved — certainly cannot be effected — by federal legislation. In fact, here is one highly desirable condition which calls for greater democratic participation than young. Beauty is everyone's thought and action.

Dominican Developments

SECRETARY OF STATE Dean Rusk announced Wednesday that the communist threat in the Dominican Republic had been "very substantially reduced." Shortly thereafter, the U.S. military began pulling out units of Marines and paratroopers.

RUSK

Rusk noted the fast-moving events which led to the landing of troops in Santo Domingo should encourage the Organization of American States to consider setting up some "standby forces" on prompt call that could be rushed to trouble spots.

Perhaps as a related development, Brazilian General Hugo Panasco Alvim was named commander of such an Inter-American Force (IAF) assigned to take up postitions in the Dominican Republic — perhaps as U.S. units are transferred out of the strife-torn area.

CAAMANO

The Organization of American States authorized the IAF, the first such grouping ever created in the Western Hemisphere.

Many observers wondered just what influence rebel leader Francisco Caamano Deno had on last week's events. When he was sworn into office several weeks ago as the "Provisional President," his sentiments were undisguised in his clenched fist, communist salute.

Then, at the time the temporary cease-fire arrangement was made last weekend, high Washington officials said flatly that U.S. forces would not permit junta troops to cross the buffer zone to get at the main rebel holdout in Santo Domingo.

It was also understood that U.S. naval vessels in the vicinity were prepared to block any junta troop movement by sea up the Ozema River.

PANASCO

THE LONGER-RANGE effort of U.S. OAS and U.N. diplomats was to seek agreement among the Dominicans factions on a middle-of-the road interim regime which could run the country pending elections.

Officials feared that any major renewal of fighting would probably make a political settlement more difficult if not impossible.

It could be safely presumed that if OAS forces replaced all or nearly all of the U.S. Marines and paratroopers on the Caribbean island, they would be given similar instructions — which in effect would protect the rebels from total defeat at the hands of the junta.

Necessary Elaboration

SOMETIMES, A REPORT from a faraway place appears to give a good description as to place, time and condition. Then as the reader thinks it over, the account seems to lack something.

The following serves as an example. While there's little doubt that it sketches the general features of present-day Stanleyville in the Congo, it omits the very vital facts of geography and the "cold war" that the northern part of the Congo, like so many other areas of unrest, is threatened constantly by communist-trained rebels. With this information in mind, the reader can see more readily that here is a potential South Viet Nam, South Korea or West Berlin in the heart of Africa.

Stanleyville, once the Congo's teeming northern metropolis, lies still today in the African heat, virtually a ghost town.

When President Joseph Kasavubu arrived this week for a brief visit, only small groups of people gathered to watch him.

They apparently were glad to see him. But there are not enough people left to rally into large enthusiastic crowds.

Six months after Premier Moise Tshombe's white mercenaries and government troops retook the city from the rebels and a U.S.-Belgian paratroop operation rescued white hostages, only 40,000 people have returned. The population used to be a quarter of a million.

The rest are hiding in the bush. The government fully controls only a few square miles in the center of the city where American missionary Dr. Paul Carlson died.

Carlson was one of about 30 persons killed just before Belgian paratroopers swept into the rebel capital after dropping from U.S. Air Force planes.

The rebels are still out in the bush and even in the outskirts of the city. The people who have come back show it in their faces.

The white mercenaries who rolled in after the Belgian paratroops are gone. But soldiers are still common sights, gray-uniformed Congolese government soldiers carrying submachine guns.

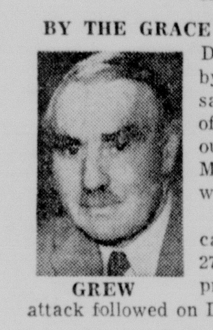

The back streets seem deserted, with only a few houses occupied. There is little major war damage, but almost every building still has broken windows and walls are pocked with old bullet holes.

Electricity works but the flow of the impure water supply is scant at best.

Prices of everything are about 15 per cent higher than in Leopoldville, far down the Congo River to the south, and goods are short. Barge traffic up the Congo still has to brave rebel territory and not many risk the trip.

Warning Unheeded

BY THE GRACE of the calendar, January comes before December by nearly a year. And it was by just such a period that former Ambassador to Japan, Joseph Clark Grew, warned of a surprise attack by that nation against ours back in 1941. Grew, 84, died at his Manchester, Massachusetts home last week.

GREW

During his tour of service in Japan, Grew cabled the State Department on January 27, 1941, that the Japanese planned a surprise attack on Pearl Harbor. The actual attack followed on December 7 of that same year.

De Gaulle Analysis

PRESIDENT CHARLES de Gaulle last week blamed Soviet-American rivalry for the continuation of the Vietnamese conflict and the Santo Domingo civil war.

In a speech winding up a five-day tour through western France, De Gaulle again urged an end to the "two hegemonies," or alleged America and Soviet domination over the world.

De Gaulle said France is the only nation capable of helping bring about a new international balance of power based on total independence of all peoples.

De Gaulle said the division of the world between the two "colossi" after World War II was a "system which does not insure international peace.

"One can see this day after day at this moment, on our former Indochina and also in the Caribbean and tomorrow God knows where," he added.

De Gaulle said the confrontation of the two giants could lead to an "international catastrophe and to an armed opposition of the above named colossi."

Meanwhile American casualties in that conflict continue to climb in the face of all the criticism of U. S. policy from quarters ranging from the French President to certain outspoken groups in the United States.

Royalty

WHILE QUEEN Elizabeth and Prince Philip toured West Germany, another king of former years made an appearance in Paris.

EDWARD VIII

The Duke of Windsor — formerly King Edward VIII — appeared well along the way toward recuperation since surgery in London last winter. He made his first public appearance last week with his American-born wife, to see the film, "The King's Story," based on his life.

Foreign Aid

HOUSE PASSAGE of a one-year, $3.37-billion foreign aid authorization bill last week set the stage for a showdown with the Senate over the future course of the program.

Senate leaders said they will push for early passage of a different version — one which extends the program for two years, at $3.35 billion a year — and calls for termination of foreign aid in its present form after that.

The House passed its one-year measure — with no provision for termination — by a vote of 249 to 148 Tuesday. It did so after rejecting, 219 to 177, a Republican attempt to cut $131 million from the development loan section.

SENATOR J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told newsmen he thinks the Senate will go along with the committee's recommendation for a two-year authorization and a two-year deadline for the administration to come up with a new program.

The differences would have to be ironed out in a Senate-House conference committee.

Fulbright said he still has not decided if he will manage the the Senate bill on the floor when it comes up for debate

Fulbright served notice on the administration last fall he would not steer the measure in the Senate if it submitted an omnibus bill. He lost a motion in his own committee to split military and economic aid into two separate bills.

IN THE END, however, the committee accepted his recommendation for a two-year authorization, coupled with an amendment by Senator Wayne Morse, D-Ore., to terminate the whole program in its present form after that.

The Morse amendment would establish a 12-member planning committee, including four senators and four House members, to examine foreign aid and make recommendations to the President for submission of an entirely different format with tight new criteria for aid for the fiscal year that starts July 1, 1967. It would limit future aid to 50 countries.

BOTH DEMOCRATIC Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen told a reporter they would support the two-year extension and the termination provision.

The Fight

ON THE LIGHTER side of foreign aid — assisting other nations with subjects that tickle the funnybone and don't cost our taxpayers — the British had great fun from the Clay-Liston heavyweight championship fight last week.

The London Evening Standard billed the fight — that saw Clay defend his title in the ultra-short span of 60 seconds — as "a piffling farce."

The Evening News headlined the event as a "60-second stinker," with a sports columnist dubbing it "the so-short fight that never was."

Cherie Martin Spends Busy Year As State Beauty Queen

CHARM AND POISE are apparent in this picture of Cherie, even though it was taken when she was riding on a float at Memphis. She was the official Louisiana representative at the Cotton Carnival and was featured on the Louisiana float in the May 11 parade.

HONORING HER parents came as a special treat to Cherie in the midst of her official Miss Louisiana duties. "Joe Martin Day" was decreed in Pineville when her father left that city after 15 years to move to Ft. Worth, Tex. A going-away banquet was the highlight of the Sept. 17 activities.

A Cinderella year is drawing to a close much too rapidly for Cherie Martin, who will relinquish her Miss Louisiana crown here on July 3 at the end of the second annual Miss Louisiana Pageant in Monroe.

Cherie has filled an activity-packed agenda as Miss Louisiana during the past year, in addition to her full-time duties as a student at Northeast Louisiana State College.

"This year has been an invaluable experience that only a girl who has the opportunity to serve as Miss Louisiana would realize," Cherie said, in commenting on her reign.

She has averaged five guest appearances each month since being crowned on July 4, and will stay busy through this year's pageant, which has been set for July 1 through 3.

Cherie has also taken 17 hours a semester at Northeast toward her degree in classroom management, and was elected by her fellow students to "Who's Who Among Students at American Universities and Colleges."

Although she has attended more than 20 beauty pageants in her official capacity this year, Cherie is not ready for this last one. She doesn't say in so many words that she regrets her reign as Miss Louisiana has to end, but she gets a certain glow in her eyes when she talks about her "wonderful year."

The year got off to a whirlwind start the moment Cherie was chosen as the state's top beauty. Of course, the new Miss Louisiana was in great demand for personal appearances all over the state, but preparation for the Miss America competition drew top priority.

"I was kept very busy selecting my wardrobe, practicing and especially studying," she explained. "I went to Bolton High School every morning for more than a month and studied current events."

During the remainder of July, she spoke before the Louisiana Legislature in Baton Rouge, held a press conference in New Orleans, represented the state at the Miss Arkansas and Miss Mississippi beauty pageants, and was named Sweetheart of Barksdale Air Force Base at a special Miss Louisiana Day in Shreveport.

Cherie traveled from wardrobe shopping, to personal appearances in New Orleans, to a rodeo and special banquet in Alexandria in August.

September's big event was the Miss American pageant in Atlantic City, N.J. But a close second choice for that month was "Joe Martin Day" in Alexandria, honoring her father who was transferred to Ft. Worth, Tex. She also helped launch the annual United Givers Fund drive in Monroe and attended the Miss Winn Parish beauty pageant in Winnfield.

Speaking engagements were becoming more frequent in October, when Cherie appeared before several civic groups in various cities. She also presented her baton routine at a halftime show for Pineville High School, was a hostess at the Caldwell Parish Art Festival, and appeared at the Miss Rapides Parish pageant at Alexandria and the Miss Chacahoula pageant at Northeast State.

More speeches were on the program in November, when she also was a special guest at the Louisiana Teachers Association convention in Shreveport, and appeared at the Miss Ponchatoula pageant in Ponchatoula.

Judging beauty pageants entered the picture in December, as she served in this capacity for Miss North Caddo High School in Vivian and Miss Majorette of Louisiana in Baton Rouge. Cherie was also a special guest at the Miss Louisiana College pageant in Pineville and the Winter White Ball in Shreveport.

January, the traditional month of college final exams, she limited her appearances to the Sugar Bowl festivities in New Orleans on New Year's Day.

She presented a program to entertain the mentally retarded children at St. Mary's School at Clarks during February. Since the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce is the sponsor of the Miss Louisiana pageant, Cherie was the official hostess at the February state Jaycee board meeting here. She also appeared at the Fifth District Teachers banquet in Monroe and at the Miss Hammond beauty pageant.

Guest modeling appearances in new spring clothes began in March, and Cherie brightened up several style shows and new store openings. Pageants in March were those to select Miss Shreveport, Miss Minden and Miss North Caddo Parish.

April featured the Miss Sulphur pageant, Miss Bienville Parish pageant at Arcadia and the Miss Holiday-in-Dixie pageant at Shreveport, where she was escorted at the festivities by Gov. John J. McKeithen. She was the main attraction at a benefit style show given by St. Juliana's Church in Alexandria, was the guest speaker at the annual Future Farmers of America - Future Homemakers of America parents banquet at Downsville, and attended the Student Louisiana Teachers Association convention in Thibodeaux and the Cuchon de Lait Festival in Mansura.

Her activities have increased this month, and will keep up the busy pace all the way to this year's Miss Louisiana pageant in July.

TOP REPRESENTATIVES for Louisiana are pictured here in a special appearance. Gov. John J. McKeithen escorts Cherie Martin, Miss Louisiana, during the festivities at the annual Holiday-In-Dixie pageant held in Shreveport April 29 and 30.

So far in May, Cherie has represented the state at the Cotton Carnival in Memphis, and at the South Arkansas Poultry Festival in El Dorado. She was presented in a special performance at St. Mark's Episcopal Laymen's League banquet in Shreveport, and served as official hostess at Sunday's formal dedication of the Monroe Municipal Airport. She attended pageants for Miss Northeast, Miss Baton Rouge, Miss West Monroe, and is in Slidell this weekend for the Miss Slidell beauty contest.

Her schedule for June already includes appearances at pageants in Crossett, Ark., on June 5, and in New Orleans on June 12, for the final Miss Louisiana preliminary.

Cherie's responsibilities as Miss Louisiana will end at midnight, July 3, when another girl steps into the coveted role.

Cherie will retire into a life not quite as much in the public spotlight, but she will always be able to claim the title of Miss Louisiana.

Ira Phillips, president of the Monroe Jaycee chapter and Cherie's business manager, was very enthusiastic about his charge for the year. "Cherie has just been great all year long in giving of her time and energy on every occasion where she has appeared as Miss Louisiana," he said. "The Monroe Jaycees and all Louisiana can be extremely proud of her and her image as the greatest Miss Louisiana ever."

Cherie herself fully realizes the tremendous significance that her year as Miss Louisiana will have on the rest of her life.

"Everywhere I go, people ask what this year has meant to me," she said. "I could give long lists of gifts, travels and experiences — but the real lasting things are the many kind people and their friendships that have grown in my heart."

International Royalty's New Breed Is Restless

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) "It gets boring not doing anything," says Princess Anne Obolensky Piedrabuena O'Sullivan, in explaining why some of the young set supplement weekly doles from millionaire daddies by working in banks, dress shops and art galleries.

A few of them are taking their first humble step on a lifetime career.

Anne was employed last year on a medical research project in California and managed to survive on her $85-a-week pay, "plus my allowance from Daddy, of course."

She returned here last November for a traditional royal Russian wedding to debonair sports car racing enthusiast Antonio Piedrabuena O'Sullivan and is now one of the reigning queens of the new breed.

"To grow up with a consuming ambition for a certain glamorous career is very out at the moment," Anne says. "If we get interested in a certain field later on, we go about it in the right way."

"The right way" does not mean shunning the silver spoon or turning one's back on important contacts. Struggling to succeed despite having everything is just too masochistic.

In agreement with Anne's views on the new generation are some leftover guests from an afternoon party at the beach — brown-legged lads in Bermudas sprawled in chairs and sofas around the comfortable Obolensky family living room, as well as Anne's handsome husband Tony, a political refugee from Argentina and her brother, 20-year-old and very continental young Oby, the junior Prince Alexis Obolensky of the exiled Russian royal family. He had just returned from a year of working in a Zurich bank.

"Now you take Oby," Anne continues. "When he became interested in financial matters, Dad thought he ought to have some practical experience, so he talked to Loel Guinnes (international banker). Daddy and he are very good friends."

Also participating in the discussion is Princess Mary, 18, her tanned, shorts-clad legs dangling over the arm of her chair. When Mary was in Nassau recently she played a bit part in a Beatle movie. The bouncy, exuberant teen-ager came home and described every thrilling detail to big Oby — that's Dad, the senior Prince Alexis.

"'Look baby,' Daddy told me, 'if you want to be a movie star, we'll go about this in the right way. I'll call some friends of mine in Hollywood and we'll get you a screen test and an agent. We'll find out who's doing the really important things! Everybody Daddy knows seems to do exciting things," Mary said, beaming proudly.

Anne is 25 with an angular face, high cheek bones, green eyes, an abundance of light brown hair and a regal carriage that makes a shapeless cotton shift seem elegant.

Mary is a beauty of another type, with a heart-shaped face, wide blue eyes, and a shower of shoulder-length yellow hair.

Their photographs appear regularly in prestige fashion magazines. They pose for New York photographers who arrive here each winter to make tropical location shots. In the mecca of models, New York City, they could command a lot more than their $35-an-hour or $100-a-day fee.

"It's too much of a rat race there," says Mary, back in the conversation after taking several phone calls from young admirers. "It gets pretty tiresome making the rounds of the ad agencies and photo studios all the time. Here they interview us and that's that. Anyway, you have to be so bone skinny in New York."

Mary sometimes works in an art gallery here. Anne passes time playing tennis or riding the bicycle trails until 4 p.m. each day.

That's the "whiching" hour. The workers and the nonworkers join forces at the Loggia. At this crowded hangout with its jungle decor and panther drinks patrons — the restless generation shifts from tiny table to tiny table deciding which of the parties to take in during the evening.

At 6 p.m. the place empties. The young folks hurry off in different directions, to shed shorts and shifts and don beaded gowns and pastel-hued tuxedos.

"We always gripe about going to the formal dinner dances. But once we're there we get to having such a grand time we hate to end the evening," says Anne.

So the crowd moves on to the Colony poolroom for more dancing. After that, well, O'Hara's is open until 5 a.m.

One of the miracles of this luxurious sandbar is that a few hours later the job-holders manage to be on duty-bright-eyed and pleasant, somehow without stifling too many yawns they survive the day until it's time again to meet the nonworkers to plan the long party night ahead.

By PHILIP J. KEUPER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The White House's chief economist poked a warning finger during the week at some price increases.

The warning came as Washington was issuing two other broad business statements: one, that Americans still are in a buying mood; and two, that living costs rose three-tenths of one per cent in April, the biggest monthly jump since last July.

Increaes in the cost of food, clothing, transportation and medical care boosted the Labor Department's consumer price index to 109.3, a new high.

This meant that in April it cost $10.93 to purchase typical goods that cost $10 in the 1957-59 base period. The increase was the biggest for April since 1960.

However, government officials said the monthly jump in the cost-of-living index did not necessarily indicate an inflationary trend.

"We'll have to see what happens the rest of the year," said one Labor Department official.

Other talk about prices came from Gardner Ackley, President Johnson's top economic aide and chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors.

"The number of announcements of price increases seems to be accelerating," Ackley told a group of businessmen. "There is just enough movement in prices to be disturbing."

The list in recent weeks, said Ackley has included tires, trucks, paper containers and various aluminum, copper and stainless steel products.

At the same time, Ackley said business gains in the rest of 1965 will be only about half as great as in the booming January-March first quarter. Lower automobile output and a slowdown in inventory buying by industry are the major factors, he added.

Ackley suggested that the over-all prospect for price stability may be good because a slowdown in the growth rate would erase the threat of any serious overheating of the economy.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department said an April survey of 16,000 households showed a continued rise in consumer confidence. The survey results: 24.7 per cent of the families sampled said they expected their income to be higher in a year; 22 per cent said they planned to buy new appliances in the next six months; 9.3 per cent planned to buy new cars and 5.3 per cent planned to buy homes in the next 12 months.

The survey was taken before the Johnson administration unwrapped its proposal to cut $4 billion in excise taxes on hundreds of products and services — a move aimed at further stimulating buying.

Other soundings of the economy generally were favoable.

Steel production edged up during the week after three straight weekly declined. Automobile sales set a mid-May record for the industry.

Car dealers delivered 275,854 automobiles from May 11-20, compared with 257,320 the year before. The industry's daily rate of sales trailed last month's daily rate, however. Dealers sold a daily average of 30,650 cars in mid-May, compared with 31,859 in mid-April.

Automobile production during the week was estimated at 204,675 cars, compared with 161,360 a year ago and 209,615 a week ago.

The nation's steel mills poured 2.7 million tons of raw steel in the week ended last Saturday, a 1.5 per cent gain over the previous week. Output also was 8 per cent higher than the 2.5 million tons poured in the corresponding week last year.

The national debt, currently $316.3 billion, will climb to $325.9 billion by next March 15, Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler estimated. He made the forecast in asking Congress to raise the legal debt limit to $329 billion from the existing $324 billion.

At the same time, lawmakers were told the budget deficit for fiscal 1966 would be $4.3 billion, $1 billion less than projected at the start of the year — even allowing for a bigger excise-tax cut than the administration originally had planned.

Italian Starting Life Sentence For War Killing

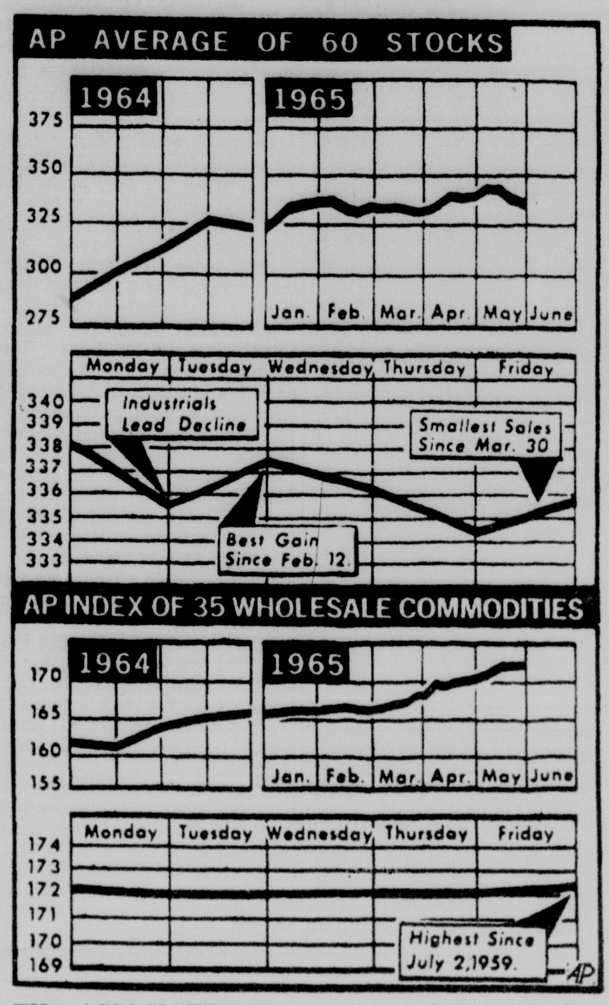

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Giovanni Donnarumma, 52, was taken to a military prison Saturday to serve a life term to which he had been sentenced in 1942.

He had lived quietly at his home near here, forgotten by the law. While serving with the Italian army in Crete in World War II Dorinarumma was convicted by a military court of killing a corporal.

When the Germans left the island they freed Donnarumma who slipped back into Italy and returned to his native village of Branche, near Naples.

Stocks Keep Backtracking In Slow Sales

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week continued to backtrack for the third straight week; but trading was very slow most of the time.

Volume for the week was 24,867,331 compared with 26,427,300 the previous week. It was the smallest turnover for any full, five-day trading week since the week ended Jan. 9 when 23,334,940 shares changed hands.

Lightness of trading on any stock market move reflects lack of strong participation and therefore is regarded as an omen that the market "wants" to go in the opposite direction. This was not quite borne out last week because the day's of heaviest trading were days of sharp decline, whereas there was lesser volume on two days of recovery.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week declined 3.97 to 918.04. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 2.3 to 335.8.

The decline on average was much less than that of the preceding week. A number of leading issues emerged with respectable gains, even though losers outnumbered gainers by 970 to 406 among the 1,558 issues traded.

A single block of 286,800 shares helped make Consolidated Cigar the "most active" issue. Not far behind was American Telephone whose rise of 1⅜ reflected increased enthusiasm for the erstwhile "widows-and-orphans" stock. Latest company developments are expected to be divulged next week to a meeting of security analysts in New York.

With the approach of heavy summer traffic, airlines rallied anew as investors were reminded of their profit potential by the travel rush this Memorial Day weekend. The stock markets will be closed on Monday.

HIGH WATER and floods were main events back in 1927 and 1932 along this area of the Ouachita River. This photograph, submitted by Mrs. Dick Dean of 116 Pope St., Monroe, was taken on Feb. 2, 1932. It shows a portion of the sand bag levee on South Grand St. north of the locks. The seawall along Grand was not completed until 1936 and 1937. Mrs. Dean recalls boy and girl scouts, along with townspeople and others from all over the area, helping fill sand bags and other suitable material to help "save our town." Her mother, Mrs. Joseph Norton of 2903 No. 7th St., West Monroe, remembers baking large beef roasts and serving sandwiches and hot coffee at all hours to the levee workers. History-Making Gemini Flight Slated Thursday

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — "We are the first step in the long-duration phase of extending man's livability in space."

Thus, astronaut James A. McDivitt summed up the major purpose of America's longest manned space flight yet — an intended four-day mission scheduled to start from Cape Kennedy at 9 a.m. EST Thursday.

Spacecraft

Riding with McDivitt in the Gemini 4 spacecraft will be astronaut Edward H. White II, who is to leave the vehicle early in the flight and float free in the void of space for about 12 minutes. The feat would duplicate the historic March 18 space excursion by Soviet cosmonaut Alexei Leonov.

White considers spacecraft departure a vital advance toward moon and interplanetary trips, during which astronauts will have to leave their spaceships.

But he said: "The most important thing in the flight is the long duration. The four days are a step forward toward the two-week flights we plan in the Gemini program."

Primary emphasis will be on gathering medical data. Experts will be stationed at tracking posts around the world to receive and swiftly analyze a constant flow of radio data on heartbeat, respiration, pulse, body temperatures and other parameters.

They will look for signs of physical or mental deterioration, discomfort or distress. Extensive postflight examination is planned.

"Being cramped in that small space is going to be unpleasant," McDivitt said, but added he and White foresee no difficulty they can't handle.

Both are Air Force majors, personable and well-educated. McDivitt, the command pilot, is 35. White is 34.

They are to circle the globe 62 times in 97 hours, 50 minutes. The combined time of nearly 196 hours will triple the total flight time of 65 hours, 44 minutes logged by eight previous U.S. astronauts. Eleven Soviet cosmonauts have registered 507 hours, 29 minutes.

The flight will approach but not match the space endurance record of 119 hours, 6 minutes set by the U.S.S.R.'s Valery Bykovsky in 1963. If there are no major problems, the United States will challenge the Soviet record with a seven-day flight planned in August by Air Force Maj. L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Navy Lt. Charles Conrad Jr. A two-week trip is planned later this year.

Flights

Most of the remaining nine Gemini flights will practice spacecraft departure techniques. Many will test the maneuverability of the ship, dock with other orbiting satellites and check other techniques which must be perfected for Project Apollo man-to-the-moon trips.

White plans to take his space stroll during a 22-minute period near the end of the second orbit and beginning of the third. As Gemini 4 passes high above the Pacific about 2½ hours after launching, the space suits of the two pilots will be pressurized and the cabin depressurized so it has the same atmosphere as that outside. Between Hawaii and Guaymas, Mexico, White will open the hatch and poke his head into space. Over the Guaymas tracking station, he and ground controllers will decide if conditions are satisfactory to emerge. If the go-ahead is given, White will gingerly step into space high over the southern United States and drift away on a 25-foot life-support line.

He will carry a 35mm camera to photograph stars, the earth and other objects. McDivitt will steer the spacecraft and also photograph his space- strolling partner.

After 12 minutes away from the craft, White will return and re-enter, approximately over Antigua Island in the West Indies. The hatch will be closed, the cabin repressurized with oxygen and the suits depressurized.

During their extended voyage, McDivitt and White are to tackle other problems which must be solved for long-duration missions. Among them are establishing compatible work and sleep cycles, regular eating periods, personal hygiene and operation of spacecraft systems over long periods.

System Wise

"Gemini 4 will be the proof of the pudding, systems-wise," said astronaut John W. Young, who rode the first manned Gemini craft with Virgil M. Grissom on March 23.

"We had a very intereting limited test of three orbits," Young said. "But you've got to get the spacecraft out there and keep it out there for an extended period to have a real test."

Grissom and Young made the world's first flight in a maneuverable manned spacecraft and the Gemini 4 crew is to further evaluate the orbit-shifting capability of the craft.

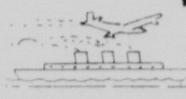

"Our orbit-changing maneuvers will be primarily adjustments to assure that we will remain up four days," McDvitt explained. "We also will be testing some lateral and up-and-down jet thrusters that were not on the previous Gemini flight."

A Titan 2 rocket is to propel Gemini 4 into an initial orbit ranging from 100 to 185 miles above the earth. At the 100-mile altitude, the atosphere begins to thicken and an orbiting object is slowed down gradually by friction so that it eventually draws closer to earth. Above 100 miles there is virtually no atosfriction.

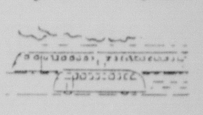

So during the second orbit, McDivitt is to fire thrusters to raise the perigee — low point — to 105 miles. In the second day, the orbital path is to be shifted to 108 to 154 miles and on the third day to 107 to 143 miles.

During the last orbit, 12 minutes before the retro-rockets are to be fired, McDivitt is to lower the perigee to 51 miles. This will assure that the spacecraft will be dragged back to earth by gravity even if the retro-rockets fail to ignite.

Away From Home

The lobby of the hotel is not at first sight, filled with luxury. Occupying at least half the area is a desk behind which is Madame La Concierge. She awaits the travelers from the Invalides terminal who have come from across the sea, have "beaucoup baggage," and who must be weary. On her desk, as the eye travels, are postcards, "plans" of the city, a bronze telephone, and the register. Next to the lobby is a friendly sitting room in which there are several easy chairs, a large white covered table, and a television.

Eyes move on, across the white marble floor and up to a large mahogany board from which is suspended a number of brass keys. The board has to be large for it bears a great weight. Each key must be able to open the night vault at the Bank of France, such is the size. "Le passport, Monsieur and how long can you visit us?" Soon, the register is signed, one holds the large key, and struggling with the large load of luggage, begins to ascend the steps, oriental carpeted, with brass rug rods, leading to the destiny which must be upstairs. Four floors into the Paris NIGHT AND AT THE BACK night and at the back of a long, squeaky hall is "5-D."

One realizes with great pride that here is no ordinary room. "5-D" possesses a "private bath." It is also a room with lace curtains, maroon - carpeted floors, deep and saggy beds, a small franc operated radio, and a clear glass bulb bed light. In European fashion, there is a wardrobe for clothes and a view out of the lace curtains of a quaint Paris courtyard. Unless one is cautious, the large windows and small courtyard are conducive to little privacy and one's neighbors could become friendly associates. An interested pigeon peers in.

The plumbing is spotless and there are several unexplainable fixtures. One of these stands in lonesome pride and must be a horse watering trough provided by a thoughtful management or visitors fearful of leaving their animals outside. Next door is "LE Chambre" and voila!, a miracle of antiquity — a veritable jewel of a bygone era. LE Chambre possesses a high ceiling, wall mounted, chain pull, gravity feed device surely installed in the days of Toulouse Lautrec! The visitors from across the sea also finds no evidence of a successful campaign of sales having been waged in Paris by Scott paper or any of its American competitors.

The Renee, one realizes, is no Waldorf or Crillon, but what it lacks in luxury, it returns in its friendly people—Madame La Concierge, the heavy - set German hardware salesman from Frankfurt, and the American from San Francisco starting to school at the Sorbonne. The marmalade, criossants, wonderful steaming hot coffee and bottled spring water are a sunshiny breakfast in the little parlor at Rue St. Gervais, number 21.

What it might lack in plush dining rooms and aloof bellmen, the Renee returns in a friendly staff eager to assist travelers in feeling not as strangers, but as welcome visitors whose sincere desire is to learn of France and her people. What it lacks in cavernous lobbies and deep - pile elevators, it surely returns in three days and nights with breakfast for four at a price less than thirty five dollars. Most important of all, it is a part of France which a great many Americans seldom realize exists.

The Taxi awaits, another "Captaine de Taxi" shrieks, his palms rending the sky, shouting "beaucoup baggage!" Soon, the little cab starts, and the Renee is lost around the corner. If one looks carefully, it probably is still there — tiny lobby, oriental carpets, and big bass keys — still helping travelers from other lands to live in, to understand, and for all too short a while, to be a part of France.

Versatile Mike Cole Paces Slim Victory

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Versatile Mike Cole led Maryland's Terrapins to a slim victory over Villanova Saturday, breaking the Wildcats' five-year hold on the team title in the IC4A outdoor track and field championships.

Maryland edged Villanova 46 points to 43.

Cole's leap of 24 feet, 5¾ inches led Maryland's 1-3-5 finish in the broad jump and the dark-haired senior added seconds in the 100-and 220-yard dashes for a personal contribution of 13 points.

It was Maryland's first team victory in the 89 years of this Eastern collegiate classic and it was a bitter defeat for Villanova, winner of the last five team titles, seven of the last eight and a slight favorite in the field of 54 colleges this year.

The Terrapins won it with their field strength, scoring 32 of their points in field events and only 14 in track. Villanova had 37 in track events, six in the field.

The key was the mile relay, last track event on the program.

At that stage, Villanova led 42-37 but Maryland had three of the last five men alive in the pole vault, assuring the Terrapins of at least six points in that event with scoring on a 5-4-3-2-1 basis. Villanova had no men left in the vault.

Villanova, therefore, had to beat Maryland's relay team by two places to have a chance. But the Terrapins rolled in fourth, with Villanova 10 yards back in fifth.

That clinched it, and the Terrapins finished off with a 2-4-5 placing in the pole vault, which dragged on for more than a half-hour after the final running event on the warm, overcast afternoon.

Maryland had only three individual winners — Cole, Frank Costello, who took the high jump at 6-10, and Russ White, one of four meet record breakers with his 241¼ in the javelin.

The other meet record-setters were John Bakkensen of Harvard, 173-8 in the discus; Larry Furnell of St. John's, 13:50.6 in the three-mile; and Bill Nerris of Boston College, 9:16.3 in the 3,000-meter steeplechase. Tony Lynch of Harvard tied the 440-yard hurdle mark with a 51.5 clocking.

Earl Horner of Villanova was the only double winner, taking the 100 in 9.8 and the 220 in 21 flat. He just nipped Cole in the 100, but had about three yards in the 220.

Villanova's other winners were Noel Carroll in the half mile, 1:50.9; and Larry Livers in the 120-yard hurdles, 14.2. Their biggest disappointments were only four points in the steeplechase — they had four men entered but only Dave Hyland scored — and the failure of Marshall Uzzle to score in the dashes.

Other individual winners in the meet that attracted some 600 entrants were Nick Lee of Morgan Staten 47.4 in the 440; Jim Warner of Army, 4:08 in the mile; Mel Branch of Princeton, 48-7½ in triple jump; Carl Wallin of Northeastern, 56-10½ in the shot put; Tom Gage of Cornell, 197-1½ in the hammer; Morgan State, 3:10.8 in the mile relay; and John Uelses of LaSalle, 15-6 in the pole vault.

Following Maryland and Villanova in the team race were Harvard, 20; St. John's, 17; Morgan State and Cornell, 16 each; Seton Hall, 12, and Penn State, 11.

Lifetime Sports Announces First Youth Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — The recently created Lifetime Sports Foundation announced Saturday the first project in its campaign to expand the training of youth in sports skills which can be practiced in later life.

Bud Wilkinson, former Oklahoma football coach and president of the foundation, announced a $150,000 grant to the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation to finance the first year of a three-year program.

The association, a department of the National Education Association, will send teams of sports experts to conduct clinics and workshops across the country to encourage physical education teachers to include more lifetime sports skills in their programs.

Emphasis is to be placed on golf, bowling and the racquet sports, especially tennis and badminton.

Flowers, 2 Others Over Highs In 13.9

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Veteran Olympians Ralph Boston and Hal Connolly shattered world records in the long jump and hammer throw at the California Relays but were forced to share honors Saturday with a couple of high school stars.

Boston jumped 27 feet, 5 inches on his final leap of evening competition. Connolly hurled the 16-pound hammer 233 feet, 2 inches on his fourth attempt in the afternoon.

Both eclipsed world records they already held — Boston at 27-4¼ and Connolly, at 231-10.

Then Jim Ryun, the sensational 18-year-old from East Wichita High School, turned back his elders in the gruelling mile run, winning in 3 minutes, 58.1 seconds, the fastest he ever has run.

He won by inches as former San Jose State runner John Garrison took second place in an identical time. Jim Grelle was third at 3:58.2 and Czechoslovakia Olympic silver medalist Josef Odlozil took fourth in 3:38.4.

Ryun moved ahead going into the final lap, raced shoulder to shoulder with Grelle and then just held off Garrison's finish in the big race of these AAU sanctioned relays which the NCAA shunned.

In another big surprise, 17-year-old Richmond Flowers Jr., a high school speedster from Montgomery, Ala., upset a field of veterans to win the 120 yard high hurdles in 13.9 seconds.

Boston, former Olympic champion competing for the Southern California Striders, was consistently near 27 feet but it was not until his last try that he beat his record.

Connolly, a 33-year-old school teacher from Santa Monica, Calif., who won the Olympic gold medal in 1956, threw the best series of six ever done in track and field history.

In order, the throws were 224-2½, 228-0, 228-5, 233-2, 229-6½ and 231-5½.

A crowd of 9,610 cheered the 26-year-old Boston and waited anxiously for a wind reading. It turned out there was a lull in the breeze that gave Boston calm sailing.

Young Flowers, who set a national scholastic record of 13.5 seconds running 120 yards of 39-inch hurdles, was running only his fifth competitive race over the 42-inch regulation barriers.

He rallied from a fourth position to nip Roger Morgan of Northeast Louisiana State and Blaine Lindgren, the Olympic silver medalist who took only third this time.

All three were timed in 13.9.

Boston's series of jumps were —foul, 26-9, 27-1¼, 27-½, 26-5¼ and 27-5.

Czechoslovakia's Ludvig Danek threw the discus 205-3 to beat Jay Sylvester of Trementonn Utah, at 201½. George Puce placed only fourth at 190-5 but set a Canadian national record while doing it.

Another Canadian, Harry Jeromen won the 100 in 9.4 seconds.

Southern Appears At California Meet

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Southern University's track team defied the National Collegiate Athletic Association edict against the California Relays because, said Coach Dick Hill, "we didn't believe in laying our boys in mothballs while they squabble."

Southern, of Baton Rouge, La., was the one university which accepted an invitation to Saturday night's 24th annual relays and showed up.

Other schools accepted but didn't make the trip to this central California community where the relays annually are the big sports event.

This was the first year the full impact of the NCAA-AAU jurisdictional war has been felt here. This meet is sanctioned by the AAU. The NCAA-backed UMS. Track and Field Federation had scheduled its meet in Houston, Tex., the same day.

The NCAA did not wants its members competing in Modesto or, for that matter, in any other meet with AAU and not USTFF sanction.

On the other hand, the AAU threw full support to the promotion in this city of 45,000. It helped bring in a host of foreign stars, including Australia's world record holder distance runner, Ron Clarken and Ludvig Danik of Czechoslovakia, the discuss record holder.

Hill brought his 11 men from Southern to face the relay competition provided by the AAU club teams such as the Southern California Striders, Pasadena Olympians, Santa Clara Valley Youth Village, and Long Beach 49ers Track Club.

Asked if the USTFF sought to discourage Southern competition at Modesto, Hill answered, "The federation is doing that to all schools."

Grambling and Tennessee State, which have outstanding relay teams, originally accepted invitations but did not arrive.

The award is given annually in memory of Gene Waldron, chairman of the 1963 NAIA baseball tournament. Scholarship, citizenship, character and athletic ability count in making the award.

Crampton Takes Lead In Speedway Tourney

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Australian Bruce Crampton, seeking to become the PGA's first triple winner this year, slammed a four-under-par 67 to surge into the 54-hole lead of the $87,000 Speedway Festival Open Saturday.

Crampton's three-round total of 208 moved him two strokes ahead of a trio including Dan Sikes, Miller Barber and Lionel Hebert, all of whom shot third-round 70s and 210.

Greentree's par 35-36—71 becalmed course played much easier after two days of wind and soggy greens had frustrated a field shooting for top money of $15,200.

Crampton, 29, handsome son of a Sydney police officer, fashioned his fine round despite a double bogey six on the 465-yard third hole.

He turned the first nine in 34 and then really went to work on the back nine, scoring birdies successively on the 12th and 13th and another on the 15th.

Crampton, who previously this year won the Bing Crosby and Conial National, currently ranks fifth in the PGA money winning list with official earnings of almost $28,000.

Only two other players, leading money winner Jack Nicklaus and Doug Sanders, have matched Crampton as a double winner this year.

Nicklaus skipped this tourney and Sanders quit in the first round because of an injured thumb.

Three strokes behind the leader were a trio at 211, including Jackie Cupit, whose 67 matched Crampton's as the best round of the tourney, Dow Finsterwald and Chi Chi Rodriguez.

The halfway leader, Joe Kirkwood Jr., wobbled for a 77, falling eight strokes off the pace with 216.

The only others among the 76 contending pros to stay under par for the distance were Don Massengale, Art Wall and Johnny Pott, deadlocked at 212.

Five players, including first round leader Tommy Bolt, were notched at even par 213. The others were two-time Speedway champion Doug Ford, South African Bob Verwey, Mason Rudolph and Claude King.

Defending champion Gary Player of South Africa hit his third straight over-par round, a 72, to lag seven strokes behind at 215.

Crampton rolled in two birdie putts of 12 feet and one 15-footer and came up with some brilliant approach shots for his 34-33 round. His double bogey came as he drove out of bounds on the 465-yard third hole.

The Aussie's key shot merely got him a par 3. It was a 30-foot putt after missing the green on the 226-yard 16th.

Cupit approached beautifully in his 34-33 round, hitting a 100-yard wedge shot to 14 inches on the 14th, an 85-yard pitch to within three feet on the 17th, and also getting a birdie on the 525-yard par 5 sixth with a chip to within four feet.

Allen Slams Homer In Phillies 4-2 Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A two-run tape measure home run by Rich Allen featured a 4-2 victory for the Philadelphia Phillies over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

Allen, 1964 National League Rookie of the Year, slammed a first-inning shot off right-hander Larry Jackson an estimated 510 feet.

The ball soared over a 15-foot high sign on top of the left-center field roof and bounced 60 feet up a street across from the park.

The homer highlighted a three-run first inning that included successive doubles by Tony Gonzalez and John Callison for he first run. Allen's blast was his ninth of the season.

Jackson, who lost his fifth in eight decisions, settled down, but it was too late as Philadelphia right-hander Jim Bunning checked the Cubs with seven hits, striking out eight and evening his record at 4-4.

Chicago scored one run in the second on a single by Ernie Banks and Vic Roznovsky's double. The Cubs added another in the seventh on successive doubles by Glenn Beckert and Billy Williams.

Cordially Comes Home For Win In Mother Goose

NEW YORK (AP) — Cordially, so well regarded that her owner paid a supplementary fee of $7,500 to get her into the race, stuck her nose in front 70 yards from home Saturday and kept it there for a narrow victory in the $97,200 Mother Goose Stakes for 3-year-old fillies at Aqueduct.

Under the lash of Braulio Baeza's whip, the daughter of Ambiorix-Be Gracious stepped the sloppy 1⅛ miles in 1:51 3-5 to earn $63,180 for Howell E. Jackson. George D. Widener's What a Treat was second in the field of 12, beating Up Oars from Harry F. Guggenheim's Cain Hoy stable on length for runner-up honors.

Marshua, the favorite of the crowd of 48,447, was the big disappointment. She was in striking distance of the lead as Up Oars cut out the pace until only one quarter-mile remained. Then she weakened and wound up seventy.

Cordially, with one victory and a third to show for three previous starts this year, paid $12.50, $6.60 and $4.40 ad Baeza won his eighth stakes of 1965. What a Treat returned $5.90 and $3.80 and Up Oars $4.30.

Cordially's victory made certain there would be no winner of New York's Triple Crown for 3-year - old fillies this year. Ground Control, who took the Acorn (first leg of the Triple) two weeks ago, never was a serious contender and wound up back in the pack.

Manuel Ycaza lost no time sending Up Oars to the front and she opened up a three-length lead in the backstretch with first Marshua and then What a Treat in closest pursuit.

Baeza, however, never had the Jackson filly far off the lead and when Johnny Rotz shot What a Treat up to challenge at the top of the home stretch he also made his move.

With one-quarter-mile to go, Up Oars still had a narrow lead over What a Treat with Cordially running strongly in third place. One-eighth of a mile remained when What a Treat took command but Baeza had plenty of horse under him and Cordially stuck her nose in front 70 yards out. It was a battle through the final yards with Cordially holding her narrow advantage.

Back of the three leaders in order came Straight Deal, Ground Control, Terrentian Marshua, Fairway Fun, Cavans Rose, Say Yore Mine, Princess Sadi and So Behave.

Harmon Opens Officially Today

Harmon Memorial Raceway's grand opening is set for today with a host of top notch drag racing enthusiasts and several local dignitaries expected to be on hand for the event.

Assisting in the dedication ceremonies and ribbon cutting ceremonies will be Robert Bealle, representing the Monroe Chamber of Commerce; Leslie Hamm, representing the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce; W. O. Robert of the Police Jury; Slim Scoggin, master of ceremonies; and Capt. Ronald Green of the Salvation Army who will give the invocation.

Dave McClellan, the official track announcer at the Winternationals and the Nationals, will be the announcer at Harmon today.

Due to heavy rains during the week, time trials and practice runs were called off Saturday. The gates open today at 8 a.m. for practice and classification, with the eliminations beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Three world drag racing champions have been booked to appear at the track — Bill Hoffer, Los Angeles, Cal., the National Hot Rod Association champ in the street eliminator class with his C-FX Ford; Mike Schmitt, Ridgecrest, Cal., NHRA champion with an AA-SA Ford; and Roy Davis, Corpus Christi, Tex., the gas dragster champ, who will be running his AA-Fuel Dragster — as well as several other well known regional, state and local competitors.

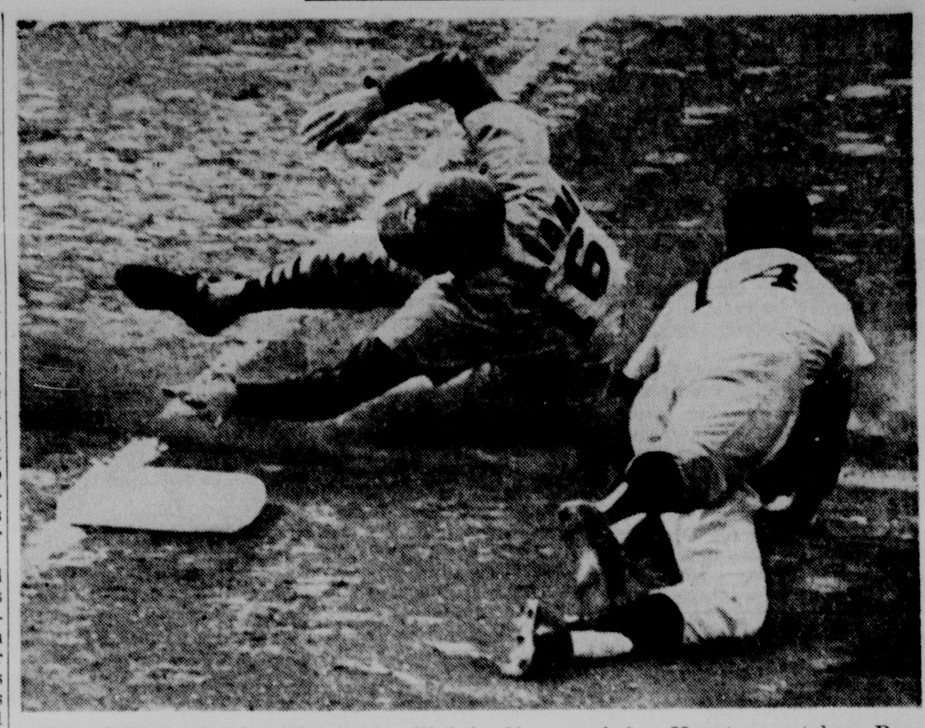

"Q-Ball" Wales from New Orleans is expected with his AA-Fuel Dragster, as well as the Anderson, Simpson, Walthall AA-Fuel Dragster from Dallas, Tex., which holds the No. 8 spot on "National Dragster" Top Eliminator List; and Ron Sylvester, Baton Rouge, with his AA fuel monster, the "Nibbler II."

Doc Eiland, Shreveport, will run his AA-Altered which has been reworked under the supervision of his crew chief John Curtis, and with a new blower hopes are for runs in the 9's bracket today. His machine has been clocked in 10.2 and at 161 miles per hour at Harmon.

He may run against the fuel dragsters for Top Eliminator today instead of in the Competition Class which he has won every Sunday at the track.

An A-Altered, the "Orange Pealer" owned by Reynolds and Simpson of Bossier City which sports a Chrysler engine, will be running today.

Some of the other well known drag racing machines from this area, which are expected today, include the "Quarter Hoss" from Mississippi, the "Hangman" from Arkansas, along with several modified productions, factory experimentals, gas dragsters, roadsters, coupes, street roadsters, modified sports cars and motorcycles.

Houston third baseman Bob Aspromonte tried to tag Gagliano out with a dive, but missed. Gagliano was caught off second by Houston catcher Ron Brand after Cardinal pitcher Tracy Stallard struck out. Giants Drop Reds For Clean Sweep

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie McCovey's 10th homer, a two-run shot in the seventh inning, broke a 4-4 tie and gave the San Francisco Giants a 6-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Saturday for a sweep of their three-game series.

There were two out in the seventh when Bill McCool walked Dick Schofield. Jesus Alou doubled to left center where Vada Pinson partially got his glove on the ball but couldn't hold it, Schofield scoring to tie the score 4-4. McCovey then hit his homer.

The Reds took a 1-0 lead in the third when Johnny Edwards doubled and Leo Cardenas singled against Giants' starter Jack Sanford.

Gerry Arrigo, making his first start for the Reds after 10 relief appearances, hit his first major league homer in the fifth off Sanford. The three - run smash made the score 4-0.

A walk to Cap Peterson, a double by Jack Hiatt and pinch single by Harvey Kuenn, batting for Sanford, narrowed the score to 4-2 in the fifth.

The Giants pulled to within 4-3 in the sixth on a double by McCovey, single by Willie Mays and a wild pitch by McCool, who relieved Arrigo with two out in the sixth.

Lee Saves Victory With Eighth Relief

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bob Lee, who has never allowed Baltimore a run in relief, stifled a budding Oriole rally in the eighth inning Saturday night and preserved a 3-1 victory for the Los Angeles Angels.

Lee was summoned for the 22nd time in Los Angeles' 45th game after starter Fred Newman walked two Orioles with one out in the eighth.

After John Orsino was retired on a fly ball, Brooks Robinson reached base on an infield single to load the bases. But Lee got Jerry Adair on another fly out.

Newman was credited with his sixth victory although he failed to finish for the 11th time in 2 starts. He struggled through the middle innings, pitching out of a no-out, bases-loaded jam in the sixth. When Orsino rapped into a double play and, after Robinson was intentionally walked, Adair struck out.

Milt Pappas, who shut out the Angels four times last season and entered the game with a 5-0 record, was the losing pitcher.

The Angels scored an unearned run in the third, set up when Baltimore second baseman Adair made only his second error in his last 676 chances. The run scored on Jose Cardenal's sacrifice fly.

Jim Fregosi opened the Los Angeles fourth with a home run. Willie Smith then tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly by Bob Rodgers.

Los Angeles Manager Bill Rigney was ejected in the eighth inning for arguing after Albie Pearson was called out for interfering with a throw by Oriole catcher Orsino on a stolen base attempt by Cardenal.

After being sent back to first, Cardenal then stole second and third.

Car Owners Say TV Pay Inadequate

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An organization of race car owners obtained a promise of $66,000 from the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Saturday as 500-mile race contestants' share of closed circuit television receipts.

They immediately called the sum, $2,000 for each of the 33 starters "grossly inadequate."

The statement was issued by the National Championship Car Owners Association, headed by Robert C. Wilke of Milwaukee.

The statement said "we feel the amount of prize money paid to participants is not in proportion to the increased cost of our participation in the 500 and that our share is not commensurate with the increase in gross receipts.

"Two thousand dollars per starting car from television receipts has been promised but we feel this amount is grossly inadequate."

Wilke said at a press conference that the statement was only one of policy and not an ultimatum, and that all the cars would run. He said he felt that $100,000 in television receipts should be paid to the starters regardless of the finish and that $50,000 should be added to the purse from that source.

He and J.C. Agajanian, association vice president from Gardena, Calif., said that the cost of putting a car in the race had about doubled in the last three years because the old front-engine cars have become obsolete.

Wilke said the car owners had had two meetings with the speedway management and that the $2,000-per-car promise was the best they could get.

Wilke said also that owners of 28 of the 33 starting cars were represented in the association.

Houston Gets 10 Inning Victory Over Cardinals

HOUSTON (AP) — Bob Aspromonte singled home Joe Morgan with the bases loaded in the 10th inning, boosting Houston to a 4-3 triumph over St. Louis Saturday.

Bob Purkey walked Morgan, leading off the inning, and the Astros loaded the bases with one out on Jim Wynn's single and an intentional pass to Walt Bond. Aspromonte followed with a single to right field.

The Cardinals played the game under protest after a play in the eighth on which Tim McCarver lifted a foul fly down the first base line. The umpires ruled McCarver inadvertently bumped catcher Ron Brand, trying for the catch, and was out for interference.

Manager Red Schoendienst immediately announced the game was being played under protest.

The Astros, held to two hits by Tracy Stallard through seven innings, tied the game with two runs in the eighth. Stallard gave up a leadoff homer to Al Spangler, then had to leave the game. It was announced afterward that he injured his back on the home run pitch.

Purkey relieved Stallard, and the Astros scored the tying run singles by Morgan and Bond sandwiched around a ground out.

Curt Flood, who collected four hits, homered for the Cardinals in the first inning following a walk to Bill White.

Rich Rollins Sparks Minnesota's Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rich Rollins drove in five runs with a homer, single and double, sparking Minnesota to an 11-8 triumph over Washington Saturday.

Rollin's two-run single in the Twins' five-run sixth inning snapped a 7-7 deadlock. He homered in the fifth following Zoilo Versalles' two-out single and doubled home Versalles in the ninth.

The Twins' five-run uprising wiped out a 7-5 Washington lead built partially on home runs by Bob Chance and Ed Brinkman in the fourth and Jim King in the fifth.

Earl Battey started the winning rally with a single, and the Twins loaded the bases on Jerry Kindall's single and a walk to Don Mincher.

Steve Ridzik replaced Buster Narum, but Versalles greeted him with a two-run double that tied the game. Rollins followed with his single, then scored the final run on Joe Nossek's sacrifice fly.

11 Defending Champs Are Dangerous To NAIA's 14th Annual Competitions

SIOUX FALLS, S.D., (AP) — An outstanding field that includes 11 defending champions will put one world record and 13 meet marks in danger at the 14th NAIA Track and Field Championships Friday and Saturday.

Southern University of Baton Rouge, La., with clockings of 3:05.6, 3:05.7 and 3:06.5 this season, will shot for the world mile relay record of 304.5, held by Arizona State.

Southern's team includes one junior, Theron Lewisn and three freshmen—Anthony Gates, Webster Johnson and Everett Mason.

Among the meet marks in jeopardy are those held by four Olympians—Bob Hayes with a 9.3 in the 100, Ralph Boston's 25-7¼ broad jump, John Pennel's 15-1 pole vault and the 21-flat 220 by the late Stone Johnson.

Richard Stebbins of Grambling, La., with season bests of 9.2 and 20.6, heads the list of challengers. Among 16 NAIA runners at o.5 or better are Ed Roberts of North Carolina College, who finished third for Trinidad in the 200 meters at the Tokyo Olympics.

Norman Tate of North Carolina College, a double winner in the 1964 NAIA, has a best of 25-6 in the broad jump and holds the meet triple jump record of 51-9.

John Camien of Emporia, Kan., State will bid for his fourth straight NAIA mile crown. He holds the record of 4:04.3 and a career best of 4:00.7. He is getting back to top form after a throat infection.

Emporia State, The defending Team Champ, will have trouble repeating with Southern, Grambling and North Carolina College in the picture.

The NAIA field includes a dozen 15-foot vaulters, headed by Mike Hanna of Indiana State with a top of 15-9.

Eight times under 46.5 for 440 yards were recorded by NAIA during the season and the meet marks of 46.3 could go. The roster includes defending champion Don Owens of Grambling, Ed Skinner of Maryland State, who competed for Trinidad in the Olympics, and seven Southern U. standouts.

A total of 334 athletes from 82 colleges have filed entries.

Billy Mills, Olympic 10,000 meter champion, has been given the torch for the meet and the state will honor him with a day during the Meet. Mills is a native of South Dakota's Rosebud Indian Reservation and a Kansas graduate.

Chicago Trades 2 To San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants traded catcher Ed Bailey, pitcher Bob Handley and outfielder Harvey Kuenn to the Chicago Cubs Saturday for catcher Dick Bertell and outfielder Len Gabrielson.

Giants' vice president Chub Feeney also said San Francisco was calling up pitcher Bill Hands from the Tacoma farm club. The young southpaw has an 8-0 record with a 0.50 earned-run-average against Pacific Coast League batters.

The key to the trade for the Giants may have been Bertell, a right-handed hitting receiver who could back or share the catching chores with left-handed hitting Tom Haller.

Bertell had a run-in with the Cub management earlier this year over a weight problem and was fined for every pound he weighed over 195.

Bertell hit .226 with no homers and seven runs batted in for the Cubs this season.

Gabrielson hit .267 with the Cubs in 27 games, with three homers and five runs batted in.

Kuenn, 34-year-old former American League batting champion, appeared in 32 games for San Francisco, hitting .224. Bailey, who was traded to Milwaukee last season and reacquired this year, was hitting only .107.

Hendley, who had a 10-11 record last season after being acquired from Milwaukee, had appeared in only eight games with the Giants and had a 2.60 earned run average with no decisions.

The trade put the Cubs one over the 25-man limit.

It was the second trade completed by the Giants in a week. They acquired shortstop Dick Schofield from Pittsburgh in a straight swap for Jose Pagan.

Kuenn became expendable with the emergence of 22-year-old Cap Peterson to regular status in left field along with Matty Alou. Kuenn, meanwhile, has been troubled by a bad back.

The right-handed hitting outfielder-infielder played seven seasons with Detroit in the American League and one season with Cleveland before coming to the Giants in a 1960 trade.

"It's part of the game," said Kuenn. "Anyway, I'll be closer to home," he added.

"Maybe now I'll get a chance to pitch," said Hendley. "That's what I'm in this game for."

Most unhappy was Bailey, a popular player with the rest of the team and a man who has liked the San Francisco area.

"I thought when the Giants traded for me, they were going to put me into the line-up," Bailey remarked. "But I've only been in 24 games and at bat 28 times."

Bailey indicated he was in no hurry to meet the 72-hour deadline for reporting to his new club.

"I have a wife and four children here," said Bailey. "And I'm not going to let them drive across the country alone."

"We think this trade will help us," continued Feeney. "Gabrielson is a young big kid, a left-handed hitter. And Bertell is a good defensive catcher with a real fine arm and wtih big league experience.

"I hate to see those three go," added Feeney. "They've done a lot for us in the past."

THESE THREE San Francisco players were traded Saturday to the Chicago Cubs for catcher Dick Bertell and outfielder Len Gabrielson. Pittsburgh Adds Eighth Victory To String, 7-4

NEW YORK (AP) — Roberto Clemente kept up his assault against New York pitching Saturday, sparking the Pittsburgh Pirates to their eighth straight victory, 7-4 over the last-place Mets.

Clemente rapped four hits, including a single in the seventh inning that sent in the deciding run. The National League's defending batting champion, who got off to a slow start due to a pre-season malarial attack, has seven hits in 10 trips in two games with the Mets, raising his average 29 points to .300.

The Pirates, after trailing twice in the game, clinched it with three runs in the seventh on a walk and four straight singles — all after two were out. Bob Bailey started it with a walk off loser Frank Lary, then Bill Virdon, Clemente, Willie Stargell and Donn Clendenon singled.

Clemente also tripled in a run and scored in the first, singled in the third, and doubled and scored in the sixth.

Joe Christopher homered with two on in the first, giving the Mets a 3-2 lead, and New York scored an unearned run in the fifth, going ahead 4-3.

Don Schwall, who took over for Pittsburgh starter Joe Gibbon in the first and went 5 2-3 innings, was the winner. He allowed only three hits.

Detroit Wins 1-0 In 10 Inning Tilt

DETROIT (AP) — George Thomas opened the 10th inning with a double and raced home on a double by Dick McAuliffe, giving the Detroit Tigers a 1-0 victory over Cleveland and Jack Kralick behind the two-hit pitching of Mickey Lolich Saturday.

The victory was the second 1-0 decision for Detroit over Cleveland in less than 24 hours and extended the Indians' scoreless inning string to 21. The Tigers also got a two-hitter Friday night with Hank Aguirre outdueling Ralph Terry.

After Thomas doubled off Kralick, Jackie Moore was walked intentionally. McAuliffe followed with a low liner to center field that Vic Davalillo tried to catch. But the ball skipped past him and went for a game-winning double.

Lolich, now 7-2, allowed only a pair of singles by Leon Wagner, one in the first inning and the other in the fourth. After the second single, Lolich retired 18 straight Indians until he walked Rocky Colavito leading off the 10th.

Kralick retired 13 consecutive batters, following a second inning single by Willie Horton, before Jake Wood and Don Wert hit singles with two away in the sixth. Kralick got Don Demeter on a grounder to third, working out the jam.

Stolle Wins First Major Tourney In French Play

PARIS (AP) — Fred Stolle, who seemed doomed to a career of being a perpetual runner-up, won his first major championship Saturday by defeating Tony Roche in the all-Asutralian men's singles final of the French tennis tournament.

Stolle, 26, recovered from a shaky start to defeat Roche 3-6, 6-0, 6-2, 6-3. Stolle twice has been a finalist at Wimbledon, twice in Australia, once in the United States, and once in Italy without ever before being able to break into the winner's circle.

Margaret Smith and Lesley Turner won their way to the final of the women's singles to make it also an all-Australian affair. Miss Smith and Miss Turner then combined to defeat Francoise Durr and Janine Leiffrig of France in the women's doubles final, 6-3, 6-1.

In the singles semifinals, Miss Smith, the defending champion, outmaneuvered little Nancy Richey of Dallas, Tex., 7-5, 6-4. Miss Turner defeated Maria Bueno of Brazil, last year's winner of both the Wimbledon and U.S. Titles, 2-6, 6-4, 8-6.

Miss Smith came from behind in both sets against Miss Richey. She was trailing 1-3 in the first set and pulled it up to 3-all and went on to win when she broke Miss Richey's service in the 11th game with two untouchable placements and two errors by the American girl.

Three American Golfers Make Quarter-Finals

PARIS (AP) — Three Americans gained the quarter-finals of the French amateur golf championship Saturday but 13 others were eliminated in the second and third rounds.

Dick Chapman of Palm Beach, Fla., winner of the French title in 1939 and 1952; John Miles of New York, and Lawrence Wallden, now living in Geneva, were the Americans who survived Saturday's two rounds of play.

Among the casualties were Robert Gardner of Essex Falls, N.J., Frank Strafaci of Miami and Robert Sweeny of Palm Beach.

Chapman advanced to the third round when Frederic Franz of Crystal Lake, Ill., defaulted, then defeated Jacques Visseaux of France 2 and 1.

Miles beat N.D. Howard of Britain 2-up in the morning round and Truman Connell of Palm Beach 1-up in the afternoon. Connell had reached the third round with a 1-up victory over Henri de LaMaze of France, 11-time winner of the tournament.

Walden eliminated two Americans — Boyd O'Donnell of Beverly Hills, Calif., 2 and 1, and Strafaci, 5 and 4.

In today's quarter-finals, it will be Chapman vs. Miles, Wallden vs. Patrick Cros of France, Harold Baker of Britain vs. Gaetan Morgue D'Algue of France and Alan Turner of Britain vs. Robert Nouel of Francem

Semifinals also will be played today, with the 36 - hole final Monday.

The tournament is being played over the 6,573-yard, par 72 Saint Cloud course, on a bluff overlooking the western edge of Paris. A weak sun occasionally broke through the overcast Saturday, but rain fell during the afternoon.

Nouel defeated Gardner 1-up in the third round, while Baker beat Sweeny 3 and 2, Cros defeated Robert Roos of San Francisco 1-up in 20 holes, and Turner eliminated Lt. Gary Vandeweghe of Rockville Centre, N.Y., 4 and 3.

Troubles Plague Drivers In Runs At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A hint that mechanical ailments may be decisive in the 49th Memorial Day auto race Monday came in final shakedown runs Saturday.

Only 28 of the 33 starters had their cars ready for the fuel and carburetor tests and five of them had assorted troubles on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway oval.

Parnelli Jones, the 1963 winner who wrecked his car in practice May 21 after qualifying, experienced brake trouble with the rebuilt Kuzma Lotus-Ford and chilled the crowded pits with a swerve on the main stretch.

The system worked okay after adjustments.

Bobby Unser stalled his 4-wheel drive Ferguson-Novi and was towed into the garage for diagnosis.

More serious were engine failures of Chuck Stevenson, 45-year-old 1952 national champion, and Mick Rupp, 28-year-old newcomer from Mansfield, Ohio.

Stevenson burned a piston in one of four obsolescent Offenhauser roadsters in the field.

Rupp blew the engine in his Gerhardt-Offenhauser and owner Pete Salemi of Cleveland set out to borrow another. Twenty were available.

Drivers who did not get onto the track in the final workout were Ronnie Duman, Al Miller, Bill Cheesbourg, Chuck Rodee and rookie Joey Leonard.

The fuel mileage tests were run at speeds up to 155 miles per hour, indicating that is the pace the drivers expect in the race. A. J. Foyt's winning average last year was 147.530.

West Monroe Speedway Has Slate Of Races

A top schedule of races are set today at the West Monroe Speedway, with the list of entries headed by Vester Dean who just last week set a new track record with a lap time of 19.0.

The "Powder Puff" races originally slated today have been postponed until next Sunday. Any ladies interested in driving should contact the announcer at the track.

The rain has not hampered the track or parking areas, according to Roy Smith, track director.

White Sox Defeat Yankees On John's Six Good Frames

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox, getting six innings of brilliant pitching from Tommy John, handed New York a 6-3 defeat Saturday, extending the Yankees' losing streak to four games.

John, 22-year-old lefty, yielded a run in the first inning on Bobby Richardson's single and successive walks to Roger Maris, Mickey Mantle and Joe Pepitone. But then he settled down and held New York to one hit through the next five innings.

He turned wild again in the seventh, walking Clete Boyer and throwing a wild pitch before giving up a single to pinch hitter Horace Clarke that scored Boyer. Eddie Fisher came in and put out the fire.

The Sox cushioned John for his fourth victory against two setbacks with two runs in the first off Al Downing. Ron Hansen walked and Bill Skowron, Pete Ward and Ken Berry singled for the runs.

The Sox got two more in the fifth as Skowron led off with a double and scored all the way from second on Downing's wild pitch. The pitch was the fourth ball to Ward, and he raced to second on the play. Ward scored from there when Jim Schaffer's sizzler down the first baseline was bobbled by Joe Pepitone.

The Yankees loaded the bases off Fisher in the eighth on Mantle's single, an error and a walk but scored only one run — on pinch hitter Ray Barker's sacrifice fly.

Sore Loser, Sore Winner

SEATTLE (AP) — Similar in some ways to the heavyweight championship fight itself was the manner in which Walter E. Johnson collected a $100 bet and a black eye, he said today.

Johnson had bet the $100 with a neighbor, favoring Cassius Clay.

They met at the back fence after the fight and the neighbor handed over five $20 bills.

"I bent my head to count them," said Johnson. "I heard him mutter 'I'm going to get my money's worth'. Then, wham!"

No, he wasn't sure just what kind of punch it was probably a right.

The time? about a minute after they met.

Johnson admitted, however, he was satisfied with the count.

Four-Run Rally

Second Home Run Gives Dodgers Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lou Johnson's second homer of the game, a three-run blast, capped a four-run rally in the eighth inning and brought the Los Angeles Dodgers a 5-3 victory over Milwaukee Saturday.

Don Drysdale pitched a six-hitter and struck out 12 Braves, winning his eighth game against three defeats.

Drysdale gained the decision when the Dodgers came from behind against Clay Carroll, 0-1. Ron Fairly singled home the run that tied it, 2-2. John Roseboro then singled before Johnson smashed the game-winning homer. It was his third of the season.

The 31-year-old outfielder hit his first homer of the game off Milwaukee starter Hank Fischer in the fourth inning.

State Offers Good Camping

With Sam Hanna

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Guest Columnist John Blanchard, public relations director of International Paper Co. at Bastrop, strikes out camping today with information that should be of great interest for the vacation season. John tells the reader where to go and how to do it. He's an experienced man on the subject, having been an active outdoorsman his entire life. John Blanchard is a former newspaperman, former publicity chief for the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission and a past president of the Louisiana Outdoor Writers Association, an organization in which he now serves as vice-president.)

By John Blanchard, Guest Columnist

Most World War II veterans have, long ago, been cured of "tent fever" and have introduced their families to camping — on the road, in the parks, on lake banks, in backyards, or wherever permission is granted to pitch a tent.

Camping, like boating, has surged forward the past 10 years and there are now specialty houses offering everything from pop-up tents to long-handle skillets. Drab canvas has turned to fluorescent orange, green, crimson, yellow, and even black, and kerosene bulls-eye lanterns have developed into jumbo-size lights powerful enough to illuminate half of any city park.

If you don't have wood to build a campfire, there's instant heat made under a dozen different brand names and there are stoves to burn special bottled fuel, regular gas, white gas, kerosene, butane, and many other mixtures. Some of the stoves "light themselves," thereby eliminating matches; some are explosion proof, some with wings to ward off winds, and others are equipped with ovens for baking.

Before we cook a meal, however, we'd better find a spot to camp. Now there is the number one question, providing, of course, you're not planning to use your own backyard, with or without fencing.

Campgrounds have not only increased in numbers but have expanded their facilities to the point where "roughing it" is no longer necessary, unless it is wanted. The more developed campgrounds have modern facilities, showers, stores, as well as such recreational activities as playgrounds, swimming, riding, and even golf. More important than the facilities and activities is the fact that many families have discovered that a camping vacation is probably the most relaxing type of vacation they can take . . . no schedules have to be meet, no need to lay out large amounts of money for accommodations . . .and complete freedom from the hustle and bustle of the metropolitan areas. It is a chance to enjoy nature to any degree wanted, from the rustic forest campsite to the seashore recreation areas . . . or both within a few miles of each other.

Louisiana has 15 state and national parks for the camper to investigate and most of them are well equipped with some of the "luxuries." The 15 and their locations are: Chemin-a-Haut, 10 miles north of Bastrop; Chicot, eight miles north of Ville Platte; Fontainbleau, three miles east of Mandeville; Lake Bistineau, 20, miles south of Minden; Longfellow - Evangeline, St. Martinville; Sam Houston, 12 miles north of Lake Charles; Lake Bruin, five miles north of St. Joseph; Fullerton Lake, nine miles north of Pitkin; Valentine Lake, two miles south of Gardner; Gum Springs, eight miles west of Winnfield; Caney Lake, six miles north of Minden; Corney Lake, 10 miles north of Bernice; Longfeaf Trail Vista, nine miles southwest of Derry; Wallace Lake, 12 miles south of Shreveport, and Bayou Bodcau, 24 miles northeast of Shreveport.

In addition, the Kisatchie National Forest, in the Winnfield-Alexandria area, has 560,543 acres and most of the acreage is available to the camper and nature lover on an unlimited time basis.

Nearby Chemin - a - Haut, in Morehouse, offers year - round camping with a 14-day limit and has these facilities: trailer space, tables, flush toilets, bathhouses, shelters, swimming, hiking, fishing, boating. Lake Bruin has all these with the exception of a bathhouse. Queries should be directed to the state parks or the State Park and Recreation Commission, P.O. Box 2541, Old State Capitol Building, Baton Rouge.

There are more than 7,000 improved campgrounds in the U.S. and Canada, and a complete list is available from the Rand - McNally Camping Directory.

No attempt is made to suggest what type of camping equipment a family should buy, since this can vary to one's taste as much as the type of campground that a family prefers. If you have never camped, however, you might want to look over a few books at the library and visit a couple of camping supply stores. It is best, the experts say, for the first camping trip to be a short one . . . over a weekend at a nearby campsite. Don't go overboard on buying equipment until you have tried camping and have seen what others are using and what you will actually need. In most cities, it is now possible to rent whatever camping eaquipment you might want to use, although you will eventually want to buy your own.

Louisiana, along with most southern and eastern states, is far behind the western states in establishing campsites for the public. However, the Pelican State has come forward with many well-kept roadside parks and is making strides to offer sites to residents and visitors.

Whether you are an exserviceman, a former Boy Scout, hunter, fisherman, nature lover, or hiker, youll want to investigate some of the backwoods country of this and other states. Many of the timber companies, and others in the wood-using industry which own large tracts, have opened their lands to the public, including camping and other forms of recreation. The big plea from the landowner who may or may not exercise his inherit right is: Remember—Break matches. Crush cigarettes. Be sure all fires are out. And, in the words of Smokey Bear: "Only you can prevent forest fires."

Cooperate while camping and you'll be welcome.

Little Man's Corner

It was raining here and there, but the bream were biting and the little men made news afield.

One of the most unusual fishing experiences we've heard of in a long time happened right at home on Cheniere Lake where George Tarleton Jr. of Monroe landed a 6½-pound bass.

George was fishing with a Rebel plug, but when he pulled the bass in a tiny Rebel plug — not the one he was fishing with — was hanging from the mouth of the fish.

Out on Black Bayou, Joe Ware, who has been taking lessons from big Red Sheldon Ray, of Monroe caught eight bass Thursday, including a 6½-pounder.

Bream fishing paid off for Clyde Loyd of Monroe. He landed 40 bull bream while A. L. Lawrence of West Monroe caught 38 large specs on one day and 27 the next.

Lavelle Hopkins of Monroe and Jack McMullen of Monroe landed five bass and 94 bream. Ed West caught five bass, weighing between three and four pounds. Peg Mills landed eight large bass.

Still at Black Bayou, this was several days ago, but it's still worth reporting. Sam LaDart and Buddy Lyons landed 19 bass weighing a total of 70 pounds. Three of them went seven pounds each.

On another day, Jack McMullen caught 75 bull bream and E. P. Jones landed 65 bream. Lee Hicks came out with a string of 75 bream, four specs and a bass.

And Charley Marx landed 50 bull bream. A strong of 125 bream was caught by Ronald Huey, M. A. Huey and Taylor Jackson.

Gallant Heritage Holds On; Wins Sheridan Race

CHICAGO (AP) — Gallant Heritage, owned and bred by J. Graham Brown of Louisville, held on to defeat Mr. Pak by a nose in the $32,800 Sheridan Stakes at Arlington Park Saturday.

A crowd of 25,303 saw John's Jest finish third in the field of 10 three-year-olds competing in the six furlong race.

Gallant Heritage, ridden by Kenny Knapp, held a narrow lead into mid-stretch. The winner, a song of Gallant Man-Bornastar, then pulled away and opened up a 2½ length lead. Mr. Pak seventh at the top of the stretch, then closed powerfully but missed out.

PRO GOLFER Joe Kirkwood Jr., appears to be ready for the crying towel after watching his tee shot on the first hole go astray during the third round of play in the '500' Open golf tournament Saturday in Indianapolis. Kirkwood led the field by one stroke going into the third round of play Saturday but the lead was overtaken by Bruce Crampton. (AP Wirephoto)

Tennessee State Coach Declares Feud Ridiculous

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The NCAA and the AAU should "stop thinking of themselves long enough to realize what they are doing to the athletes and the track program of this country," Tennessee State track coach Ed Temple said Saturday.

The two -time coach of the U.S. women's Olympic track team said too many meets are being canceled this year because of the bitter battle between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union.

NCAA schools were pulled out of this weekend's California Relays because the event is AAU-sanctioned.

"It's getting to the ridiculous stage," Temple said. "And who do you think will suffer? Not the AAU or NCAA. It's the athletes and this country who will suffer."

Dianne White Becomes Bride Of James Cromwell

In a candlelight ceremony Saturday, May 29 in Southside Methodist Church, Miss Marilyn Dianne White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey E. White, 3902 Forsythe Ave., became the bride of James Louis Cromwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Cromwell, 1117 Mississippi St.

Large fan shaped arrangements of pink traveler gladioli in pedestal jardiniers flanked a white arch, entwined with Southern smilax and pink gladioli formed a background setting for the ceremony at 8 p.m. performed by Rev. Lea Joyner. A cluster of white lace bells tied with pink satin bows and long streamers was suspended from the center of the arch. Wrought iron candelabra holding pink tapers and fern trees completed the setting.

A prenuptial concert of organ selections was rendered by Miss Charlene Wilkerson, who also played traditional wedding marches.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a full length gown of white peau de soie, styled with scoop neckline, short bell sleeves and dome skirt with correage back, terminating in a chapel train. Applique motifs of Alencon lace embellished the basque bodice. Her veil was a cathedral length mantilla of imported scalloped Chantilly lace. Wearing identical full length gowns of shrimp pink peau de soie were the bride's attendants, Miss Susan Broomfield, as maid of honor; Miss Mary Kokinos, Miss Peggy Cromwell and Miss Charlotte Sodd, bridesmaids. The gowns were designed with fitted bodices, elbow sleeves, scoop necks and belled skirts, encircled at the waists with obi sashes. Bows of the shrimp peau de soie with brief veils formed their headdresses and they carried colonial bouquets of white chrysanthemums with pink streamers.

Johnette Reeves, flower girl, also wore a floor length gown of shrimp pink peau de soie with obi sash and carried a white basket of white chrysanthemums and pink streamers.

Serving as best man was Donald Causey and groomsmen-ushers were Earl Posey, Ken Cromwell, and Edward Cromwell, both brothers of the groom. Randy Duncan acted as ring bearer.

Her corsage was a pink orchid. Mrs. Cromwell, mother of the groom, wore a canary yellow lace dress with jewel neckline and slim skirt. Darker yellow accessories completed her costume and she wore a yellow orchid corsage.

The ballroom of the Paragon Club was scene of the reception which followed the exchange of vows. A white cherub compote with crystal prisms and a mass arrangement of white stock and pink pompons, flanked by pink tapers in white cherub candelabra, formed the central decor for the refreshment table, covered with an organza cloth where pink punch was served from a silver punch bowl by Mrs. Arnold Kilpatrick and Mrs. J. R. Akins. The round bride's table, also covered with a white organza cloth, was centered with the tiered wedding cake, wreathed with greenery. Mrs. Spedo Kokinos and Mrs. Johnny Reeves served the cake.

Mrs. Phillip D. Duncan registered guests in the bride's book at a table which held a memory candle and greenery.

Hardier Heels Due For Shoes

Street gratings, cracks in sidewalks, escalator stairs, gravel roads and mud puddles are just some of the familiar traps set to ruin ladies' heels. You'll never get rid of these natural hazards, so it's encouraging to hear from Modern Plastics that heels will soon be harder to damage.

A rigid vinyl film covering has been developed which protects heels against scuffs, scratches, gouges, dirt and water. The hardy plastic, which is fashion conscious as well, comes in a variety of colors and patterns from conservative black to pop art polka dot.

Juniors Prefer Surfing Look In Swimsuits

By FLORENCE Je SANTIS

The average young junior possesses four swimsuits, and at least three are new. This means that many girls own more. At this time of year, the young junior is as likely to buy a new swimsuit every week or so as she is to buy a new dress at other seasons.

The swimsuit actually IS a kind of dress to her. Girls nowadays often live most of the time on or near water, so they need swimsuits far more than dresses. Like dresses, suits must "do something" for a girl. The newest fashion is very important, and it must be fashion which is right for her.

Young juniors, for instance, don't go for the black net, cut-out or otherwise "sexy" suits which have been so popular with women from 20 and on up. But the girls do like bikinis, which, oddly enough, they don't look on as provocative. A bikini facilitates tanning, that's all.

Many juniors are active swimmers and surfers, so they like the surfing look in swimsuits. This is a two - piece suit with the trunks banded and laced at the waist to keep it fimly in place. It's quite possible to lose a suit when riding the waves! Other two - piece suits tend to the surfer look. In the Regal Knitwear teen collection a typical example is a two - piece whose top is a camisole firmly anchored by its broad shoulder build-up.

The Regal teen collection appeals to young juniors by having a theme, carried out even in accessories. It's called "I'm Boy Watching," and each suit comes with a pair of color-coordinated sun glasses. The glasses are the new slit kind, made of a single piece of curved, molded plastic with a long slit in the middle of tinted transparent plastic. Thus a girl can watch without anyone else seeing where she's looking.

One of the prettiest boy-watcher suits is a Gay Nineties style one-piece, with a long torso curve, triple ruffled overskirt hemline. In black and white, it has white boy - watcher sun glasses to go with it.

Brilliantly floral blouson suits are also popular with teens, and the parka has become the standard cover - up. Regal's is in white duck with "I'm Boy Watching" printed across it.

An all white theme was carried out in the dinner appointments. Magnolia blossoms formed the centerpiece, which was flanked with white candles in silver holders. Each place was marked with a white gardenia corsage, made by the honoree's grandmother, Mrs. Green Haynes.

For the occasion Miss Haynes was wearing a white arnel jersey dress with red polka dot sailor collar.

Invited for the event were Miss Nancy Jordan, Miss Mary Alice Einhorn, Miss Pat Lolley, Miss Pam Kull, Mrs. Green Haynes and Miss Kathy Haynes.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Frances Clement of Farmerville and Mr. Dixon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Dixon of Griffin, Georgia.

Vows were exchanged before the altar which was banked with magnolias and foliage and two branched candelabra holding lighted candles. A prenuptial concert was presented by the organist, Ronny Brothers.

The bride was escorted by her brother, Charles Ray Clement, who gave her in marriage. Her full length gown of white peau de soie was styled with long tapered sleeves and bell shaped skirt. They wore identical floor length gowns of blue dotted swiss with belled skirts and brief sleeves. Their headdresses were blue veiled circlets and matching pumps and short nylon gloves completed their ensembles.

A matching arrangement centered the bride's table where Miss Kathryn Davis presided at the punch bowl and Miss Janie Sasser served the cake. Miss Georgiana Webb had charge of the guest book.

Upon return from a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Monroe. For travel the bride wore an olive green silk sheath with white accessories and a corsage of green cymbidium orchids.

MORE CALF

At a recent California men's wear convention, Greer Garson voted for more showing of the masculine calf, reports Ron Postal of the National Council of Men's Fashions. She suggested that men return to the tight-legged silks and satins of the Cavalier era or something as interesting as the Scotman's kilt. "Give us girls a thrill and let us see your well-turned calf or knee," she said.

Low Heels Important On Summer Shoes

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Without much fanfare, the low heel has gradually taken shoes over to the point that nowadays the fashion-conscious wearer relegates the thin high heel entirely to cocktail and evening wear. Particularly in summer, low heels make great comfort sense, whether on hot city pavements or in the suburbs.

Sandler of Boston, long-time designers of low-heeled shoes, have taken naturally to this look, show a great variety of light-hearted little summer shoes for all occasions.

For the city it's the Chanel pump. The great Paris designer has been responsible for many fashions in accessories, and the two-tone shoe is one of her latest. You can know the Chanel pump by its combination of a black or brown toe and heel with white in the rest of the shoe. The heel and toe are in patent when black.

Another style, originally that of a famous American fashion editor, is the T-strap shoe. For summer, Sandler turns it into a sling-back sandal, perforates the vamp with a cut-out pattern. Like the Chanel pump, its heel is "'city" height, about a half inch.

Really flat are the sports summer Sandlers. A closed-back sandal has a spear-head T-strap, low-cut and perforated vamp, comes in tan and other colors.

The moccasin, always a Sandler specialty, is lower-cut for summer, especially on the sides, comes in beige as a basic color. A double cord decorates the vamp, and the toe is a slim crescent.

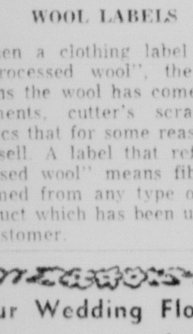

'Total Look' In Sportswear Seen For Fall

The Courreges influence is going to be strongest in sportswear. The Paris designer of the geometric clothes with short skirts and boots has inspired for fall what is being called a "total look."

From head to foot the outfit is coordinated. This includes patterned boots, such as paisley for a paisley outfit, and patterned tights in stripes, checks or whatever, to match costumes.

To sell all this to women without sending them on wild goose chases for the parts of the total look, stores will carry all the pieces in one place, boutique style.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse White, all of Sterlington.

The Rev. George Martinez performed the double ring ceremony following traditional nuptial music by Mrs. Della Williamson, organist and Mrs. Waymon Etier, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie fashioned with a belled skirt ending in a chapel train. Scalloped French Chantilly lace, embroidered with seed pearls, encircled the midriff and bordered the skirt and train. Long sleeves tapering to points over the hands were appliqued with jeweled lace roses. The appliques were repeated in garlands over the skirt front and framed the chapel train. Her bouffant elbow length veil of silk illusion was held in place by a lace and pearl covered pillbox. She carried a bouquet of white roses surrounding a white orchid.

Playing Cards Glamorize For Pop Art Decorations

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—A lot's in the cards besides games.

Just take a deck of old ones, some glue, a handful of sequins or other trim and a little imagination and you're in the pop art business.

A rainy day, especially in summer, is a good time to put the fixings for such fun in front of the youngsters.

You can use playing cards to decorate a glass topped table for an outdoor terrace by gluing the cards to the table's underside.

For a bridge luncheon, use the pasteboards to make a card castle centerpiece. Surround it with summer flowers.

Other tips from the Bicycle Playing Card bureau:

—The children can use old cards to make furniture for a doll house. Use king's picture as portrait on wall. Use numbered cards for table tops. Slit edges of cards to fit together and make chairs and other furniture.

—Cover a series of small boxes with cards. Use for paper clips, cotton tips, rubber bands. Decorate with sequins.

—Use colorful cards from odd decks to make a mobile for over baby's crib.

—Make strings of cards for a high window in a basement rumpus room. Weight each string of cards with crystal light pulls from the dime store. Presto. You have a card curtain.

—Paste a border of cards along the walls of family room or den. Card-pave the floor of a closet. Cover with shellac.

—Keep the shellac handy to cover cards pasted on a desk set, including wastebasket, pencil holder, lamp shade, blotter pad.

Children can do most of these projects with just a little direction from mom.

Ask them to think of other off-beat uses for old playing cards. The number depends on the originality of the creator.

All add up to aces up the sleeve for summer enjoyment.

...On Dit...

by Marillyn Taylor

With the closing of school comes returning college students, out of town visitors, summer tours — all over-town activities are hopping and in addition to our schedule of graduation parties. Our local high schools formally ended the year this week. A number of our college young people are already at home, with more due to arrive during the coming week.

Guests of PRENT SEYMOUR last weekend were these visitors from New Orleans: ROSAMUND KUNTZ, LOUISE CORRIGAN, MARGARET COUNTESS, DAVID DUGGAN, BUSH LeBOURGEOIS, ODOM HEEBE. Prent was home from New Orleans for two weeks with his parents, the ED SEYMOURS, before leaving to spend the summer in Europe. He will be accompanied on the trip by BEN PETERS, grandson of Monroe's FLORA POTTS.

On Saturday evening, Prent invited about one hundred friends to meet his visitors. The party was held at the Seymour home, which was decorated throughout with mixed bouquets, using roses with other spring flowers.

Refreshment tables were set in the gardens, which were lighted with flares. On the main table was a tiered candelabra holding yellow tapers, lemons, limes, and greenery. Guests were invited to call between seven and ten.

On Sunday at noon, MARIE LOUISE and GEORGE SNELLINGS invited Prent, his guests, and other members of the family for breakfast at the Snellings residence. The menu featured Quiche Lorraine.

Home from Converse college in Spartanburg, South Carolina, are SUSAN SHERROUSE and KATHY McSHERRY, who arrived on Thursday afternoon. Susan was accompanied by her roommate, SUZANNE ASWALD of Allendale, S. C., who will visit here through the coming week. The Sherrouses plan to drive her through the Southern part of the state later in the week, and she is to fly home from New Orleans next Sunday.

Taking advantage of the lovely late Spring weather last Saturday night, two couples planned an evening lawn party. Hosts were SUZANNE and JERRY WOLFF, VAIL and ROGER SILVER, who entertained at the Wolff residence at 1500 Lexington avenue.

A large basket of assorted garden flowers, magnolias, roses, daylilies, stood at the gate where guests were welcomed. White wrought iron furniture and glass topped tables were placed on the patio and under the trees in the gardens. Lighted Japanese lanterns and baskets of fern and flowers hung in the trees. About sixty guests were invited to call between seven and nine.

An unusual party for this part of the country is the New England clambake. Just such a gathering was planned last Friday night at the home of LOUISE and NAJ KLAM. On a recent trip to Boston, where he attended the twenty-fifth anniversary reunion of his medical school graduation class, Naj had made arrangements for the shipping home of all accessories and food needed for the clambake.

He began late Tuesday, with a pit dug at the bayou bank behind the Klam home on Point drive. The pit was lined with bricks, and a large fire built thereon. Friday afternoon, when bricks were red-hot and the fire reduced to glowing coals, he added the food: clams, live lobsters shipped from Maine, corn in the shucks, whole potatoes, onions. All this was layered into the pit with the seaweed in which the lobsters had been packed. The whole was then covered and left to steam.

Meanwhile, Louise had set up two tables for twenty guests in the family room. Central decoration was a wicker container shaped like a lobster, which held an arrangement of magnolias. At each place were needed accessories: a claw-cracker, a bib, napkin, and wash-and-dry decorated with a red lobster.

Naj brought up the main course in a wheelbarrow, and guests helped themselves before being seated inside. Louise added to the menu homemade bread, tossed green salad, and later, an unusual lemon cream dessert served in lemon shells.

'Tis truly nice that seniors are dismissed from school two weeks earlier than underclassmen. However else would they find time for all their parties? Last Friday at noon, JIBBY FOX honored MELINDA MABRAY at a luncheon party at her home. White organdy placemats were used on the table, with twin arrangements of Dainty Bess roses in silver compotes. Places for twelve graduates were marked by the honoree's engraved cards ornamented with paintings of flowers, the date, and names. These were in silver card holders with tiny pink candles.

The menu included a first course of cranberry juice with crushed mint, chicken tetrazzini, molded peached salad, marinated asparagus, hot rolls, and a frozen lemon dessert.

All Neville senior girls were invited to a conversational hour between ten and twelve last Saturday morning honoring five members of the class. Hostesses for this party were BETTY STONE, ANN STONE and RUSTY HEMPHILL, who entertained at the Floyd Stone home on Westminister. Honorees, each of whom received a gardenia corsage, were MERRIE JO SIMONTON, ELAINE HANNA, MERILYN DENOUX, PAM BAKER, and BECKY TRIMBLE. Magnolias decorated the table in the den, where bottled soft drinks were served with assorted cookies and sandwiches.

Luncheon on Saturday was the compliment planned by JANE SHERROUSE and HUGH TOUCHSTONE honoring Melinda Mabray and JANET VANDERPOOL. As they arrived at the Sherrouse home, the honorees received corsages made of paper figures of an owl, a diploma, and other graduation symbols done in black and gold.

Twenty - three girls gathered in the playroom where the first course of melon balls and fresh strawberries was served from a tiered epergne filled with crushed ice. On the table in the dining room, two brass candelabra - epergnes held clever arrangments of yellow daylilies with pictures of the honorees at various ages through the years. The menu included fried chicken, rice-a-roni, green brans wrapped in bacon, hot biscuits, and lemon cake for dessert.

Saturday evening, ANN and FLOYD STONE were hosts at a barbecue supper honoring KENT DEAN. Six couples, all members of the Neville senior class, were invited to attend. The party was held on the patio, which was lighted by luau flares and decorated with daylilies and euonymus. Individual tables were covered with yellow, white, and green cloths.

Merrie Jo Simonton was named guest of honor when BITZA and EDMUND BROWN entertained Monday evening at a swimming party at their home on Lakeside drive. Individual tables were set up in the yard. Nosegays of garden flowers were ringed with life preservers marked "Alpha". (This was also a going-away party, as Merrie Jo leaves soon for a summer in Europe.) The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement using yellow daisies and euonymus with real hot dogs and buns and candles shaped like asparagus and tomatoes. Charcoaled hamburgers highlighted the menu served to thirty young people.

On graduation day itself, Thursday, ALICE ALLEMAN was hostess at a morning party honoring LYNN ALLEN and Melinda Mabray. Gardenias centered the dining room table, while daylilies and euonymus decorated the refreshment table in the den. With bottled soft drinks, Alice served chicken salad sandwiches, shrimp roll, biscuits with ham, cookies and pralines. Each of the twelve graduates who attended received an address book as a favor.

Planning a wonderful trip are CECIL and ARMAND BREARD, who are to leave Wednesday for two weeks in Mexico. They will visit Mexico City, Acapulco, and other points of interest during the trip. This is the Breards' third trip as guests of a manufacturer of office machines. They traveled to Europe in 1963, and to Hawaii in 1964.

Due home today are BETTY and JIMMY MOORE, YVONNE and KENT ANDERSON, who have been in Dallas for the weekend. They flew over yesterday morning, had lunch with DOTTIE and ED WICKER, and attended the performance of "Hello, Dolly!" last night.

Another couple who went to Dallas for the show were ROSALIE and FRED FUDICKAR, JR., who were over last weekend as guests of the CHARLES MAYHEWS. Also in the houseparty were ANN and BOB ALLEN of Shreveport and BETTY EWING of Houston. This is a group which annually houseparties together, has visited in Monroe.

For Memorial Day weekend, here is one of the better-known poems of World War I, Alan Seeger's "I Have a Rendezvous With Death":

I have a rendezvous with Death
At some disputed barricade
When Spring comes around with rustling shade,
And apple blossoms fill the air.
I have a rendezvous with Death
When Spring brings back blue days and fair.
God knows 'twere better to be deep
Pillowed in silk and scented down,
Where love throbs out in blissful sleep,
Pulse night to pulse, and breath to breath,
Where hushed awakenings are dear . . .
But I've a rendezvous with Death
At midnight in some flaming town,
When Spring trips north again this year,
And I to my pledged word am true,
I shall not fail that rendezvous.

Dress Kiddies For Comfort

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In buying children's clothing, look for health and comfort features along with looks and price. Buy clothing with fullness across the shoulders and chest for comfort. Necklines are best when low enough so they don't strain against the throat or pull down on the back of the neck, said the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

FORTHCOMING MARRIAGE of Miss Mary Ann Grubbs and Melvin Earl Woolsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Woolsey, Garrett Road, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Grubbs, 308 80th Street, Monroe. Your Problems

Nightly Dating Widow Isn't Feeling Grief

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Our niece, who is only 27, lost her young husband in a tragic accident six months ago. They had been married less than a year.

Her parents felt that Regina would be better off in another city—away from memories—so they asked if she could live with us until she found a job and an apartment of her own. We were delighted to help.

Regina has been with us four months. She found an excellent position as a bilingual secretary at $125 a week and seems to have recovered from her grief. She has a date almost every night.

The girl says nothing about finding her own apartment. In the meantime I am doing her washing and ironing and preparing her meals. She entertains in our home and hands me the grocery list for her parties. She has never offered to pay for anything — says she wouldn't insult us by suggesting our hospitality is purchasable.

We are pleased that Regina feels at home here but we think she should start to pay for room and board. On the other hand, she has suffered a great tragedy and we feel sorry for her. Advise us please. — JUST FOLKS

Dear Folks: If Regina is dating every night she has recovered. Suggest that she "insult" you with about $30 a week until she finds a place of her own — which will cost her at least twice as much.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the girl who has a weight problem. That makes two of us, only she is 19 and I am 14.

You suggested she see a physician or a counselor. My mother says I am too young to see a physician or a counselor. I am not arguing, because I know what my problem is.

I keep seeing pictures of starving kids from foreign countries. They are holding empty bowls and spoons and their eyes are so sad. This fractures me. Some weeks I give my whole allowance to missions but I still feel I'm not doing enough. I've already decided to join the Peace Corps.

I keep thinking of those starving kids and I can't stop eating. What shall I do? — FAT MISSIONARY FROM CANTON

Dear Mish: Try reverse psychology. Find some pictures of fat people. Whenever you feel like gorging yourself, look at a picture.

A fat missionary would have a very tough time in the jungle. For the sake of humanity you must keep your weight down.

If this doesn't work tell your mother that people of ALL ages need to be checked periodically by a doctor.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife is always shoving your column under my nose, especially when you have a letter about a husband who likes to drink beer and sit in front of the TV set. Please print this letter so I can shove it under her nose.

We have three good sons, the oldest 12, the youngest 7. Whenever one of them has a fight with a neighborhood kid my wife jumps right in, phoning mothers and going over in person to "make sure our boy comes out all right."

The kids always make up but my wife is not on speaking terms with half the neighborhood. Please print your advice. — THE OLD MAN

Dear Man: A mother who becomes involved in the petty squabbles of her children is more childish than they are.

Ask your wife to please wait until you get home before she "does anything." By then the trouble will have been settled—by the kids.

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Solon Faces Childish Mail

ST. MARIES, IDAHO (UPI) —Members of the fifth grade class at Heyburn school here are awaiting answers from their letters to their congressman. But it may take Rep. Compton I. White Jr., (D-Idaho) a while to dig up all the information the youngsters want.

Samples: "What is being done about poverty?" "What do you think about ugliness like old houses, boxes and papers?" "My teacher asked us to try to keep our letters friendly, but I have to ask you if our fair state of Idaho is doing anything about nuclear energy."

White has one advantage in answering the questions. The congressman has six children.

Hat Pins Replaced By Whistle-Safe Bracelet

AP Newsfeatures

How does a lady protect herself?

In the good old days a strong, long hat pin was weapon enough for some, and a wicked umbrella handled the mugging situation for others.

Ladies with time, energy and money to spend for such courses are taking up ju jitsu and karate these days.

For several years a pocket alarm system has been on the market which, when released, wails like an air raid siren. In most communities setting it off is against the law when not in actual danger.

Churches and charitable organizations are raising money for pet projects by selling "pepper" guns.

The fat pencil-like affairs fit handily into coat pockets. They also can be hidden in the palm of an ample hand.

When triggered a spray of chemicals renders the intruder momentarily helpless. The effect is not permanent or dangerous. The chemical aids in identifying a suspect, for it becomes visible under special light.

Fall Brides Will Favor Slim Lines

The fall bride will find that bridal gowns continue to favor the slim and plain silhouette. Consequently, the veil assumes new importance as a decoration for the gown.

The bridal silhouette continues to be Empire in feeling, with a high waist, semi-fitted body line and slim skirt in front. Some gowns have back fullness, or back trains, but the use of embroideries and jeweling is often completely lacking.

To decorate these gowns, the veil has become a floor-length affair, often with a train, with a mantilla effect around the face. Lace and raffia ribbon are used lavishly on some veils.

Newest veil is the St. Laurent floor-length cage, fastened to a small cap and rounding out around the gown, which is plainly styled.

Nuptials Unite Linda Barrett, Jimmy Peek

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Linda Ann Barrett and Jimmy Peek in a double ring ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Houma Lipsey of Monterey on Friday, May 21. Rev. C. F. Shirley performed the ceremony.

For her wedding the bride wore a pink linen suit with a three-quarter length coat of matching lace. White lizard pumps with matching hat and bag completed her costume and she wore a corsage of white carnations.

Miss Sandra Barrett attended her sister as maid of honor and serving as best man was Frank Smith.

At a reception which followed the ceremony Miss Julie Barrett and Miss Brenda Terrell alternated at the punch bowl and Mrs. C. F. Shirley served the wedding cake.

After a short wedding trip the couple will reside in Ferriday.

Wig Bank Newest Idea For Unused Hair Pieces

NEW YORK (UPI)—Millions of American women aren't keeping their wigs warm.

They bought the hairy toppings because it was stylish, because the wigs would keep them from spending long hot times under the dryer at the local beauty emporium.

Then, many found the wigs hot to wear or that their husbands didn't like them. Or, they tired of operating a taxi service from home to beauty salon to have the wigs washed, curled and combed.

The man who made all of these points in an interview, Julius Caruso, peddles wigs. But he isn't bent on wigicide—wigs killing themselves.

Rather, the New York hair stylist who caters to the curly and straight locks of blue book and entertainment world celebrities wants to keep the wigs alive by starting a wig bank.

Wants Wigs Donated

As he envisions it, the women who can't keep their wigs warm would donate same to a hospital or to an agency, such as the Red Cross.

The donated wigs would be used to help perk up the spirits of female patients who can't have their hair done during a long illness, including chronic ones that last a lifetime.

"Studies in some mental hospitals have shown that a new hair-do helps to pick up broken spirits," Caruso said. "A wig would do the same thing — especially on visiting day.

"Personally, I know of a number of persons who have loaned their wigs to relatives who have had either an illness or surgery that left them without hair or damaged their hair. It is a wonderful new use for all the wigs in the nation that are sitting in closets."

In announcing the fall of the wig fad, Caruso style consultant for the Miss Universe pageant and the Miss USA beauty contest, noted that women who have always needed wigs swear by them still.

"And they wear them," he said.

Some Are Delighted

Such women have baby fine hair and are delighted with the new dimension a wig gives them topside. They include, he said, some of the women who have made it to the executive suite of large firms.

With many other women, however, including those with a good head of hair, according to Caruso.

"It is time," he said, "that we gather up all the wigs that are going to waste and put them to a humanitarian use in hospitals.

"Looking well bolsters a patient's appearance, plus the spirits. Let's get the wigs out of the shelves in closets. Send the idle ones to a hospital."

CLEAN UPHOLSTERY

Leather upholstery may be cleaned with saddle soap, paste wax or leather preservative. Furniture polish is not recommended because it sometimes softens the surface of the leather.

HAM GARNISH

Special Scripture Goal Announced

Bible Societies around the world have set as one of their major goals a single text of the Scriptures which would be acceptable to all Christians, it was revealed recently in the 149th Annual Report of the American Bible Society.

The Societies are seeking "texts and versions less as a 'Roman Catholic' Bible, a 'Protestant' Bible or an 'Orthodox' Bible and more as a Bible from a common source and translated into all the languages of men," the report stated.

In preparation for the observance of its 150th Anniversary next year, it is planning to increase its annual distribution of volumes of Scripture to 75 million and is building a new Bible House in New York City at 61st St. and Broadway, adjacent to the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts. The new Bible House is expected to contain the world's largest library of Bibles and books about the Scriptures and to provide a worldwide center for Scripture translations.

Many Revisions

Many existing translations are in the process of revision, the report said. "Bible translators were more active in 1964 than at any time in history." More than 500 translation and revision projects are currently underway, with more than 3,000 persons directly engaged in Bible translations.

As the result of greatly increased literacy all over the world, the report said, the emphasis in translation has shifted areas of socio - economic levels of populations. "From the level of the new literate to the sophisticated university student, there are at least three major socio - economic dialects (representing levels of reading skill), each of which should have something of the Scriptures if the message of the Bible is to be acceptable and effective. A clear understanding of the Bible story on the level of one's ability to read is the essence of acceptable translation."

As a result of this view, new translations are being produced in simplified Spanish and English so that children and the newly - literate may understand the Bible more easily.

Languages Added

Sixteen languages were added to the total number of languages into which at least one book of the Bible has now been translated. The total at the end of 1964 was 1,282. Of these, the entire Bible has been translated into 236 languages and dialects, a whole Testament into 289, and at least a complete Gospel of other book into 707.

Countries where the new language translations are spoken include Peru, Mexico, Cameroun, Bolivia, Ghana, Philippines, Congo and Taiwan.

One of the year's major developments cited is the transfer of printing of the Scriptures to overseas locations. Approximately 25 per cent of Scripture production financed by the American Society is now being done abroad. "With political tensions and rising nationalism in many areas, this procedure is becoming mandatory," the report said.

Despite unsettled conditions in some parts of Africa and the war in Vietnam, distribution and translation are continuing there. In Vietnam, Dr. William A. Smalley, translations consultant to Southeast Asia, spent part of the year assisting in the translation of the Old Testament into Rade, which is spoken by about 100,000 persons in that country. Scripture distribution is increasing in the Congo, and distribution throughout the entire continent of Africa increased by about 60 per cent in 1964, the report said.

Other Plans

Other national Bible Societies also are planning to increase their Scripture distribution so that the worldwide total will be 150 million in 1966, with the American Society contributing half that amount. "For the first time in history," the Annual Report states, "it appears probably that modern methods of mass communication and distribution are equal to the task of keeping up with population growth."

The American Society distributed 25,341,912 volumes of Scriptures in the United States and 23,333,705 abroad for a total of 48,675,617 in 1964, as compared with 34 million in the previous year.

About 50 million persons in the United States have no copy of the Scriptures despite a domestic distribution of 42 per cent over the previous year, the report said. One state, Hawaii, has more followers of Oriental religions than Christianity, the report pointed out.

Other highlights from the report include:

A total of 65,834 Scriptures in Braille and Talking Bible Records was produced for the blind. The Bible was recorded for the first time in the Revised Standard Version.

The Society adopted the "boldest budget" in its history for 1965 - $6,348,000 or $448,000 more than for 1964.

Provided a total of 301,541 Scripture volumes to New York World's Fair visitors.

Appointed its first woman field secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth D. Newcomer, of Kansas City, Mo., in a new program of "Women's Activities" for this country.

News Briefs In Religion

LONDON (AP) — The Archbishop of Canterbury (Dr. Michael Ramsey), in agreement with the bishops concerned, has appointed a commission to study reorganization of Church of England dioceses in London and the southeastern corner of the country.

Some reorganization is needed because the Greater London local government area is being enlarged this year so as to take in slices from adjoining counties. Because of population shifts and other changes, some of the existing dioceses are too big and understaffed while others have too many churches for the population served.

The commission will seek to establish the size of a diocese as having a total of not less than 900,000 total population or a total of 200 parishes, with the proviso it may recommend exceptions in certain cases. Diocesan administration will also be studied as will the organization of other Churches — notably the Methodist Church, which may one day merge with the Church of England.

The dioceses affected are Canterbury, Chelmsford, Chichester, Guildford, London, Oxford, Portsmouth, Rochester, Southwark, St. Albans and Winchester. Their joint population at present exceeds 16 millions.

ADVERTISING THE GOSPEL

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Plans were announced by the American Lutheran Church for a newspaper advertising campaign in behalf of Christianity, described as the first official denominational program using that medium to promote the gospel.

The Rev. Lester F. Heins, the church's public relations director, said the ads, to be started in Midwestern Sunday papers this fall, will focus on basic Christian truths, without "denominational emphasis."

"The objective," he said, "will be to communicate the Christian faith in a warm and relevant way consistent with the prevailing ecumenical climate."

Church Gain Against Reds Is Reported

BUDAPEST (AP)—The Catholic Church in Hungary has not given up the struggle against communism and Church officials feel it is not doing too badly.

"We are a Catholic Church in a Socialist state and the tide runs against us for that reason," says Msgr. Zarakonyi, spokesman for Catholic Action here, "but it is up to the priests to preserve the balance, so far as they can."

Catholic Action occupies a good-sized group of offices in a well-constructed building on the "Pest" side of Budapest; on the left bank of the Danube. It has its own sign on the outer wall of the building and there is a lot of going and coming. The Church doesn't consider all is lost. It has lost a lot, of course, including most of its wealth.

By an agreement of 1950, signed under Communist pressure, the number of church schools was cut from 100 to eight—six for boys and two for girls.

Difficult

Msgr. Zarakonyi said it was hard to persuade young men to study for the clergy. The few who do are not meeting current needs, he said, "so if this level persists, we must count on a steadily aging clergy."

Zarakonyi is not the only one to report a kind of lassitude among the young people of Hungary. The Communist party says it is becoming more difficult to recruit young members and party membership is becoming older and older. Zarakonyi attributes it to a sort of existentialism — a refusal to accept responsibility for the general welfare. The youth of Hungary, he says, are resisting an organized life.

The Catholic Church is better off here than in Russia and some other Communist states. The churches are relatively well-maintained. Congregations like elsewhere in east Europe, tend to be middle-aged or elderly. If there is any discrimination against church-going youngsiers in getting into college it doesn't show outwardly. Of course, other things being equal, the son of a Communist is going to get a better break than the son of a church elder.

Some 70 per cent of the Hungarian population is inscribed as Catholic, mostly Roman but some Greek. Another 25 per cent is Calvinist or Lutheran. Jews, before the war numbering over 300,000, now are fewer than 60,000.

Work Outlined

As we sat drinking coffee and apricot brandy — both are brought out at almost every visit in Budapest — Msgr. Zarakonyi outlined what the Catholic Church was doing, what its troubles are. They are many. But he made one special point.

"The battle, while hard, is not altogether one-sided. It must be remembered that sermons are preached to 15,000 to 20,000 congregations throughout the land every Sunday." Not even the Communist party, he said, could match such a weekly campaign. Money is short, for church lands were nationalized. Few new books can be bought for Catholic reading rooms.

Zarakonyi didn't discuss one of the persistent problems in Hungary, the presence of Cardinal Jozsef Mindzsenty, in asylum in the American legation for the past nine years. It is a major problem, but both the church officials and the government feel it is somewhat bypassed.

The cardinal, now 73, refuses to leave unless he is recognized as head of the Hungarian church. The government won't approve it.

Under a new agreement between the government and the Vatican, the service of the clergy is precisely defined. The new bishops were appointed by the Vatican, which named only those acceptable to the Communist government.

The clergy are limited to religious work and must keep out of politics. As Zarakonyi defined it: "Our work is to bring bliss to Catholic souls and not to try to enter into conflict with the government."

Church Conducts Program Suited To Young And Old

The Jesus Only Apostolic Church, Church Drive, West Monroe, has an active program for its young people, as well as for those in the older age brackets.

The church was started in February, 1928 in a garage building in Bawcomville, by Elder W. T. Hemphill Sr. who has served as its pastor, except for a short period, since that time. The first deacon of the church was Eley Martin.

Elder Hemphill, who was pastor of a church at Winnsboro at that time, continued to guide both churches for several months, when he turned the duties here over to Elder Goosey. Three years later Elder Hemphill returned to the pastorate here and the church was moved to Brownville district, where it continued for seven and one-half years. From that location it was moved to 2900 block South Grand in Monroe. Some two years later the church was shifted to a site on Jonesboro Road, West Monroe.

Property Sold

Eventually the church building and lot on Jonesboro Road were sold and the church moved to its present location. A large well arranged frame building was built for the church, and placed in use on Christmas Day, 1950. Yellow buff brick veneer was added about two years ago.

The building and two acres of land on which it is located are debt free, said the pastor. The congregation hopes eventually to acquire more land and erect an open air tabernacle where summer camp meetings can be held. At present camp tables located under shade trees behind the church are used for dinner meetings and all day services. One held there recently attracted several hundred persons, pressing facilities to capacity use, said Elder Hemphill.

Speaking of the broad age range of members, the pastor said, "We still have several members of the original congregation when the church was established, and we have a good membership of both young and old."

This past week the young people of the church were adding volley ball and tennis court facilities, which are expected to be in use this week.

Musical Talent

The church, which holds about six revivals a year, has a large array of musical talent, said the pastor. There are four piano players, including his daughter, Gayle. There are a number of members who play stringed instruments. The pastor's son, David, plays the bass violin.

A number of preachers have gone out from the church congregation ranks. Some are pastoring and some are evangelizing. The church has three evangelists at present. They are Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Woolerson, and Ralph Beebe.

Two of the church's evangelists recently were called to pastor a church at Conway, Ark. They are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Franks, who also are talented musicians and singers.

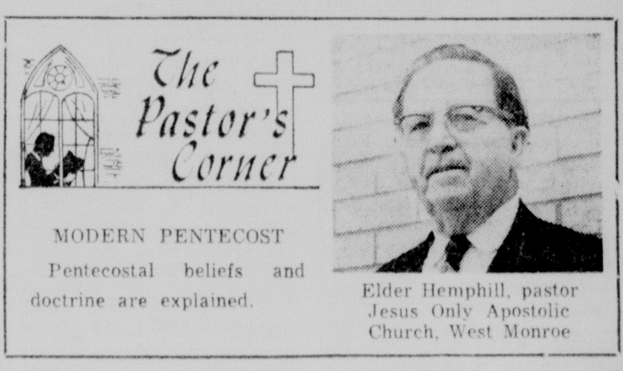

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wages handle the clerical duties of the church, Alsey Franks is Sunday school superintendent. Sister Kesler is in charge of leading women's prayer meetings. Mrs. Audrey Guess and Mrs. Earline Woolerson are young people's leaders, and said the pastor, "every consecrated brother from 21 years of age up serves as deacon."

Every Sunday morning from 8 to 8:30, the church broadcasts over radio station KUZN. Other activities scheduled on Sunday include, at 10-11:30 a.m., Bible study, Sunday school and Worship; 7:15 p.m., evangelistic service. Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., young people's service followed by teaching by the pastor. At 7:30 p.m. on Friday, there is a general preaching service.

Background

Elder Hemphill who is 72, but looks considerably younger, was born near Arcadia. He is married and has 12 children, three of whom are still living at home with the family. These include Brenda Diana, 13, David Ralph, 18, and Anna Gayle, 23. Two sons are pastors, Elder Joel W. Hemphill, pastor of church at Bastrop, and Elder Daniel Marcus Hemphill, Bude, Miss. Four of his daughters are married to ministers and one to a minister's son.

The pastor started exhorting and conducting prayer meetings at the age of 12, and started in the ministry in Franklin Parish at the age of 20. He has established churches in various sections of the state, in Mississippi, Texas, Arkansas and California. He now holds an honorary title as colonel bestowed by Gov. John McKeithen. He held similar titles twice in the administrations of the late Gov. Earl Long, and once under Gov. Jimmie Davis.

Elder Hemphill, pastor Jesus Only Apostolic Church, West Monroe

First, the term Pentecostal people, as used in modern times, is applicable to several groups of people, as the word, "Baptist" people; there are several divisions, or different groups, of Baptists — there are several groups, or divisions of Methodists.

So the words, "Pentecostal people" applies to every Religious group of people, that hold the truth of Acts 2:4, Acts 10:-44-46, Acts 19:1-6, and Mark 16:17, St. John 15:26, St. John 16:13, that when a believer receives the baptism of the Holy Ghost, even in these Modern times he, or they will speak with other tongues as they did on the day of Pentecost, and the foregoing scripture places.

Having been a member of the Pentecostal people for 52 years, I am sure I am in a position to give a summary of what and how true, modern Pentecostal people believe.

The most scriptural group of Pentecostal people are sometimes called Oneness Pentecostal, or Jesus Only Pentecostal, or Apostolic people to distinguish them from the less scriptural groups.

The most scriptural of these people believe that there is but one God: 1 Cor. 8:6, Eph. 4:6 and that He was manifested in Jesus: I Tim. 3:16, Isaiah 9:6, Matt. 1:18-23, and that He came to seek and save that which was lost and that we were all lost through the fall of our first father, Adam.

Must Believe

That a sinner must believe there is a God; Heb. 11:6 and that he is lost unless he shows repentance toward God, and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ, Acts 20:21.

We believe the first step toward getting saved is hearing the Gospel: Rom. 10:13-15, I Cor. 1:21; then repenting (which is a Godly sorrow and forsaking all sins) II Cor. 7:10, Matt. 3-2, Matt. 4:17, Acts 2:38, Luke 13.3 and Acts 17:30-31.

The next step is to be baptized in water, for the remission of sins, St. Mark 1:4, Acts 2:38, Luke 24:45-47, Acts 22:16, I Cor. 6:9-11.

The next step is to exercise faith to receive the baptism of the Holy Ghost (or Holy Spirit) Matt. 3:11, St. John 14:15-17, St. John 15:26, St. John 16:13, Acts 1:4-5, Acts 2:38.

We believe in water baptism by immerson only—Rom. 6:4-5, Col. 2:12, Mzatt. 3:6-16, St. John 3:23, Acts 8:38; and that only in the name of Jesus for that is the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, Phil. 2:9-10, Matt. 1:21, St. John 5:43, St. John 14:26, Luke 24:45-47, Acts 2:38, Acts 8:16, Acts 19:1-6.

We believe in following a clean holy life, before God and man, Heb. 12-14, Titus 2:11-12, II Pet. 3:9, II Cor. 7:1.

We believe that divine healing was set in the church for the healing of the church and those that would believe and that it still is in the church, I Cor. 12:28, James 5:14-15, Mark 16:18.

We believe that what the Lord commanded the apostles and they taught and practiced was given to the church age, Matt. 28-20, Acts 2:42, Eph. 2:20, Heb. 13:8, Rev. 22:18-19.

We believe that the Lord has had three sets of ministery: before the law for some 2,500 years, the Melchisedec priesthood (or ministry) Gen.14:18-20, II Peter 2:5, Heb. 7:1, and for the space of about 1,500 years during the law period, the Aaronic priesthood (or ministry) Exodus 28:1, Numb. 18:1-21.

New Testament

And since the setting up of the New Testament Church, the New Testament Priesthood (or ministry) and Christ the High Priest, Heb. 5:6-10, Heb., 6:20, Heb. 7:17, Psa. 110:4, Rev. 1:6, I Peter 2:5, Isaiah 61:6.

And that the Lord's ordained plan for the support of his ministry and church is and always has been tithes and offerings: I Cor. 9:14, Gen. 14:18-20, Heb. 7:1-2, Gen. 28:21-22, Num. 18:21, Levit. 27-30, Malc. 3:8-10, Matt. 23:23, St. John 8:39, Neh. 13:10-12, Heb. 7:1-5:9, Heb. 7:-12-17, Prov. 3:9, Acts 24-14, Malc. 3:8-10, Rev. 14:12.

We believe in the second coming and personal appearance of the Lord Jesus Christ, at the end of this age to set up His government on this earth and to rule as King Supreme, Acts 1:11, Acts 3:19-21, Dan 7:13, 21, 22, 27, Rev. 11:15, Rev. 19:11-21, Rev. 20:6, II Thes. 2:1-8, II Thes. 1:7-10, I Thes. 4-14-17, I Cor. 15.51-54, Luke 1:32-33.

We believe in a God - called, consecrated ministry. Heb. 5:4, John 3:27, I Cor. 12:28, Eph. 4:10-13, Titus 1:7-8, I Tim. 3:1-7.

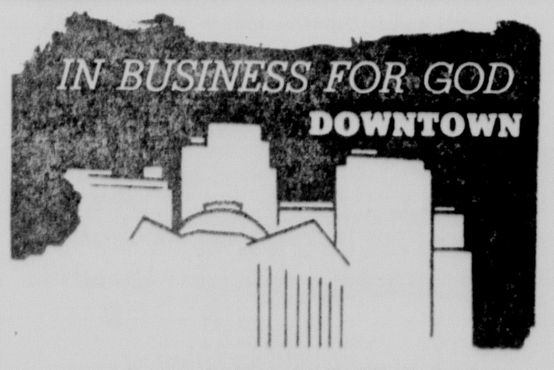

We believe in two General Resurrections of the dead, both of the just and of the Unjust, the first, at the second coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Last, a thousand years later, just before the White Throne Judgment. Acts 24:15, John, 5:28-29, Rev. 20-5-6, Dan. 12:2, I Cor. 15:22, 23, 52, I Thes. 4:13-18, Rev. 20:11-15.

The Bible said there would be wars and rumors of wars until the end, but for the Church and Christians of the Gospel Age (from the setting up of the Church on the Day of Pentecost, until the second coming of Jesus,) the Christian was to take no part in carnal wars, and bloodshed. Jesus said unto Peter "put up thy sword into his place, for all that take the sword shall perish with the sword."—Mat. 26:52. And again He said "My kingdom is not of this world, if it was, then would My servants fight." John 18:36. And Paul said "though we live in the flesh, we do not war after the flesh, for the weapons of our warfare are not carnal." II Cor. 10:3-4. And the Bible said "follow peace with all men." Heb. 12-14. Jesus said for the Christian to resist not evil. Matt. 5:39. And to love your enemies and do good to them that hate you. Matt. 5:44. So we do not believe in aiding, or abetting wars, or bloodshed. The church is to help make alive, and not to kill. The Church is to be a separate people, from all peoples of the earth, a peculiar peoples. I Pet. 2:9; II Cor. 6:14-17.

Vacation House Features Year-Around Comforts

By ANDY LANG

The vacation home market continues to grow. More and more persons are finding it desirable to invest in second homes. Increasing amounts of leisure time have made it practical to get away from it all for a while, something which could not be done easily when the man of the house worked six days a week and got very little time off for vacations and holidays.

Interlocked with the demand for more vacation homes is an upgrading of quality. Second homes these days are not the shack - like structures of years ago. Used to modern conveniences, home owners want many or all of them in their part-time residences. Also, some buyers see vacation houses as possible future retirement dwellings, while still others are interested in immediate year-round homes in lake, shore and mountain areas.

Fulfills Need

A house that fulfills these needs is Design H-85, a creation of architect Lester Cohen. It utilizes the A-frame plan, which has attained so much popularity because of its economy of construction as well as its interesting rustic appearance.

Inside the basic dimensions of 24' 10" by 37' 2" are a combination living-dining room, a kitchen, three bedrooms, three baths, a family room, a utility room and a garage — a lot more living area than might be supposed. But many persons would find an additional feature, the outside balcony, the most valuable asset of all. It stretches across the front of the house and halfway around one side.

The front of it can be reached through sliding glass doors from the living-dining room, the side of it from another part of the same room. Since this side entrance is close to the kitchen, that part of the balcony serves nicely as an outdoor dining deck. For getting onto the balcony without going into the house, there is an outside stairway not visible from the front. It's easy to see how the outside balcony could become the most popular part of this home.

Architect Cohen has been able to provide all the comforts of modern living in this modest-sized structure by a three-level arrangement. At grade level, sliding glass doors lead to a family room, with a bath, dressing room and fireplace. For indoor recreation or just relaxing, this informal section is ideal. By leaving the regular living area free for more formal occasions, housekeeping is made easier. In back of the family room are a utility room, a large amount of storage space and a garage.

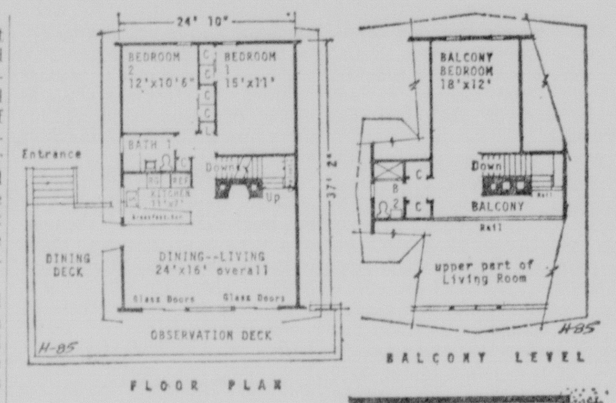

On First Floor

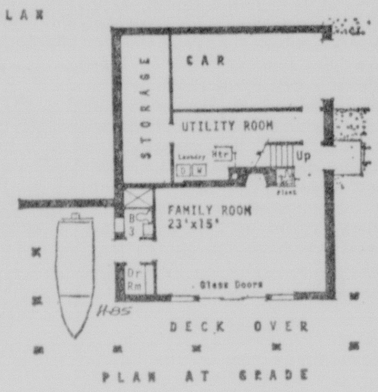

On the first floor, to the rear of the fireplaced living - dining room, are a kitchen, two baths and two bedrooms. The kitchen is small, but has a snack bar and a good layout of counters and appliances, making for efficience without a camping-out quality.

A bedroom with a private bathroom and two closets is on the balcony level. Since this room is 18' long, it could be used as a master bedroom, as a room for two children or as a guest room. In a neat arrangement, most of the stairway to the balcony is hidden behind the Chimney, making the railed balcony appear to be hanging in air.

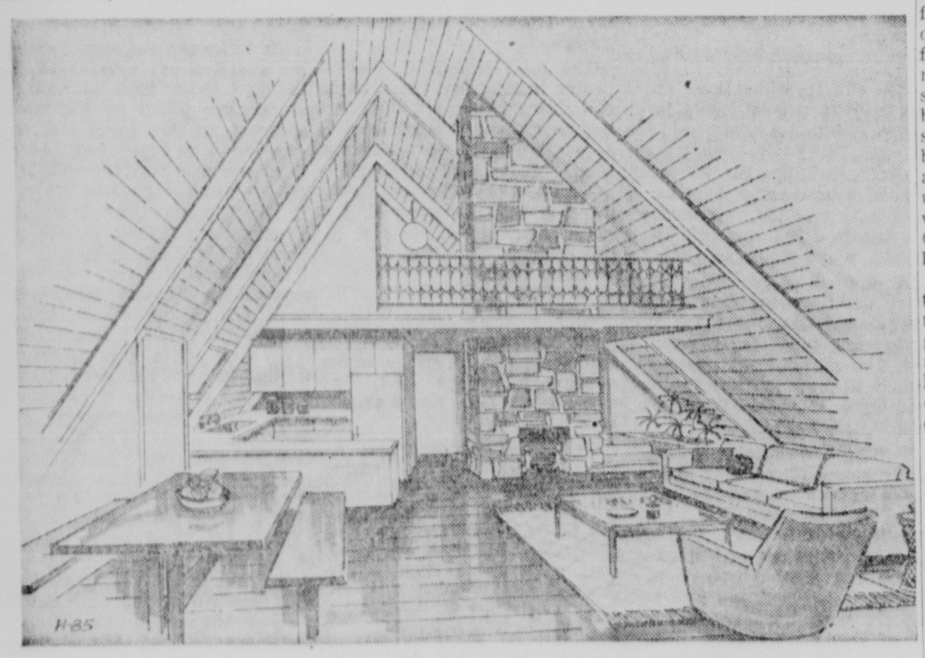

To the left of the house is what might be called a boat-port. Whether used for storing a boat or for any other purpose, it has an entrance to the lower level, a convenient setup since a bathroom and a dressing room are located just inside the doorway. The boat-port and the entire front of the house are covered by the outside balcony, providing an excellent spot for those who wish to relax outdoors yet stay out of the direct rays of the sun.

Vacation or permanent home, this design is for easy living.

FLOOR PLANS: A three-level layout permits all the main rooms of the house to be placed on one floor, with an extra bedroom and bath on a balcony, and a family room, dressing room, bath, utility room, storage area and garage at grade level.

VIEW FROM DECK: Looking through sliding glass doors from the outside balcony, one sees this combination living-dining room, fireplace, kitchen and inside balcony.

Vital Needs Of Plants

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

The showers have really helped bring our plants to life again. Remember that during the summer months, camellias and azaleas form flower buds. Healthy vigorous plants can be expected to set and properly flower buds, whereas weak struggling plants may not set or develop buds.

It's at this time of year that a lack of water and plant food may affect next winter's bloom crop. Remember to control plant pests. They, too, can damage next winter's bloom.

June is an excellent time to make cuttings of your favorite shrubs. Those may include photenia, sasanqua, pittosporum, yew, gardenia, and viburnum. Make cuttings four to six inches on current year's growth. Keep cutting moist until placed in rooting media. Dip the cut ends of cuttings in a root inducing material such as rootone, hormodin number one or hormodin number two. Keep cutting bed warm and moist, but well drained at all times. High humidity will also hasten rooting.

Prune climbing roses after they bloom. Prune out old wood. Next spring's blooms will come on wood which matures during this summer.

Here are suggestions for you, Mrs. Gardener, in using pesticide. Always read the label before using sprays or dusts. Note warnings and cautions before opening the container.

Always store sprays and dusts in original containers and keep them tightly closed. Never keep them in anything but the original container. Avoid inhaling sprays or dusts. When directed on the label, wear protective clothing and masks. Wash hands and face and change to clean clothing after spraying or dusting. Also, wash clothing each day before re-use.

President's Meeting

Mrs. Home Demonstration Club President don't forget your important meeting Friday, June 4, at 9:30-12:00 at the Agriculture Auditorium. You will be my guest for lunch. We will finish the meeting at 11:30 a.m. and lunch will be served immediately. Make your plans to attend and remain for lunch.

Ward 7 Winner

A great big thanks to the officers of the Home Demonstration Council who took time out from their busy homemaking job to tour the parish last Tuesday and inspect parish roads for cleanliness. The members who did the judging were: Mrs. A. C. Goodling vice president; Mrs. Frank Buce, secretary; Mrs. Glen Jones, reporter, and Mrs. C. R. Wilder, general director.

The committee was most complimentary of Curtis Joiner, Police Jury member who organized the parish clean-up campaign and the other police jury members for the work done. The parish roads were in real good shape except for most cases the daily throwing of litter from cars. After much deliberation, the committee declared Ward Seven first; Ward Four second, and Ward Two third place. M. W. Montgomery, Ward Three Police Jury Member, awarded Ward Seven chairman with a $25 Savings Bond for placing first place.

Webb Roberts, Police Jury member from Ward Seven selected Mrs. Florence Chambliss, Mrs. C. R. Wilder, and Mrs. Sam Crowell as members of his clean-up committee and they did a mighty fine job.

June Dairy Month

June Dairy Month is being celebrated for the 29th year which calls attention that there are many persons in Louisiana whose diets would be improved by using more milk and milk products. The mineral, calcium, most lacking in our diets, can be supplied by milk. Just a reminder, calcium is needed for formation of bones and teeth. Also, it is necessary for blood clotting, aids in controlling the passage of fluids through body cells and is responsible for contraction and relaxation of muscles. So you see, Mrs. Homemaker, regardless of your age, your body needs calcium.

Dairy products are a good source of protein. In fact, they contribute about one fourth of the total day's protein requirement. Proteins are needed to build and repair all tissues in the body and to help form antibiotics which help fight infection. At all ages protein is needed.

Milk is an excellent source of riboflavin B2. It is one of the essential nutrients for healthy skin and nerves and helps body cells to use other nutrients carried to them by the blood.

Garden Center Notes

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The guest arranger for the Fifth District Garden Center weekly program last Wednesday was Mrs. W. P. Condon, Greenville, Miss. Mrs. Condon, an accredited flower show judge, and past president of the Greenville Garden Club Council, and the Colonial Garden Club, is well known for her flower arranging lectures to the clubs in Mississippi and other states.

"Table Designs" was the theme of her program. Three lovely designs with the accessories were completely made before the show and described in detail. Another design, suitable for the ladies luncheon, was made on the program. This design featured blue larkspur and blue and pink hydrangea blossoms in a low ceramic bowl in blending colors of green, pink and blue. For accessories she used a figurine of a girl "April," whose dress was wind blown. Colors in this lovely figurine blended with the floral design.

This was placed on one side of the design while a grouping of three glass geese with heads together was placed on the other side. This was a clever use of lovely figurines that would give conversational material to a ladies luncheon table.

Massed Line

A formal tea table arrangement in a massed line design (fan - shaped) made of pink glads with large pink carnations against a filler of rich green leather fern featured a dresden container of three elaborate cherubs holding up a bowl. Four cherub figurines of matching dresden were used as accessories on each side of the design which was placed in the center of the large table. To give more formality, Mrs. Condon explained that the matching candle holders could be used with tall tapers in creamy white.

Another lovely table design featured an antique epergne, three red handblown glass flower holders on stems that anchored into a round mirror base. The flowers, roses and snapdragons, in colors of pink into deep red, reflected their colors in the mirror. A lovely design that would be suitable for the dessert table or centerpiece for a luncheon table.

A suggestion for matching china and glassware is the thumbnail pattern in red.

The last design was made for the patio table. Blooms from the oak leaf hydrangea formed a triangle design in a low earthern, rectangular bowl. The rich green leaves of the hydrangea formed a background for the flowers low in the design, also tied the flowers into the bowl. When used at night these flowers seem to glow in the low candle or lamplight, thus adding glamour to the table on the patio. The florets of this type flower form a cone shape that enables the arranger to use it as line material.

For accessories to this design two earthern brown ceramic owl containers with lighted candles inside were used to one side. Mrs. Condon told that these candle holders may be hung from the patio roof since there were holes for wire in the top of each owl. These made very appropriate accessories as well as useful candle holders giving just the right light needed for the patio supper.

This was a refreshing program that I am sure many enjoyed. Thanks, again, from each of us, Mrs. Condon, for your time and talent. We hope to have you again as our guest, and soon.

Have you seen the haemanthus (blood-lily) multiflorus that is now in full bloom at the garden center? This is a real sight to behold. The African bulb is quite showy and does best when planted in pots or buckets so that it can be brought into the house for winter.

NEW PRODUCTS

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Color's the key in new products — from orthodontic bands for youngsters to camouflage suits for hunters.

New orthodontic bands used to straighten children's teeth come in green, white, pink, yellow, tan, orange and blue — and for very practical reasons. Each color indicates a band of certain force, measured precisely to correct irregularities through pressure. The colors now make it easy for orthodontists to pick the right band instantly by using a handy measuring chart. Mothers will find it a relief to order replacement bands by color rather than trying to determine size when they all look alike and the children, of course, will find the colors fun.

A new, brilliantly colored camouflage suit for hunters makes the wearer stand out bright and clear to his fellow (and possibly trigger - happy) hunters, but keeps him almost invisible to animals. The red-on-red pattern of the camouflage suit was proved in four years of zoological and field testing. Suits are designed for the gun hunter and for the bow hunter.

Now soft color can bring new warmth to the traditionally stark white piano key. New plastic keys come in pastel yellow, blue, green, gold, pink, beige or red. Warm to the touch and extremely durable, the keys resist chipping and cracking and can be wiped clean. Keyboards can be color - keyed to help learners.

Coloring shoes to suit the mood of the moment has become as common as coloring fingernails — and now Mom can do the kiddies' shoes along with her own, using a special scuff-resistant formula guaranteed not to crack, chip or peel.

Refurbish shabby leather and vinyl furnishings with a new brush-on color coating that is said to restore or change color while conditioning the covering. A clear, protective coating, available in either glossy or matte finish, makes the recolored surface waterproof and dirt-resistant. Aerosol spray is available in 24 colors.

Northland's Plants Quick To Blossom

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — Blossoms in a hurry! The Digitalis and Shooting Star blossoms here think they are still in Alaska, with the very short Alaskan growing season, so have shot out of the ground and reached full bloom at a rate of speed calculated to get in "a lot of livin' " in a hurry.

Seed for the two beautiful species were brought from Fairbanks, Alaska, by James Cosby, Crossett's Junior High School Barth Science teacher, when he returned from a summer of study at the University there.

Climate Impact

In order to recreate the capricious climate of a spring in Alaska, Cosby gave his seeds three days of rather jerky life — alternately freezing them in his deepfreeze, and thawing them — for three days prior to planting. This rough treatment stimulated germination of the seeds, and after planting they showed tremendous growth rate.

Cosby observed that the digitalis plant hormones "must be fantastic to cause such fast growth. From the time the first bud showed to its full opening was just about a week. You could almost see the flowers opening." A fellow teacher intends to isolate some of the auxim (harmone or growht stimulant) and treat other plants with it to see what effect it will have on their growth.

The shooting star, a common wildflower of the Alaskan mountains, bears a close resemblance to the columbine. Its fiery bloom fills one end of the flower bed with the explosive color of real shooting stars. The digitalis develops into a cone - shaped mass of bloom on spikes two feet long. The heart stimulant of that name is extracted from its dried leaves.

Spectacular Native Trees

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

After the dogwoods have gone, another spectacular native southern tree covers itself with great heads of white flowers in our yards and gardens. This is the native catalpa, called the "fishingworm tree" by many people who, in their enthusiasm for the big worms they can get from the leaves, seem to ignore the fact that the catalpa is a stunningly beautiful thing on a lawn.

There are two wild catalpas in the south, but the showier one is the species named for the big family to which it belongs. This one is Catalpa bignonioides. The flowers are almost the same shape as those of the many vines called bignonia. The Indian name, catalpa, is said to mean the face of an animal, and, if you look at the flowers, you will see the eyes, nose and mouth of an animal.

Tall Trees

Many flowering trees are so tall that we can hardly see the blossoms at all. Even the unusual flowers of our tulip tree are carried so high that we have to wait for a storm to bring one down to see it. The catalpa, however, blooms right down where we can see and touch the flowers and pick the "beans" which follow them. The tree grows into a large mound wider than tall because, unlike those of most trees, the end shoots do not race ahead of the other branchlets. In fact, if you want a catalpa of any height, you must put a tall pole into the middle of your tree and tie one of the leading branches to it to keep it from bending down.

Moist Sites

Catalpas will grown in moist places or on the lawn. If you have a stream side or a lowish place where you would like a late spring flowering tree, a catalpa is just the thing. The wood of the catalpa is very resistant to rot even long after the trees are dead. At one time, the railroads had catalpas grown commercially for ties, and, when they can get them, farmers value catalpa posts highly for their durability.

In the landscape, the light yellowish green of catalpa leaves contrasts nicely with the various shades of green on other trees. This can be seen in public parks where catalpas stand out distinctly against their backgrounds. While this splendid flowering tree is short-lived—50 to 80 years—this is no great disadvantage because young specimens only a few years old flower regularly and grow rapidly into good sized trees.

If you are lucky enough to own an old catalpa, do not be too discouraged by its death because the wood is very beautiful. In Franklin Park, Columbus, Ohio, the other day, I admired the beautiful wood of an injured and dying old catalpa. From this one tree, a great many beautiful things could be made.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Sunday, May 30, the 150th day of 1965 with 215 to follow. This is Memorial Day.

The moon is new.

The morning star is Saturn.

The evening star is Mars.

American actress and author Cornelia Otis Skinner was born on this day in 1901.

On this day in history:

In 1431, Joan of Arc, the Maid of Orleans was burned at the stake in Rouen, France at the age of 19.

In 1883, an unfounded report that the Brooklyn Bridge was about to collapse resulted in an outbreak of panic and 12 persons were trampled to death.

In 1942, Britain's Royal Air Force made its first "thousand bomber" raid on the German target of Cologne.

In 1964, A. J. Foyt won the Indianapolis-500 road race. Drivers Eddie Sachs and Dave MacDonald were killed in a crackup on the second lap.

A thought for the day: Poet Ralph Waldo Emerson wrote: "A friend is a person with whom I may be sincere. Before him, I may think aloud."

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

QUESTION: I live in an old home and am about to replace the wood shingles on my roof with asphalt shingles. I have three questions. Must the wood shingles be removed first? How many squares of roofing material will I need? What is meant by heavyweight asphalt shingles?

ANSWER: Judging by the mail recently, a lot of persons are planning on reroofing in the months ahead. It would be costly and wasteful to remove the old roof. Asphalt shingles can be applied directly over them after first securely attaching any of the old shingles that may be loose. The extra thickness will give your home an additional measure of insulation. A square of roofing is enough to cover 100 square feet of roof.

Heavyweight asphalt shingles are those weighing 300 pounds or more per square. They last considerably longer than shingles of lighter weight. You did not say whether you intend to do the job yourself. Frankly, your questions indicate you may lack the experience and know-how to tackle the project. Roofing is highly specialized and can be dangerous if you don't know exactly what you are doing and lack the proper equipment. A long-time advocate of doing it yourself whenever possible, we nevertheless hesitate to recommend that a complete reroofing be undertaken by anyone except a professional.

BIG EARNINGS

NEW YORK (AP) — Without counting profits from the sale of its movie rights, "Hello, Dolly!" has thus far netted earnings of a half million dollars.

Under the film deal, the musical reportedly gets $2 million, plus a percentage after picture costs have been recovered. Forty per cent of this sum is shared by producer David Merrick and his backers; the balance goes to the authors.

Tops, Flops Of Broadway Are Recalled

EDITOR'S NOTE — There's gold on Broadway, and 10 shows found it this season to the tune of $7.3 million in profits. But five others died before making town, and 32 more failed, including "Kelly," a record bomb that lasted one night and lost $650,000. But the season brought much else to ponder.

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Highlights and footnotes of Broadway's just-completed production year:

There were 53 show arrivals, 10 less than during the 1963-64 season. Eighteen are still running, six probable hits and the rest hopeful.

Of the 35 exits, three made money. Five other exhibits costing $1.3 million collapsed before they got to town. On the bright side of the ledger, 10 long-runs completed engagements with a cool $7.3 million profit.

So much for the arithmetic which angels, agents, playwrights and promoters can mull as they prepare premieres for the season starting in September. Adorning the statistical aspects on array of major and minor happenings staked claims to audience attention.

This is an aisle-seat selection of tops, flops and flukes to be remembered:

Brightest musical performers: Zero Mostel in "Fiddler on the Roof"; Chita Rivera in "Bajour."

Best named show: "Fade Out-Fade In," which opened and closed twice.

Cleverest scenic stunt: The Baird puppets in Victorian jubille parade through "Baker Street."

Weirdest debut: Susan Carr, as a corpus delicti whose waxen immobility startled spectators at "The Physicists."

Swenson Passes Up Temperament

NEW YORK (AP) — Inga Swenson is passing up the temperamental path to theatrical fame.

"I'd probably be better known if I made a fuss sometimes," Broadway's quiet star concedes, without a trace of regret.

"People keep asking me when I'm going to lie down on the floor and scream. But getting all worked up is such a waste of time unless it's violently important.

"If I'm asked to do something I don't believe in, I just say no. No one ever doubts me when I say no. You get a lot farther that way, quicker and with less ulcers. Besides, having tantrums is like crying 'wolf.' No one pays attention after a while."

Don't get the notion there's anything wishy-washy about such cultivated serenity. "My kids," she adds of her sons, aged 11 and 5, "are terrified of me."

TWO FIGHTS

Miss Swenson, a 5-foot-9 blonde of outdoorsy Nordic good looks, has ranged the gamut from Shakespeare to musical comedy since arriving in New York nine years ago from Omaha. There hasn't been a single "big fight" with assorted directors.

"Some," she says, "I've disagreed with, but if you come to rehearsal with your homework well done, they'll generally let you go your own way in developing a part."

This season Miss Swenson is leading lady of "Baker Street," a song-and-dance exercise based upon several Sherlock Holmes stories. As a lusty turn-of-the-century stage belle, Miss Swenson romantically pursues the famed fiction detective, impersonated by Fritz Weaver.

The assignment has brought a quaint shift in her fan mail and she's now convinced that the stage door Johnny is not extinct.

"Their grandsons seem to have been waiting for me — or at least the actress I'm supposed to be in this show," says Miss Swenson. A steady stream of bouquets and "breathtaking" letters from many reaches her dressing room.

Such missives she blithely reads with Lowell Harris, the man she married when they were undergraduates at Northwestern. Both are trying to figure out the identity of the admirer who each week since the show opened has sent her a half-dozen yellow roses.

But there are moments when Miss Swenson lets off steam in private. This, she explains may be because for two years she's been working without vacation.

"Sometimes I wake up in the morning and just weep," she confesses. "To get over feeling rotten, I turn on a television soap opera and see how worse off everyone else is."

Her husband has sworn to have her salary delivered to her some Saturday at the Broadway theater in coins, hoping to impress her with the tangible rewards of stardom.

"I never see my check," asserts Miss Swenson. "My agent gives it to my husband and I get taxi money. Once a year the two of us go to our accountant's office and I sit very still while they get everything settled."

Although she prefers to let others handle fiscal details, there is nothing vague about her evaulation of other aspects of existence. She has passed up a number of film bids which followed appearance in two movies, "The Miracle Wroker" and "Advise and Consent."

"It's much more important to keep a private life. I am able to have that by limiting myself to the stage."

ELVIS PRESLEY croons a love song to Mary Ann Mobley in "Girl Happy", Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's romantic comedy now showing at the Jim Theatre. The Panavision and Metrocolor production also stars Shelly Fabares, Gary Crosby and Nita Talbot.

New Stamp To Feature Poet Dante

To honor the 700th anniversary of the birth of the Italian poet Dante Alighieri, the U. S. will issue a 5-cent commemorative stamp on July 17 with first-day ceremonies at San Francisco. The design features a likeness of Dante from a painting by an unknown 16th Century artist which hangs in the National Gallery of Art in Washington. Dante wears the laurel wreath symbolic of poetry. A banner above reads "700th anniversary."

Collectors desiring first - day cancellations of the Dante stamp may send their addressed envelopes, together with remittances to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, San Francisco, Calif., prior to July 17. The outside envelope should be marked "First - Day Covers Dante Stamp."

The Post Office Department also announced a change of plans for the Robert Fulton commemorative stamp on Aug. 19. The first day city was originally given as Albany, N. Y., but now will take place at Clermont, N. Y. First - day requests already sent to Albany will still be honored and transferred to Clermont.

Many nations have announced stamps honoring the centenary of the founding of the International Telecommunication Union. Ireland's design is rather unusual. It incorporates the symbol of the union together with a representation of the globe and a background of vertical lines representing the waves of communication. The inscription is in Irish and the dates 1865 - 1965 appear above.

Collectors in this country wishing first - day covers may write to Irish Cachet Covers, 947 East 32nd St., Brooklyn, N. Y. 11210. Cost of complete set on cover is 75 cents.

The United Nations stamps for the ITU anniversary come in two denominations, 5 cents and 11 cents. The design depicts the progress made since the early days of semaphore and morse code. The inscription reads: "From Semaphore to Satellite."

Collectors desiring first - day covers may send their requests to United Nations Postal Headquarters, United Nations, N.Y. Remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed must be in money order to certified check. Requests must be received prior to May 17.

The World Wide Philatelic Agency reports that Madame Chaing Kai-shek is pictured on a multicolored stamp issued by the Republic of China (Formosa). The stamp commemorates the 14th anniversary of the Chinese Women's Anti - Aggression League. The same design appears on two values. Also reported by the same agency is a new stamp from India honoring National Maritime Day and showing the steamship "Jalusha." The value of 15 naya paisa.

CURTAIN CALL

Today's matinee is the last chance for Little Theatre members to see "Mary, Mary," which has left Strauss Playhouse audiences laughing throughout its run. The box office will take reservations from 10:30 a.m. today and curtain time is 2:30 p.m.

Executive director Lonny Fraze leaves us at the end of this week to return to summer stock theatre near Pittsburgh, after which he hopes to complete work on his master's degree. Lonny came to Monroe two seasons ago as technical director and created the distinguished sets for "Auntie Mame," "The Glass Menagerie" and 'My Fair Lady," among others. He succeeded Richard Clark as executive director last fall and closes this season on the high note of "Mary, Mary."

Unique Mark

Like his predecessors, Lonny has left his own unique mark on our theatre. His shows have proved popular with our audiences and he has made a notable contribution to the growth of children's theatre here. He and his wife Pat have made a host of friends both in the theatre and outside and we all wish them well in their future career.

Still recovering from an automobile accident, technical director Chris West will take over final rehearsals of "The Panda and The Spy," which is scheduled to open at Strauss Playhouse on Wednesday, June 9, at 2:30 p.m. for a run of four matinees through Saturday, June 12, plus a single evening performance on Friday, June 11. Please note that the latter will have a curtain time of 7:30 p.m.

The box office for "The Panda and The Spy" will be open from 12 noon to 4 p.m. starting Tuesday, June 8, through the run of the show, except that on June 11 it will remain open until 7:30 p.m. for the evening performance. Tickets are 75 cents for students and $1 for adults. They may be obtained by mail order to Box 868 in advance, at the box office when it opens or at the door if any are left.

Tryouts

Try-outs for "The King And I," made up in talent what they lacked in numbers and demonstrated what a musical treat is in store for our summer audiences. Supplemental auditions have been held to accommodate some for whom the original dates were inconvenient, owing to illness and exam schedules, hence the only casting made definite so far is Ed Beakey as the King. A newcomer to Monroe, Ed has had previous experience in musicals elsewhere and we predict will delight everyone in the Yul Brynner role.

Others in the cast will be announced shortly, but we are still in need of male singers to take the part of nobles and other court attendants. A few additional women are also required as dancers and wives. Anyone interested may telephone Lonny Fraze or Chris West at FA 3-1235.

Honeymooning

Paul Bressoud, our guest director for "The King and I," is honeymooning on the high seas and is scheduled to arrive in Monroe on June 11. Other honeymooners are Jan and Bill Wells, who appeared together in "Sunday in New York," and who are now in Florida.

Former director Louis Guerriero has been playing in "Julius Caesar" at the famous Barter Theatre of Abingdon, Virginia, where Mrs. Lyndon Johnson was a recent spectator.

Tom Keller's appearances in "Uncle Harry," "Dracula," "Dial M For Murder," and "Mary, Mary," are now represented by Green Room tiles. This brings the total of major productions so commemorated to 108 out of 160 and leaves only eighteen vacant tiles until we find a way to enlarge the tile area. Among the better known earlier shows that still lack even a single tile are "Good-Bye Again," Outward Bound," "Ten Nights In a Bar Room," "Kind Lady," "Arsenic and Old Lace," "The Man Who Came To Dinner," "The Philadelphia Story," "The Voice of the Turtle," "The Moon Is Blue," "Anastasia," "Bus Stop," "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial," and "Mister Roberts."

NOEL COWARD ADMIRERS

NEW YORK (AP) — A group that has specialized in presenting avant-garde works is turning next to revival of Noel Coward comedies.

The plays are "Hay Fever," written in 1925; "Private Lives" (1930), and "Design for Living" (1932). They are to be staged in autumn repertory at off-Broadway's Cherry Lane Theater by the producing partnership of Richard Barr, Clinton Wilder and Edward Albee.

"We are avant-garde producers," says Barr, "but we discovered that each of us, independently, is a great Coward admirer, so we decided to go ahead."

State Graduates—What Prospects?

By DAVID ZINMAN
Associated Press Writer

Johnny graduates from high school this week. But no sooner does he get his diploma than he finds himself at a crossroad.

Johnny has a C average, and he wants to go to college in his home state of Louisiana. It's the biggest decision of his young life.

What are his prospects?

If he has his eye on Louisiana State University, or if he'll commute to a nearby state college —like McNeese State or Louisiana Tech — he'll probably get in.

If he's aiming at a prestige private university like Tulane, he probably won't make it.

A record crush of 1.4 million grown-up, post-war babies will jam U.S. campuses this autumn. Louisiana began to feel the squeeze in 1964. There's no letup in sight.

Here's what a spot survey shows is in store:

1. Louisiana's college population will double in this decade. In 1960, there were 42,000 state college students. College enrollment has now soared to 68,000. For 1970, the Public Affairs Research Council projects a total of 91,000. In 1940, less than 10,000 went to state colleges in Louisiana.

2. Despite the state's "open door" policy admitting all high school graduates to college, some state schools have had to reject applicants. The situation at Louisiana's 14 state-supported colleges ranges from schools nearing the saturation point to overcrowded colleges that have already turned students away.

These latter schools are Southeastern Louisiana College at Hammond, Northeast Louisiana State at Monroe, and Grambling College at Grambling. At Grambling, a Negro school near Shreveport, hundreds of rejected high school seniors flock to campus at fall registration—hoping an admitted applicant will cancel.

3. Louisiana's private colleges have not been engulfed by the student tidal wave—at least not directly. They have a selective League.

4. The student bulge is creating a teacher crisis. No school —public or private—is immune. It's tough to keep Louisiana's best teachers from being lured away by offers of higher pay and better facilities. It's equally hard just to keep pace with the student population. LSU, for example has to hire "moonlighting" high school chemistry teachers for night sessions.

If Johnny decides to go to LSU, how will he fare?

Louisiana State, which is administered by its own board of supervisors, has undergraduate commuter branches at Alexandria and New Orleans, in addition to its main campus at Baton Rouge.

Under the "open door" policy, Johnny needs only his high school diploma to get in. But once Johnny has been admitted, he'll have to toe the mark. That's something not every Louisiana high school senior can do.

At LSU in New Orleans, about 33 per cent of the freshman class flunked out last fall. And this pattern repeats itself at other state campuses.

Administrators say it costs Louisiana between $700-$1,000 to flunk a student. Because the state is scratching for money for new classrooms and dormitories, some educators think the student crush may force another look at the entrance policy.

"The open door policy exists because of strong philosophic views of some of the LSU board members," says George C. Brannon, LSUNO's academic affairs dean. "But it also exists because of political expediency and soft-headedness.

"My own personal view is that some kind of restrictive admissions policy is highly desirable—even if we had only a low cutoff. The University of California takes the top 12 per cent from its high schools. If we could cut off the bottom 12 per cent, we would be to some advantage."

Not everyone agrees. Theo F. Cangelosi, a Baton Rouge member of the LSU board, has championed the policy on the democratic theory that everyone should get his chance to go to college.

"It's entirely possible that if our student body multiplies 20 to 30 per cent," he said, "I'll have to face a hard, real fact. But I'm not satisfied we have good enough counseling and guidance for freshmen, or that enough attention is given to motivating students, or that professors are giving as much time to teaching as to research."

Another factor, Cangelosi said, may be "too much play" at LSU in Baton Rouge. The social whirl is bound to influence a youngster, he said.

"It could be that we should have something in the nature of a public prep school to school these kids who have transition difficulty," he added. "It's a tragedy when even one boy, that has the capacity, fails."

Nevertheless, for the first time, LSU at Baton Rouge may join Southeastern, Northeast and Grambling in turning away Louisiana applicants this fall.

The LSU board of supervisors last Monday said support of LSU falls nearly $5 million short of meeting bare necessities next fiscal year. Unless the legislature comes up with the money, the board warned the university may have to curtail enrollment.

It was the second time the warning has been voiced from a high echelon in the past two months.

In an interview with the New Orleans Times-Picayune, Dr. John A. Hunter, LSU president, said:

"Unless we get some help on the classroom space situation, this will be the last school term we will be able to take all qualified graduates."

To make more room for Louisianians, LSU has already raised admission standards for out-of-staters. Next fall, once welcome non-residents will have to pay a $310 semester tuition—highest ever—to $110 for state students.

Because of the classroom shortage, LSU's 1965 crop of freshmen will be getting up earlier and going to sleep later. Some classes may start at 7 a.m. If a freshman is lucky enough to get into a limited-space laboratory, he will be lighting his Bunsen burner far into the night.

At LSUNO, classes are overflowing into old Navy barracks. The faculty is already sitting in each other's laps. Three and four instructors are now crammed into offices meant for one.

Dean Branan says teachers are his chief concern.

"California says it can absorb the entire country's Ph. D. supply in five years," Branan said. "They're right. Ph.D.'s just aren't being provided fast enough to meet the need. We're already feeling the pinch.

"Once you get them, the problem is to keep them," he said. "Our national rating is 'C' in terms of average and minimum salaries. Every year, more schools are moving into the upper category. If you can't hold your Ph.D.'s, you end up being a kind of training agency."

Record Budget Hike

Spending Boost Expected

By SAM HANNA
Legislative Correspondent

Gov. John J. McKeithen will call on the Legislature to increase the $905-million general appropriations bill when the solons return Monday for the fourth week of the fiscal session.

This will mean an increase in the record $1-billion budget.

McKeithen scheduled meetings with his administration leaders today at the mansion to look over $9-million in requests for additional spending.

The Senate finance committee took the requests under advisement Thursday.

From the outset the general appropriations bill was $904-million, but the House appropriations committee added over $1-million, later approved by the House.

This pushed the budget over its original figure of $1.011-billion, plus-some, and apparently the budget will go even higher if the requests on the Senate-side are approved.

Lawmakers could raise some interesting questions.

For instance, spokesmen for the Division of Administration, while explaining the budget to the press, pointed out the budget contained an anticipated surplus of only $47,000.

What happens to that tiny surplus with the additional funds from both the House and Senate?

Under law, the governor must present a balanced budget to the Legislature, which seldom raises any serious objections to the budget. Answers, of course, will be forthcoming, if anyone asks how a $47,000 surplus can be maintained if several million dollars are added.

When the House returns at 11 a.m. Monday, a bill by Reps. Maurice Landrieu and Charles Smithers of New Orleans to abolish the fiscal session will be considered as the special order of the day.

Rep. Richard Guidry of Lafourche Parish has amendments to cut the fiscal sessions to 20 days rather than 30, then add 10 days to the 60-day general sessions.

This reflects the many different attitudes toward the sessions among lawmakers. It also indicates the chances of abolishing the fiscal sessions are slim in the current session.

The Senate has a similar bill abolishing fiscal sessions by Sen. Ted Hickey of New Orleans.

After the Senate meets at 4 p.m. Monday, the solons will troop out to U. S. Sen. Russell B. Long's farm near Baton Rouge for a barbecue, which is becoming an annual event for the Legislature.

McKeithen will be on hand to help Long welcome the honored guests.

One thing noticeable at this session is the lack of representation on the part of some organizations and associations, which send their men to the Legislature when bills of particular interest to them are up for consideration.

For instance, normally when a bill hurting or helping a particular interest is introduced in the Legislature, that group floods the capitol with representatives to lobby the lawmakers.

Several of those groups are not being adquately represented at this session. In short, they're not on the scene because they don't have a bill.

But, on the other hand, these same groups will complain about labor's influence with the Legislature. Yet labor has its men, led by president Victor Bussie, at the capitol at all sessions, from daylight to dark.

Bussie and his men keep in constant touch with the solons, putting labor in a good position to be heard when that vital bill comes up for consideration.

Associations that get their ears trimmed back by labor shouldn't complain when they stay away just because they don't have a bill in the session.

Except for the Senate's adoption of the budget — and with amendments the budget will have to get the House's concurrence — the big bills are out of the way.

McKeithen's $140 - million bond issue has been sent to his desk. The governor's succession bill has passed.

One bill, however, that is sure to touch off fireworks Monday is a measure by Rep. T. J. Strother of Allen Parish to increase the lawmakers' monthly expenses from $250 to $500.

Lawmakers presently get $250 per month when they're not in session, $50 per day when they are in session.

With all the fuss of pay raises, the lawmakers aren't about to pass Strother's bill, which the House has voted to introduce but not to pass.

Also, McKeithen's 10-man committee studying the numerous pay raises bills meets at 2 p.m. today in Baton Rouge to give its report Monday to the Legislature and the governor.

McKeithen, at his press conference Thursday, denied he promised any group a pay raise, but there are others who say he did.

Of local interest, the Caddo Parish delegation has a bill creating a medical school at Shreveport. McKeithen was quoted as telling a large Shreveport delegation last week he supported creating the medical school in Shreveport.

Most Drivers Prefer Informational Signs

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) —Petroleum marketers were told this week most traveling motorists apparently have some preferences that conflict with beautification standards set for the interstate highway system.

A recent survey indicates most traveling motorists would prefer more gasoline and service station signs along the interstate highway system than the national standards allow.

Results of the survey conducted in California, Oregon, Washington, and Arizona by the Western Oil and Gas Association included:

1. About 81 per cent of the 3,516 traveling motorists interviewed thought each state should permit service stations to have highway informational or advertising signs.

2. The suggested distance between stations and such signs was most often within a range of two miles or less.

3. Nearly half of those who thought highway signs were the best method for alerting motorists also favored more than one sign per station.

4. About 92 per cent favored signs identifying gasolines by brand.

Results of the survey were placed before the mid-year meeting of the American Petroleum Institute's Division of Marketing.

R. G. Gardner of the Standard Oil Co. of California summarized the report of the division's marketing research committee this way:

"In the interests of highway safety and motorists' convenience, we feel these views should be supported and recognized. . .

"The importance of beautiful highways is apparent—but beautiful highways must be practical—and the traveling motorist needs to know where he can find his brand of gasoline."

The Federal Aid Highways Act establishes national standards for highway signs and advertising. Each state can increase its federal aid by 0.5 per cent by complying with the standards.

A VERY SPECIAL

ANNOUNCEMENT

President Johnson has proposed that if a reduction in the present 10% Federal Excise Tax on new passenger automobiles is adopted this year, it be made retroactive to retail purchases of new passenger automobiles after May 14, 1965.

This is to inform our customers that the manufacturer will refund to qualified retail purchasers the amount by which the tax may be eventually reduced.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

IF YOU sew a lot and have dozens of leftover cards of rickrack, bias tape, binding, braid, etc., cluttering the sewing drawer .... don't despair. I've found a cure.

I use the empty tube from waxed paper, plastic wrap and such, and neatly wrap the odds and ends around the tube, then fasten them with cellophane tape or masking tape.

I covered the box itself with adhesive-backed plastic paper and now have an attractive box to store the tube in.

Jean Edwards

OPEN TRUNK LINE

DEAR HELOISE:

I have noticed many women (and men, too) driving with a large package in the trunk of the car. . . . and the trunk lid flopping in the breeze.

If you want to prevent this, buy an inexpensive screen-door spring! Hook one end on the inside of the trunk lid, bring it down over the bumper and hook the other end on the bottom of the bumper. If you prefer, use two springs. They won't mar the finish on the bumper, and the trunk lid stays put. When finished with the springs, just put them in the trunk of the car for the next job.

Reader

Sir, you might not know it, but you have probably saved a life. That rear-view window is to see through.

Heloise

[illegible]

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's a different way to serve hors d'oeuvres:

Take a whole grapefruit (unpeeled) and insert toothpicks in the peel. Stick an hor d'oeuvre on the end of each toothpick. Afterwards, if someone wants to eat the grapefruit . . . go ahead!

Candace Dolan

DEAR CANDACE:

Have you ever heard of covering a grapefruit with foil—sunny side up—before using this trick? Also, if you slice off a wee bit of the bottom of the grapefruit, it won't tumble all over the plate.

I recently saw one of the biggest hotels in the world serve tiny pickles and green olives stabbed into a beautiful shiny red apple that had been greased with oil. It was a knockout!

On another tray they had covered some bananas with foil (some were not covered) and used them for tidbits of meat on colored toothpicks. It was a lulu, too.

Heloise

[illegible]

DEAR HELOISE:

Don't throw away a hot-water bottle that has sprung a leak.

Just stuff it with old nylon stockings, press the air out and screw in the stopper.

Then see what a fine kneeling pad you have for gardening! Can be washed in a jiff, too.

Admirer

WALLPAPER TRICK

DEAR HELOISE:

When hanging wallpaper, I use a piece of string with a lead weight attached to the bottom and hang the string from the molding or ceiling line in the room.

This weighted string acts as a guide, and your wallpaper will always hang straight

John Repo

FANCY TOUCH

DEAR HELOISE:

I always keep a cake decorator filled with mayonnaise in my refrigerator. Then when I serve sliced tomatoes, gelatin salads, or fancy sandwiches it is handy to make quick decorations! Try it.

Millie McMullen

[illegible]

DEAR HELOISE:

I would like to share a tip that I feel will help you as much as it has me:

I glued pieces of felt to the bottoms of a canister set. Now there is no noise when moving them and they don't scar or mark my white counter top. It's been a great improvement.

One could use old felt hats for this.

Mrs. LaVon Ferguson

This feature is written for you . . . the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share . . . write to Heloise today in care of this newspaper. 5-30

DEAR HELOISE:

I ordered a large cake for my father's birthday . . . It was so big that I knew if I tried to cut it with a knife, I would have a mess.

So I took a length of regular sewing thread and doubled it, and then pulled it down through the center of the cake, cutting it in half. Then I used the thread again to cut the cake in quarters.

After that I could cut the cake easily with a knife.

Mrs. E. L. Crume, Jr.

IT'S A FRAME-UP

DEAR HELOISE:

To keep pictures straight on the wall, I wrap a piece of masking tape around my index finger a few times (sticky side out), making a small ring. Then I put the tape on the back of the frame near the bottom and press it against the wall.

The picture will stick to the wall and won't have to be straightened every time it is dusted. The masking tape is easy to remove from the wall and leaves no mark on the paint.

Doris Sulfaro

RECORD FINDER

DEAR HELOISE:

When I was dusting my husband's record collection, I noticed some of the older albums had come apart at the seams. . . . so I hit on the idea of using colored cloth tape to put them back together.

Then another idea struck me. . . . I could use various colors, depending on the contents of the album.

Examples: Red tape for hot, swinging music. Blue tape for blues albums. Green tape for his cool jazz. Yellow tape for light-hearted music.

Now I keep each color together. There's a color index on the lowest record shelf, so my husband can tell at a glance where the particular music is that he wants to listen to.

Mrs. Don Byers

* * *

HOW DID YOU TWO GET A HELICOPTER TO FLY HERE, WITHOUT STIRRING UP SUSPICION?

IT IS ONE OF YOUR MANY AIRCRAFT STILL STORED AT ONE OF YOUR OLD ESTATES!

YEAH? YOU DON'T SAY!! I THOUGHT BEFORE NOW THE GHOULS WOULD HAVE TAKEN EVERYTHING I EVER OWNED!

YOUR ESTATE STILL IS IN LITIGATION! ONE POSSIBLE BLESSING OF THE LAW'S DELAYS!

GEE! IT WAS GREAT OF YOU FELLAS T'BRING GOOD CLOTHES FOR "DADDY"; BUT WHERE DID Y'FIND TH' DI'MOND?

THERE ARE BUSHELS OF SUCH GEMS IN A SECURE HIDING PLACE!

WELL, GUESS I HAVE EVERYTHING; ORE SAMPLES, CLAIM PAPERS TO FILE; SOCKS AND CLEAN SHIRTS! GOOD-BY FOR A FEW DAYS, ANNIE! WITH PUNJAB HERE, YOU'LL BE SAFE!

I JUST HOPE YOU'LL BE SAFE, "DADDY"!

HOW FAR ARE "DADDY" AND TH' ASP GOIN' IN THAT 'COPTER?

ONLY TO A SECLUDED FIELD OVER THE RIDGE!

BY RADIO FROM THE 'COPTER WE ARRANGED FOR A JET TO MEET THEM THERE, BRINGING GUARDS AND MORE SUPPLIES, WHICH THE 'COPTER WILL FERRY BACK HERE!

WHAT IF FOLKS NOTICE 'EM FLYIN' IN HERE AND TALK!

THAT IS UNLIKELY! THE PILOT IS AN OLD HAND; MOSTLY HE'LL FLY AT NIGHT WITH NO LIGHTS, AND ALWAYS BY A DIFFERENT ROUTE!

YEAH! THAT'S SMART, IF HE DOESN'T HIT A MOUNTAIN; AND I GUESS THERE ARE MIGHTY FEW FOLKS BELOW TO SEE HIM, AND EVEN FEWER FOR 'EM TO TELL!

ANYWAY, SOON THE MEN AND SUPPLIES WILL ALL BE HERE!

LATER, THE RENDEZVOUS AT THE SECLUDED FIELD HAS BEEN MADE; AND THE POWERFUL JET STREAKS HIGH THROUGH THE STARRY SKY···TO WHAT···?

AH, IT'S GOOD TO BE BACK IN HARNESS, EH, ASP?

IT IS LIKE OLD TIMES!

WIPED OUT; BEATEN DOWN! WHY MUST I START OVER, TO TRY TO BATTLE BACK? WHY? SUCCESS? WHAT REALLY IS SUCCESS?

IT IS SAID, SUCCESS FOR EACH MAN IS WHAT HE IS WILLING TO SETTLE FOR.

HM-M··· WELL, WHAT AM I WILLING TO SETTLE FOR? YOU KNOW, ASP, I'M AFRAID I'LL NEVER LIVE LONG ENOUGH TO REACH THAT GOAL!
